HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The 2002 Farm Show has begun.

Touted by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture as the "largest indoor agricultural event in America," the show kicks off today with a variety of shows and competitions, including swine judging and other farm commodity exhibits.

The fun will continue through Thursday, Jan. 10, with between 350,000 and 500,000 people expected to attend, depending on weather conditions, said Dennis Grumbine, Farm Show director.

The start of the event this year fell as close as possible to New Year's Day, making exhibitors scramble more than usual to get set up on time, Grumbine noted.

"Things are a little hectic right now," he said Wednesday, three days before the show opened to the public. "But we'll survive."

With construction now in progress for the new $76 million Farm Show Complex expansion — including a new horse barn, exposition hall, and large arena, a new 2,400-space parking lot has been constructed to the east of the complex, along Elmerton Avenue.

New parking accomodations will compensate for the space taken over by the new construc-

MIDDLETOWN (Dauphin Co.) — Start with a ring. Add top livestock competitors from across Pennsylvania. Mix in lots of food, a little snow, craft exhibits, a butter sculpture, throngs of people, and there you have it. The Pennsylvania Farm Show.

The Brandt sisters of Windy Hill Farm know the lure of the commonwealth's largest agricultural event. They will be returning to the Farm Show Complex this January looking for show ring or showmanship success.

Lynn, a junior at Lower Dauphin School District, and Amy, in eighth grade at Lower Dauphin Middle School, will take their sheep and hogs to Harrisburg. This will be Lynn's sixth year and Amy's fourth year at the commmonwealth's competition.

In addition to the Farm Show, they also exhibit their animals at

New York Eggs

ATLANTA, GA.
Report Supplied By USDA

Dual prices★ as changes in pricing terms are effective as of today. The market tone was generally steady. Demand into all channels ranged moderate to instances good, best where winter weather increased consumer shopping. Supplies were usually adequate for full trade needs. The New York State shell egg inventory was 5% less and the New Jersey inventory was 29% lower than the previous week.

PRICES TO RETAILERS, SALES TO VOLUME BUYERS, USDA GRADE A AND GRADE A, WHITE EGGS IN CARTONS, DELIVERED STORE DOOR, CENTS PER DOZEN.

ADJUSTED PRICES: RANGE: EXTRA LARGE 65-69, LARGE 63-67, MEDIUM 50-54.

PREVIOUS PRICES: RANGE: EXTRA LARGE 69-71, LARGE 66-69, MEDIUM 53-56.

★Effective January 2, 2002, the Prices to Retailers series covering the cartoned eggs delivered into retailers' warehouses or directly to outlets will be adjusted to reflect changes in pricing terms. Previously unidentified changes in some pricing terms were found during a review of current data collection and prices reporting procedures. Market News will continue to monitor this egg price series and change prices as dictated by pricing procedures used by the egg industry. The prices reported do not reflect marketing allowances. As adjustments are made in individual reports comprising the Prices to Retailers series, the applicable report will include prices both with and without the adjustments on the day the adjustments are made. All affected reports will be adjusted by January 7.

North Atlantic Eggs

Atlanta, Georgia
Report Supplied by USDA
January 2, 2002

Dual prices for Philadelphia as changes in pricing terms are effective as of today. In Boston and New England, prices remained unchanged. The market tone was generally steady. Demand into all outlets ranged moderate to at times good. Supplies were usually adequate for full trade requirements. The New England shell egg inventory was 7% less than last Monday. The Pennsylvania inventory was 39% higher, but the Delaware/Maryland inventory was 28% lower than last week. Breaking stock offerings were ample for the light demand. Light type fowl were at least adequate for the fair demand.

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer

ATLANTA, GA.
Report Supplied By USDA

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was fair to moderate and was generally noted as sufficient in keeping current production well cleared. Live supplies were mostly moderate; weights were mostly desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were curtailed today and plants planned to close tomorrow, Tuesday in observance of the New Year. Less than trucklot asking prices were 1 cent higher at 51 to 65 cents. Trade sentiment was fully steady to firm. In the parts complex, wings remained short of an active call. Other cuts were at least adequate for immediate needs, particularly bone-in breasts and tenders.

Northeast Broiler Fryer Parts Part I

ATLANTA, GA.
Report Supplied By USDA

Trucklot buying activity was light entering the week as dealers attmempted to keep floorstocks to a minimum due to Tuesday holiday downtime Offerings of bone-in breasts were readily available, although, the sharper discounting centered around last week's production. Boneless-skinless breasts were fully adequate. Dark meat cuts were at least sufficient Wings remained the best item and were short of full needs. Movement through retail and distributive channels was about fair, and was best for the occasional promotion. The market tone remained firm on wings, barely steady on bone-in breasts and about steady on the balance.

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC — THIS WEEK WITH

NEW MOON, JAN. 13

TWO-HEADED JANUS

Ruler of new beginnings, gates and doors the first hour of the day, the first day of the month, and the first month of the year, the Roman god Janus gave January its name He was pictured as two-headed, both heads bearded, and situated so that one head looked forward into the New Year while the other took a retrospective view Janus also presided over the temple of peace, where the doors were opened only during wartime It was a place of safety where new beginnings and new resolutions could be forged, just as the New Year is a time for new objectives and renewed commitments to longtime goals

By wisdom peace, by peace plenty.

TIP OF THE WEEK

Good time to check snow tires, antifreeze, and other winter driving essentials.

BAKED VIDALIA ONIONS

4 large Vidalia onions
1 4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup chicken or vegetable broth
1 4 cup bread crumbs

Peel and slice the onions 1/4 inch thick Saute the onions in the butter until they re soft Stir in the flour, then slowly add the broth Spoon the mixture into a buttered baking dish and top with bread crumbs Bake at 325°F for 25 minutes

Makes 4 to 6 servings

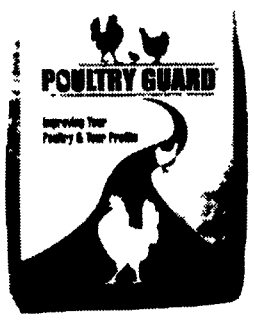
POULTRY GUARD™
LITTER AMENDMENT

New Poultry Guard™ Litter Amendment is a unique activated clay that delivers consistent ammonia control without the handling inconvenience associated with other poultry litter treatments.

Unlike these other treatments, Poultry Guard Litter Amendment is easy and convenient to apply and needs no incorporation or activation Fewer application variables mean more consistent performance In addition, Poultry Guard can be applied up to five days before bird set, whenever it's convenient for the grower



Using Poultry Guard Litter Amendment Is As Simple As...

Apply
Simply spread over poultry litter.
• No incorporation
• No moisture activation
• No complicated instructions for heating and ventilation in conjunction with application

Bird Set
Poultry Guard can be applied when it's most convenient, up to five days before bird set.
• No application timing headaches between clean out and bird set
• No last minute application after equipment has been lowered

Control Ammonia
Poultry Guard will deliver immediate and long-term ammonia control and give birds a healthier growing environment.
• No more dangerously high levels of ammonia to stunt growth

You be the judge! We are confident this litter amendment will improve your poultry and your profits.

OPINION

Farm Show And 4-H 'Conversations'

We have heard numerous stories about how much of an impact 4-H membership has had on adults, their lifestyles and careers. And the many "4-H Farm Show" success stories have molded many a personality, countless minds.

National 4-H will begin celebrating its centennial with "conversations" on youth development. Youth and adults in 3,067 communities across the nation will identify critical youth-development strategies for this century.

"Young people need the kind of hope that will help them aspire to become the best they can be," said Marilyn Corbin, Penn State Cooperative Extension and Outreach state program leader for children, youth, and families. "4-H is nationally recognized as one of the foremost youth organizations in the country. With a strong local program that draws on the strengths of a statewide and nationwide organization, 4-H is uniquely positioned to help youth in this complex information age."

Delegates will be chosen at sessions all over the state to carry concerns to the state meetings.

During this year's Farm Show, the Pennsylvania State Conversation on Youth Development will be conducted.

Local conversations will establish the foundation for the statewide conversation. From the state meeting, delegates will be chosen to represent Pennsylvania at the national meeting in Washington, D.C., Feb. 23-March 3. The national event is expected to draw about 2,500 participants.

Don Floyd, president and CEO of National 4-H Council, noted that the centennial won't simply feature a huge granite monument. Rather, "in the tradition of 4-H, we're creating an action plan for families, youth leaders, and communities across the nation" to guide 4-H into the coming century.

The goal: 72 delegates from Pennsylvania to the national conversation, according to Michael Martin, Pennsylvania state coordinator for the 4-H centennial. The mission: send three representatives from each congressional district and three at large.

Check our Farm Show schedule in our special section this week for meeting times.

4-H represents 123,220 members in the state and about seven million members in the U.S.

If you are a 4-H member or alumnus, you might want to be part of this event. Certainly, like any critical national program, 4-H needs and invites your experience and input.

Lancaster Farming extends its best wishes to all the 4-H members and families attending the 2002 Farm Show, the state's premier agricultural event for youth and families.

To Use Chain Saws Safely

As you head to the woods to restock your firewood supply, having proper safety equipment is an important step in preventing accidents.

Peter Finamore, chairman of John Deere Consumer Products product safety, recommends the following items. Proper protective equipment should start with chain saw-resistant boots. Steel-toed boots with chain saw-resistant tops layered with ballistic nylon can slow the action of a chain saw enough to give you precious time to react and save yourself from disaster. Cut-resistant gloves protect you from the saw as well as wood shards.

Sound resistant hearing protection is important to prevent hearing loss. A hard hat is important to protect against flying debris and falling limbs. A face shield protects against flying chips. Even with a face shield on a hard hat, however, safety glasses are still needed for adequate eye protection. Chain saw chaps are important to protect your legs. The outer surface works to keep you dry. The inner surface of ballistic nylon will choke a chain saw before it can reach your leg.

Of course, good maintenace on the saw itself is an important step in safety. Make sure the safety shutoff is working and the chain guard is in place. Also keep the chain sharp. When cutting, position yourself so your limbs are not directly in the way if the saw kicks back from the wood.

To Participate In The USDA Dairy Health Survey

Representatives from the USDA will visit area dairies in January to conduct the initial survey for Dairy 2002, a national study of health and health management practices at U.S. dairies.

Conducted by the USDA's National Animal Health Monitoring System (NAHMS), Dairy 2002 is a continuation of studies that address priority issues of the U.S. dairy industry. Preliminary data will be published by NAHMS in August 2002.

Data collectors from USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) will begin the study by contacting about 4,000 dairy producers in 21 states, including 390 operations in Pennsylvania. These states represent 83 percent of U.S. dairy herds and 85 percent of U.S. dairy cows. The data collected is summarized and used in regional and national estimates.

Objectives of the study serve to:

- Describe management strategies that prevent or reduce the prevalence of Johne's Disease and identify how these strategies have changed since 1996.
- Evaluate management factors associated with key food safety pathogens in U.S. dairy cattle.
- Describe the level of understanding and preparedness of U.S. dairy producers to respond to threats of foreign animal diseases.
- Describe biosecurity practices and trends on U.S. dairy operations.
- Describe baseline dairy cattle health and management practices used on U.S. dairies and the changes in these practices since 1996.
- Describe animal waste handling systems used on U.S. dairies.
- Describe U.S. dairy producers' attitudes towards, and uses of, animal identification

In 1991, NAHMS conducted the Dairy Heifer Evaluation Project (DHEP), leading to baseline information on heifer health, illnesses, and management practices, and prevalence estimates for Cryptospordium, Eschericia coli 0157:H7 and Salmonella.

The NAHMS' Dairy '96 study built on the DHEP. Objectives of the Dairy '96 study included acquiring national prevalence estimates of Mycobacterium paratuberculosis (Johne's disease), bovine leukosis virus, and fecal shedding of E.coli 0157 and Salmonella in adult dairy cows.

Baseline dairy cattle health and management practices were also studied to examine changes since the DHEP. Levels of participation in quality assurance programs, the incidence of digital dermatitis, and a profile of animal waste handling systems used on U.S. dairy operations were also examined. The Dairy 2002 study will continue to address these important issues. Selected producers may choose to receive an additional contact by a Veterinary Medical Officer from the Animal and Plant health Inspection Service who will explain the second phase of the study.

Participation in the Dairy 2002 study is strictly voluntary. NAHMS data and operations where the data were collected are always confidential and not included in national databases. For more information on Dairy 2002, visit the Website at www.aphia.usda.gov/vs/ceah/cahm.

Editor:

The passing of Dr. John H. Swartz Jr. was a loss to agriculture. Many of us had the pleasure of watching John develop from adolescence to adulthood. We watched him sharpen his skills in 4-H. He won several awards in public speaking and later pursued his formal education in the field of agriculture.

It is truly fitting that a memorial be established in John's name. The new Adams County Agricultural and Natural Resources Center is a perfect place to honor him, since John was born and raised in Adams County.

Donating to a memorial will provide a way for all of us to remember him. A memorial contribution will be set aside in an endowment fund to purchase the land the building occupies from the county when the mortgage is paid off.

Please mail all contributions to the Adams County Conservation District, 670 Old Harrisburg Road, Suite 201, Gettysburg, PA 17325-3404 and make sure your check is marked "Memorial Fund Dr. John H. Swartz Jr."

EPIPHANY 2002!

Background Scripture:
Isaiah 60 through 61.
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 60:17-22.

Apart from today being Sunday, Jan. 6, 2002, do you know what day it is? It is Epiphany (ee-PIFF-eny), one of the most important — if not one of the most neglected — days in the Christian year.

As you read this, our Christmas tree here in Dallas will still be up and lighted, because we celebrate the traditional 12 days of Christmas and tonight is Twelfth Night. Tonight there will be 20 or so of our friends here for our annual Epiphany party.

Why, you might ask, do we extend our observance Christmas for 12 days and then observe Epiphany? Is it simply a tradition? Not at all. We believe that, despite Christmas decorations and advertising now coming close on the heels of Halloween, the observance of the deeper meaning of Christmas becomes more shallow every year.

At our house, we observe Epiphany each year because it reminds forgetful Christians, ourselves included, just what Epiphany means. It comes from a Greek word meaning "manifestation" or "appearance" and, if you are Greek Orthodox, you certainly know what Epiphany is all about: the revealing of Christ to the world.

It is based upon the visit of the Wise Men (Matthew 3) to the infant Jesus. As these men were not Jews, but foreigners, their visit indicates the global, even cosmic significance of the coming of Christ. Epiphany may be called by different names: the Theophany, Feast of the Manifestation, Twelfth Night, Day of the Three Kings, Old Christmas, or Feast of Lights.

Arise, Shine!

The Epiphany of Jesus is linked to the prophecies of Isaiah: "Arise, shine, for your light has come and the glory of the Lord has risen upon you" (60:1). We remember also Isaiah 9:2: "The people who walked in darkness have seen a great light; those who dwelt in a land of deep darkness, on them has light shined." The star that guided the wise men to Jesus is symbolic of the light that guides us to the manifestation of God in Christ.

The light of this star is not sent to Christians alone, but to people everywhere who "walk in darkness." But, if many, perhaps most, Christians are unaware of the Epiphany message, then what makes us think that Epiphany is either known or understood by those who are not Christians? Good question — I'm glad you asked.

Epiphany is intended not only for us to enjoy, but to manifest to others. Like most messages from God, this message carries with it a challenge from God. Isaiah tells the people of Israel, "... but ... his glory will be seen upon you. And nations shall come to your light, and kings to the brightness of your arising" (60:2). This is what Jesus told his disciples: "You are the light of the world ... Let your light so shine before me, that they may see your good works and give glory to your Father who is in heaven" (Matt. 5:16).

To Make Manifest

My computer thesaurus lists the following synonyms for "manifestation": display, demonstration, exhibition, show, materialization, and revelation. Each of these speak to our Epiphany challenge.

In our lives we need to display Christ and demonstrate what Jesus has done for us. Our lives should be a living exhibition of who and what Jesus is in our lives. How we live will show others the Christ who works in us. Our lives must be a materialization of what Jesus can do with us and, as Christ is a revelation to us, we must make the way we live a revelation of his presence.

It is very likely that Jesus regarded both Isaiah 60 and 61 as normative for his mission: "... the Lord has anointed me to bring good tidings to the afflicted; he has sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives and the opening of the prison to those who are bound, to proclaim the year of the Lord's favor, and the day of vengeance for our God to comfort all who mourn ..." (61:1,2).

The servant role that Jesus took upon himself is the same servant role to which he calls us so that, not only may we see his Epiphany light, but that we may be it for others.

Is your Epiphany light shining?

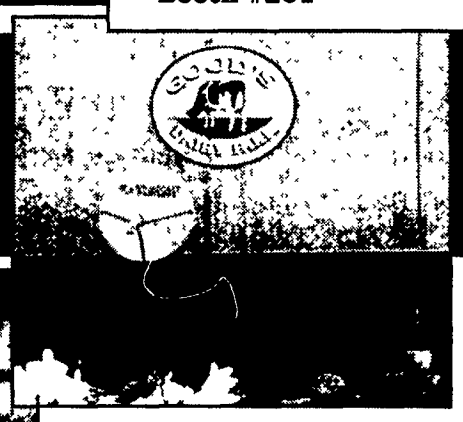
"The biggest benefit is the labor savings."



"My only regret is that I wish I had made the pit under the barn deeper."

"In my previous barn, I scraped two times a day; and I was tired of it, not to mention the danger to the cows if a cable snapped. I thought I would not be able to justify the additional cost until my builder suggested a design change which brought the cost down relatively close to the original design

The biggest benefit to me is the labor savings. Two people can handle all the chores for our herd. I save money not only on labor but also on repairs.

The cows' hooves are healthier, and they show heat better because they are not afraid of slipping. During the five years with slats, I have not lost a single heifer from slipping. The cows stay much cleaner, even with my misting system for cooling them. The water has a place to escape."

Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO
Report Supplied By USDA

Daily National Grain Market Summary

Grain and soybean bids were mostly lower on the last trading day of 2001.

Export inspection figures were below expectations except for corn. However, wet weather in South America over the weekend pushed corn and soybean bids downward.

Wheat 1 to 2 cents lower. Corn 1 to 2 cents lower. Sorghum 1 to 2 cents higher. Soybeans mostly 2 to 4 cents lower with Central Il 2 to 3 cents higher.

Grains inspected for export for week ended 12/27/01: Wheat totaled 14.8 million bushels down 4.9, corn 33.2 up 4.4, sorghum 3.8 down 4.6, and soy- beans 23.2 down 20.1 million bushels compared to a week ago. Year to Date: Wheat totaled 593.6 down 61.4, corn 564.9 down 56.4, sorghum 76.6 up 12.6, and soybeans 468.2 up 54.5. Crop marketing years begin June 1 for wheat and September 1 for corn, sorghum, and soybeans.

EXPORT SALES: PURCHASER COMMODITY TONNAGE DELIVERY DATE Nothing new to report.

National Feeder Cattle Weekly Summary

St. Joseph, Mo.
Report Supplied By USDA

NATIONAL FEEDER CATTLE SUMMARY for week ending Dec. 28. Due to low auction and direct trade receipts during the Holiday week a trend was not established, and a report will not be published today. Auction barn and direct trade activity was very quiet this week. Feeder and live cattle futures traded in an abbreviated session on Monday, and closed out the week with modest gains. Direct feedyard trade has not been established at the time of this report. This report will resume on Friday, Jan. 4.

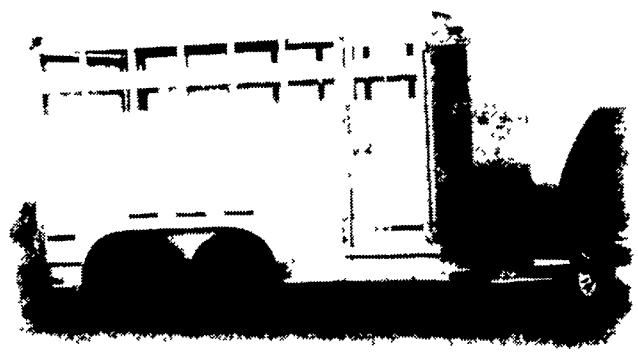
LS Series: the Real Value in Aluminum Livestock Trailers
Available in: 13' & 16' Bumper Hitch models, and a 16' Gooseneck Model.

16'L x 6'5"W x 6'6"H Gooseneck, also available in 7' height
The versatile, light-weight and affordable Maverick LS Series has been introduced to provide the small to mid-size farm and livestock operations with the benefits of Eby all-aluminum construction. These models feature a reduced width (6'5") for improved visibility and handling–they are designed to be pulled with lighter duty trucks and SUVs.

16'L x 6'5"W x 6'6"H Bumper Hitch, also available in 7' height


13'L x 6'5"W x 6'6"H Bumper Hitch, also available in 7' height
Engineered for durable performance for a wide range of livestock, these trailers are built without compromising Eby's standards.
Production economies bring Maverick LS prices within reach of steel, so even the occasional user can afford the added benefits of low maintenance aluminum with its longer life and higher resale value.

A Dry Cow Booster That Costs 7¢ a Day

Hoffmans Horse and Cattle Powder is an ideal tonic for cows over freshening. Feed 6 wks. before freshening. 1 Tablespoon a day (Two weeks over freshening, feed 1 Tablespoon in the morning & 1 Tablespoon in evening)

Cows will clean better after freshening. Cows have a lower somatic cell count and will have less mastitus problems. Great for reproduction tract and cows will cycle better after freshening. Will help rumen function over freshing. Less feet problems and less stress

This is an over-all good booster if fed to dry cows, and it will pay you big dividends

Spot prices of class II cream, dollars per lb. butterfat F O B. producing plants Northeast· 1.6616-1.7956. Delivered Equivalent· Atlanta. 1.6348-1 8090 mostly 1 6750-1 7152.

PRICES OF CONDENSED SKIM, dollars per lb wet solids, F O B producing plants Northeast Class II, includes monthly formula prices 1 0000-1 0800, Class III - spot prices - 9200-1 0100

SPOT SHIPMENTS OF GRADE A MILK FLORIDA This week - In 11, Out 00, last week - In 0, Out 0, last year - In 0, Out 20 SOUTHEAST STATES This week - In 0, Out 0, last week - In 0, Out 0, last year - In 0, Out 0

Milk production is steady to higher with the most notable increases appearing in the Northeast. While less milk was handled this week compared to the Christmas holiday week, some plants are reporting higher intakes than they have seen in the last 2 years Excess milk was apparently more problematic because many cheese and ice cream plants gave extra leave time to employees this year, closing plants and usual outlets for milk Some distressed loads were reportedly cleared over the weekend. Class I sales are mixed Movement in the Northeast is mostly lackluster with sale increases anticipated as bottling plants begin to reschedule for school sessions. In areas of the South, Class I sales are generally good as a snow storm excites demand Milk shipments out of Florida are lower due in part to the increased interest during the storm. Milk into Class IV facilities is heavy with some locations handling supplies adequately and others burdened by the excess.

The condensed skim market tone is steady to weak. Class II condensed prices, which are primarily benchmarked on the milk formula, are unchanged Class III condensed prices are lower with some offering prices being reported as low as 70 cents. Condensed skim demand is mixed with some good interest being expressed by cheese plants in the Midwest.

Cream supplies are in better balance than the week prior as ice cream plants re-open and take in excess supplies. Prices are higher yet multiples are unchanged, reflecting the higher AA CME butter price Demand is steady into churns More butter is expected to be churned in the next few weeks as the production of seasonal holiday items subsides tion and provide a total of 1,200 more parking spaces than before, Grumbine said.

Along with the usual shuttle parking offered by adjoining Harrisburg Area Community College, Farm Show staff is confident of being able to handle all visitors — including the weekend crowd, traditionally larger than on weekdays.

"We've got a system in place that functions," Grumbine said.

Historically, 15 to 20 percent of Farm Show visitors have come from outside Pennsylvania. This year will probably be no exception, according to Grumbine.

Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Sam Hayes announced last week that the Farm Show recently won three international awards presented by the International Association of Fairs and Expositions.

"The Pennsylvania Farm Show showcases the very best of Pennsylvania agriculture," Hayes said. "Visitors can see the latest agriculture technologies and learn about Pennsylvania's agricultural traditions. All Pennsylvanians can feel proud that our state Farm Show recently earned significant international recognition."

The Farm Show earned top awards in its division for best overall programs for both competitive and commercial agricultural exhibitors, and for best nonfair agricultural event.

"These international awards mark the most prestigious recognition ever bestowed on our show," Director Grumbine said.

This year, in addition to longtime Farm Show favorites including supreme champion livestock and dairy selections, junior market animal competitions, the sale of champions, butter and cheese sculptures, baking contests, livestock scholarship awards, and the sheep-to-shawl contest, the Farm Show features a lineup of new events. These include:

- A youth championship woodcarving contest
- Vegetable bread contest
- Market goats in the junior livestock sale
- An FFA farm equipment verbal presentation
- The appearance of world renown wildlife artist Gerald W. Putt
- A wreath contest in the craft show
- Honey product competitions
- A breast cancer exhibit
- 4-H centennial celebration.

A record $315,000 in premiums are being offered to livestock and agricultural product exhibitors this year.

The Farm Show features more than 8,000 entries in about 31 departments, including some 5,000 head of livestock, and more than 325 commercial exhibitors.

Other highlights include 4-H and FFA exhibits, cooking demonstrations, a horticulture center, an interactive environmental exhibit, and a working milking parlor.

Food, a traditional favorite at the Farm Show, will be supplied in abundance by 11 commodity associations, featuring the tastes of Pennsylvania's finest ag products.

Poultry exhibits have been cancelled at this year's Farm Show because several cases of avian influenza were discovered in the state in December.

Farm Show events and features are detailed in numerous articles appearing in this issue of Lancaster Farming.

THE FARM EXECUTIVE FOR THE 21ST CENTURY

To provide farmers and agribusiness managers the competitive edge in today's rapidly changing business world, The Lancaster Chamber will present the ninth annual Farm Business Management School featuring Dr. Danny Klinefelter, professor and extension economist at Texas A&M University, on Feb. 5-6.

Dr. Klinefelter will present a series of seminars on "The Farm Executive for the 21st Century." The commercial farmer in the 21st Century will have to be more than just a good manager and a top producer. He/she will have to operate more like a CEO.

Based on a 10-year study of the participants in The Executive Program for Agriculture Producers (TEPAP), Dr. Klinefelter will discuss the attributes that separate the best from the rest.

Klinefelter specializes in agriculture finance and management development at Texas A&M University. He is also director of TEPAP, and co-director of the Texas A&M Family and Owner-Managed Business Program and the Texas Tech Agricultural Lending School. Roger C. Garber, Garber Farms, who attended the nationally recognized Executive Program, commented, 'Professor Klinefelter will bring an opportunity for attendees to think outside the box. He will undoubtedly have many examples of what is working profitably for others in agriculture, and will bring a depth of knowledge that seminar attendees will be able to absorb and take home to apply to their respective organizations."

The first day of the Farm School on Feb. 5, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Leola Family Restaurant will focus on top producer strategies and best practices, value-added business plans, and attributes of successful family businesses. This segment will focus on these ideas and practices that many farmers could implement. When looking at the strategies and best practices of top producers, the most successful operators tend to be innovators. Many of their ideas and practices are drawn from things they have seen in businesses outside of agriculture and then adapted to fit their situation.

From 4-H To Farm Show, Brandt Sisters Have Show Ring, Showmanship Success

the Elizabethtown Fair and the 4-H Roundup.

During the regular show season the sisters also exhibit dairy beef and are planning to add beef animals to their show string in the upcoming year. They are the daughters of Dale and Lynette Brandt, leaders of the Lower Dauphin's 4-H livestock club.

The girls were a part of 4-H before their parents, both raised on dairy farms, decided to lead the club. Both of them have learned as they led, thanks to help from other parents, family friends, and extension agents.

According to Dale, when Lynn first started raising sheep they had the lamb up to market weight by its first weighing — way too early for the show season. The family has come a long way in knowing about exhibiting animals since then.

Besides leading 4-H, Lynette is one of the directors of the Elizabethtown Fair board. The family, which owns the farm in partnership with Lynette's father, Richard Alwine, milks 90 cows and owns 200 acres.

Lynn began her show career by purchasing three sheep "just because I like them," she said.

"The next thing we knew we had 30 head and we were showing them," said Lynette. The Brandts picked Suffolk sheep after noting the success the breed experienced in the show ring.

The lambs are walked every other day or more frequently starting in November, and each sister will take one market lamb to compete at the Farm Show.

While Lynn started the family showing sheep, Amy introduced hogs to the family four years ago. "That was the year we experimented — Lynn got a steer and I got a pig," said Amy. The family now has three sows, one boar, and a few gilts.

Lynn has now had the champion hog at the Elizabethtown Fair for the past two years, and Amy had the champion hog the year before that. The sisters exhibit crossbred hogs.

The animals are less labor-intensive than sheep, said Amy. However she does take them outside on the farm lane's stones "to keep their feet healthy," she said. She also "laps them" in the alleyways of a former milking barn to improve their muscle tone.

"We also watch the feed," said Lynette. "We check their weight periodically on the scales."

Although their father showed hogs when he as younger, the family has also used advice from friends who helped them pick hogs at the club sale.

The last few years Windy Hill Farm has been on the Scrapie program, which restricts where the Brandts buy stock, so they buy mostly breeding stock and show homebred animals. "We try to breed, raise, and show our own animals," said Lynette.

At each Farm Show the sisters hope to have their animals "make sale," since the top one-third of the hogs and one-half of the sheep are auctioned off while the rest go to the packer.

The Farm Show isn't only about show rings for the sisters, however. Last year Amy won a first place in her division in the relatively new young shepherd's contest. Scoring is a tally of a combination of Skill-a-thon, showmanship, and meat class points. She took home a first place in the youth sheep Skill-a-thon that helped to move her to the top of her division. One hundred participants compete each year in several divisions.

Both girls have participated in the contest the past three years.

In addition to exhibiting animals and participating in showmanship and Skill-a-thon activities, the Brandt sisters sell Farm Show programs and help maintain the Farm Show's flowers for their 4-H club. Each year the Dauphin County 4-H Club, which conducts its roundup at the Farm Show Complex, raises money by taking care of the flowers during the event.

Although they live nearby and will come home to sleep, they plan to spend much of the week in Harrisburg, as they bring in the hogs on Sunday and stay through Thursday's auction.

Besides competition and working for their 4-H club, however, the sisters are drawn to the Farm Show because they enjoying friends they may not see often, besides participating in shows, Skill-a-thons and 4-H activities.

"The Farm Show is the whole package," said Lynette. "They not only do shows but in between they fill in with whatever comes up."

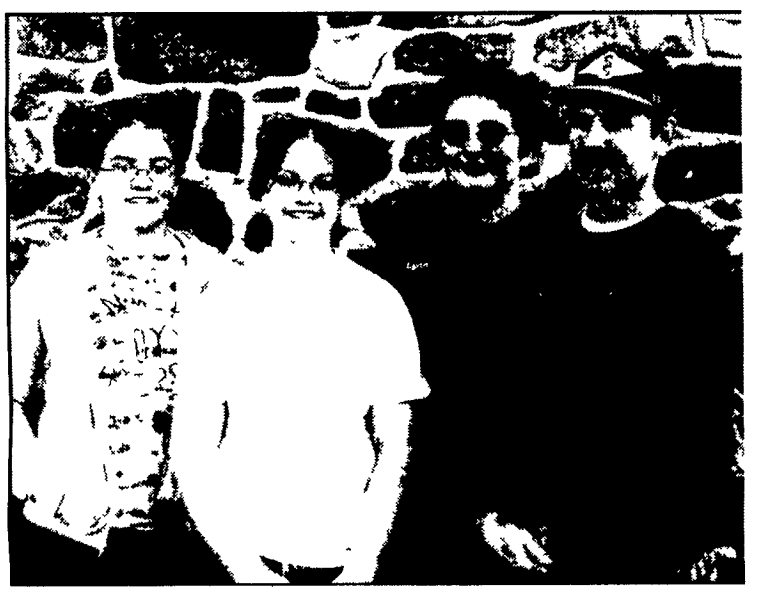
"They water plants, watch their friends show, or work on fitting — there's always something going on," said Dale.

In addition, the notched-up level of competition and greater number of competitors provide a challenge that the sisters enjoy.

The general public provides a good opportunity for education that is sometimes "good for a laugh," said Lynn.

"We are surprised with what they don't know," said Lynette. "We hear kids' questions coming out of adults' mouths. We take for granted that people have seen pigs and cows, but that's not always the case."

After two more years of exhibiting animals, Lynn plans to go to college and work toward an education degree. Amy plans to continue exhibiting until her 4-H eligibility is over. She is planning on moving toward a career as a small-animal veterinarian.



Lynn, left, and Amy Brandt are joined by their parents Dale and Lynette Brandt, leaders of the Lower Dauphin 4-H Livestock Club.

The Brandt sisters plan to compete not only in the Farm Show's sheep classes but also hog and showmanship contests.

Herefords Breed Of Choice For Newlin Family's Farm Show Hopes

Danielle and Kyle Newlin will be showing their Herefords at the Farm Show this year. They are joined by their father, Tom.

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

GAP (Lancaster Co.) — How many acres does it take to raise homebred, purebred, registered Herefords for the show ring?

Only two, according to the Newlin family.

How many years of experience does it take to work up to a 10-show circuit, including the Farm Show?

Only two, according to the Newlin family.

How many heifers does it take to start a show-ring string?

Only two, according to the Newlin family.

How many exhibitors in a family does it take to show their cattle?

Only two.... well, you know the rest.

New To The Scene

Kyle, a freshman at Octorara High School and Danielle, 12, in seventh grade at Octorara Middle School, are headed into their third year of exhibiting animals and have enjoyed learning the ropes of livestock competition. They are looking forward to competing at the Farm Show in Harrisburg.

Although they live 15 minutes away, almost every day after school Kyle and Danielle find themselves traveling to a rented two-acre pasture where their seven purebred, registered Herefords make their home. The siblings show their cattle under the "Newlin Polled Herefords" name. The family chose the Hereford breed "because they're easy to work with," said Danielle.

Their father, Tom, a general contractor who grew up on a cattle feeding operation, had Herefords when he was young. Their mother, Fran, exhibited horses when she was young.

The Newlins started renting the acreage four years ago.

Beginning with two Hereford heifers, the family's herd grew each year with the calf crop. Soon "we started to show calves," said Danielle, as "two years ago we got in 4-H," added Kyle.

They are members of the Chester County 4-H Club.

"We liked to come look at the animals," said Danielle. "Dad heard about 4-H and said we should try it and we said OK."

The 4-H experience has been a great opportunity, they both believe. While Kyle enjoys meeting people and making friends through the club, Danielle finds the challenge of being in the ring exciting.

"Fitting is hard — you get hair in your sweater and it pricks you," she said. "I like to set them up and show them in front of the judge. I'm not nervous because I only have to focus on one person."

Kyle also likes the challenge of the showmanship classes.

"We try to come out every night and walk them in the pen," said Danielle. When the calves become more manageable they will be circled in the field for practice.

Keystone International Livestock Exposition, 4-H Roundup, the Pennsylvania State Fair, and other exhibitions are on their show ring circuit, a number that continues to grow.

"We probably go to a new show or two every year," said Kyle.

"We're part of the Polled Hereford Association, and they have their own shows and we go to some of them," she said.

They estimate that they exhibit at approximately 10-12 shows every year, "almost once a month, generally," said Tom.

Favorite Awards

Their favorite awards are not necessarily their top placings. Kyle recalls getting a fourth place out of six placings in the class, "but I love it because I was competing against all seniors and I had just turned senior," he said.

Danielle is proud of a first place in showmanship that she won, but another favorite show ring experience includes a judge who remembered her Hereford, "Peanut," from one year to the next.

Last year at the Farm Show, their first Farm Show, Kyle took a second in the Hereford open show in his class and Danielle won a first place. In the Hereford junior show Danielle won a first in her class and Kyle took home second place.

Each year the Newlins pick two calves out of the calf crop to work with. The calves are then weaned and walked around the pen, then later in the pasture when they become more manageable. These two calves are then taken to the shows in the family's new trailer.

This year Kyle will be showing "LC", short for "Little Cow," and Danielle will exhibit "Penny." Each year they trade off who picks their calf first. This spring they will have five calves to chose from.

Last year, according to Danielle, she had a laid-back animal, "but I have a jumpy one this year." "Penny" caught Danielle's eye "because I thought she was cute. She had nice conformation and I love her, too."

This Year's Farm Show

This year at the Farm Show the Newlins will have the new experience of staying in a camper with friends, something they are looking forward to. The Farm Show is a challenge, said their father, "because you finally get to sleep at 2 a.m. and the alarm goes off at 4:30."

"It's a race to get to the wash rack," said Danielle. Another race is to get as much done as possible "before the crowds get there," said Kyle.

With the addition of a camper this year the upcoming Farm

Shaping the future with 4-H and FFA.

First Union's Agri-Finance Department is proud to support 4-H and FFA members and programs. We believe preserving the family farm is one of the most effective ways to ensure a better future for everyone. So First Union is committed to working with young people and supporting their goals.

With guidance and encouragement, they will develop the skills and values they'll need to be successful in farming or wherever their lives take them. And their achievements will benefit us all.

Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association Offers Scholarship

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association (PCA) has announced that a $1,000 scholarship will be available to a young person planning a career related to the cattle industry. Funding for this scholarship is provided through PCA's previous participation in the IVOMEC: GENERATIONS OF EXCELLENCE program.

"Nothing is more important than providing a sound education for tomorrow's producers," according to Terry L. Shearer, president of PCA. "Those planning to work in the changing cattle industry into the next century will need to be proficient in animal and crop sciences, business economics, and communications. That's why PCA is providing a $1,000 IVOMEC Scholarship to help a deserving young cattleman or cattlewoman prepare for the future."

The MERIAL IVOMEC/PCA Scholarship will be awarded based on the applicant's interest in the industry, leadership, academic achievement, and organizational involvement. Interested youth should request application forms directly from the PCA office. Completed applications must be postmarked on or before March 1, 2002.

"We are pleased to team up with MERIAL to offer this very special scholarship opportunity to a young person in Pennsylvania," says Shearer. "There's no question that education, along with practical experience, is the key to the future competitiveness of the U.S. agricultural industry."

More Scholarships

The Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association has announced it will present two additional scholarships this year to young persons who are planning a career in the cattle industry.

Pfizer Animal Health Company, Inc. provides funding for one of the $500 scholarships in connection with Pfizer's Dectomax Extra Education Dollars ("DEED") program.

The Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association provides the second $500 scholarship from the PCA general fund.

The applicants must meet the following criteria: be a high school senior or currently enrolled in a two- or four-year college; demonstrate interest in the beef, dairy, and/or veal industries; express assurance in furthering education in college, vocational school, etc.; and possess leadership skills and show intentions of eventually representing the beef, dairy, and/or veal industries in some form.

Those interested in applying for the Pfizer DEED scholarship and the PCA scholarship need only fill out one form to apply for both scholarships. However, only members of Pennsylvania Junior Cattlemen's Association or applicants whose parents are members of PCA are eligible for the PCA scholarship.

Applications must be postmarked on or before March 1, 2002.

Winners will be awarded scholarships at the annual Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association Banquet on Thursday, March 28, 2002, before the Pa. Beef Expo in State College.

To obtain scholarship applications or for more information, contact the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association, 862 Webster Drive, State College, PA 16801; phone/fax: (814) 238-5888; Website: www.pacattle.org or e-mail at llw@psu.edu.

Newlin Family

Show will be different. Last year the Newlins enjoyed taking a cooler and sometimes going out for fast food.

This year they also plan on making some adjustments in the show ring. "I had trouble keeping my cow's head up," said Danielle.

Kyle vows to work harder to qualify for the showmanship class. At the Farm Show, a judge picks which exhibitors come back into the ring for the showmanship classes. Last year Danielle was able to compete in showmanship.

"The best thing to take to the Farm Show is walkie-talkies," advised Danielle. "The beef barn is far from the ring."

The family coordinates show schedules, which may or may not be on time, with bringing the animal from the barn.

The Farm Show offers plenth of entertainment, said Danielle. "You can't get bored because there's lots you can go to."

"There is lots more competition going on, like the exhibits, rabbits, or other livestock," said Kyle.

Danielle gives loving attention to the farm's Hereford cows.

Ag Secretary Announces First Appearance Of 'Wood-Mobile'

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Sam Hayes encouraged visitors to the 2002 Pennsylvania Farm Show to check out the new Pennsylvania "Wood-mobile."

A first-ever project of its kind in the state, the Wood-mobile is designed to educate the public — especially children — about Pennsylvania's forests and forest-products industry. The award-winning Farm Show, the largest indoor agricultural event in the nation, will run from Saturday, Jan. 5, to Thursday, Jan. 10, at the state Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

"If children can't go to the woods, then we'll bring the woods to the children," Hayes said. "Pennsylvania's forests not only provide our commonwealth with tremendous beauty, but also one of the most successful forest-products industries in the nation."

The Wood-mobile includes a 34-foot trailer housing an exhibit that provides information on Pennsylvania's forest resources and forest-products industry.

SUSTAINABLE FAMILY BUSINESSES

In the area of agriculture sustainability, many disciplines are important to help family businesses improve profitability. Some of those areas include production techniques, marketing, environmental practices, business skills, and applications in technology.

One of the most overlooked areas is in relationships and communication skills. As beginning farmers and existing businesses identify and develop a strategic plan, a family business should address how a family will interact in that setting.

Challenges that a family farming enterprise or any other business experience is the separation of family life from the business environment. Often, there are times a family problem develops into a crisis and affects the business. Many decisions related to sound business operation requires an open mind and objective evaluation. It is important that the family establish a period of time to discuss business issues, and a separate time to address family concerns.

An extension educator colleague told me the story of a visit to his native homeland of New Zealand. While he was there, on a stretch of newly formed wet clay road that was a mess of deep ruts, and there was a sign. It read: "Choose your rut carefully — you'll be in it for the next five miles." This contrasting illustration can best be applied to a family business. The "rut" in the business road that is complicated by a family issue can distract sensible resolutions to tribulations as they occur.

The underlying quandary in many family businesses is poor communication skills. Communication in a marriage has several sets of important objectives for addressing personal relationships, spiritual, family, and home issues. Time should always be set aside to discuss or address these important matters.

Married couples should arrange to get away for a day or weekend if possible to work through difficulties. This helps to focus on the issue without distractions. Trying to debate or address a personal issue during business hours or feeding or milking time never involves the undivided attention of one or both of the people engaged in that discussion.

Sometimes grudges and hard feelings are fostered in a stressful environment. Depending on how important or stressful the subject is, this may interfere with performance of an important task and potentially injure the relationship.

There is some evidence that farm accidents can result from stress related to anger or unfocused attention to work detail. Family businesses must keep personal problems separate from the work environment.

On the other hand, a business requires attention to important particulars such as planning, organizing, directing, controlling, marketing, supervising, and labor management. The family and relationship side a family business require good communication skills such as listening and having respect for the other individual or persons in the family. In a family agriculture enterprise, sometimes the business and family concerns will collide. Often the attitude or mindset influences how problems or issues are addressed. In most instances, you have two prevalent mindsets: living to farm and farming to five.

The first mindset is ordinary to many farming businesses, as well as many other family enterprises. In this category, farming or business is the main focus regardless if there is a profit or not. Another similar characteristic is purchasing equipment or personal items without consulting a spouse or other family members involved in the business.

This group looks over the fence of the farm lane or storefront window to watch the neighbors pull their camper to go off on a vacation and look at each other and say, "Where do you wish you went this year?" Vacations and recreation time are thought of as frivolous activities that are an expensive excuse to get away from work. This mindset has a favorite radio station — WIFM "What's In It For Me." Conflicts are usually swept under the rug, and the assumption that the injured family member will "get over it." Busy husbands usually excuse themselves from children's church or school activities because of the demanding business or farming schedules.

Even though farming or business operations are important and have peak seasonal demands, the business is everything. With Sunday's being an important day off for spiritual reflection and fellowship with friends and family, you can always bet that you will find individuals with similar interests seeking each other out at social activities to discuss markets, money, or other business-related concerns. These few examples are not inclusive to everyone that lives in this mindset; however, similar behavior and other numerous examples are not uncommon.

The second mindset is also normal in family agriculture and other businesses. This group relates to the family business as a means to accomplish the objectives that help the family survive. Like the previous mindset, a profitable business or financially challenged enterprises may exist in this structure as well.

Emphasis is placed on the family needs. Family vacations add to personal growth and enhance relationships. Other family members are included in making decisions such as major purchases of equipment or other inputs. Business activities are generally kept separate from family and relationship issues. Communication skills are generally good, but some improvements in several areas are still needed.

The home and the family are central. Social interaction includes diverse interests not related to business. This business family will be involved in many activities. In some instances, this can go to extremes with too much emphasis on activities that can increase stress levels. However, this mindset lives for the family, while the business or farm is the method used to achieve the lifestyle.

Both mindsets have positive and negative implications on either the family or the business. The process of evaluating the areas that can be improved in either category can apply self-help skills to make adjustments and initiate change. One such tool is SWOT analysis.

SWOT analysis helps an individual evaluate Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, and Threats. In business this is an effective vehicle to resolve several decisionmaking areas as a manager. This system also has some value when applied to people and relationships in the family business.

Strengths are identified as positive aspects that are perceived or experienced internally. Weaknesses are negative aspects that are also internal in character.

Opportunities are positives that are experienced externally. Threats are external feelings that are perceived as negative.

A business or family can develop a series of short lists and identify at least three or four items in each category. Some people will have many more issues or items to list in different categories. Other family members may not be able to list anything in one or two of the categories. This process is important since this will help each person understand the diversity within the family and the business. It is recommended that separate lists be made for the family and the business. This is an effective exercise that is used throughout major companies around the world.

This process accomplishes several important principles:

- Initiates personal reflection
- Stimulates thinking and communication
- Identifies areas that an individual realizes changes are needed
- Creates a teamwork approach in business and family
- Helps family or business resolve conflicts
- Contributes to improved business objectives and family relationship.

The list should identify the four categories and generally be short but descriptive of any issues indicating strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats. The main purpose of this exercise is to isolate what really is important. This effort facilitates a strategic approach to key issues. The key issues should then be written in an elaborative fashion to be offered in a discussion. If an issue is not listed or elaborated in writing, it should not come to the discussion phase. This is self-defeating of developing a SWOT list and distracts the discussion phase.

Keep these rules:

- If it is an important issue to discuss, then it must be listed and elaborated in writing.
- Limit issues to three or four of the most important.
- Focus conflict resolution on repeating issues listed by other family members as weaknesses or threats when applied to the family unit.
- Do not criticize. Be objective.
- Use the positive indicators such as strengths and opportunities to overcome the negatives listed in weaknesses and threats.

What should you write down under each category?

Under strengths, you should answer the following questions:

- What are your advantages?
- What do you do well?

You should be considering these questions from your point of view of the family members you are working with. Don't be modest, but be realistic and honest. (If you find this difficult, try listing your characteristics. Hopefully these will be strengths.)

Weaknesses:

- What can you improve?
- What is done badly?
- What should be avoided?
- (Family) What behavior or habit can be changed?

Remember that this area should be listed from internal and external perspective. Do others perceive a weakness that you do not realize? By being realistic and honest with this category, it may help an individual face unpleasant truth about them. This is really important since this category will possibly result as strength.

Opportunities:

- Where are good changes facing you?
- What are the interesting trends?

A beneficial opportunity can be identified as changes in marketing, technology, social standing, lifestyle, or local events. You will not always recognize every opportunity when they first appear. In some instances, you can heighten your awareness to recognize opportunities to capture a greater share of them as they occur.

Threats:

- What personal obstacles do you face?
- What or who is your competition?
- Is your position or responsibilities changing? Is your market or production changing? Is the weather a major factor? Is changing technology a factor?
- Do you have bad credit? Cash flow problems?
- (Family) You can probably list anything you perceive as a threat to you personally.

By developing lists and analyzing your individual strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats privately, a narrative paragraph is ready to be developed. After everyone in the family business completes a narrative paragraph, the discussion phase is ready to proceed. It is very important to adopt rules to keep discussions on targeted issues. Take turns and identify the big picture. The most important emphasized rule should never allow an issue that is not written in the narrative to be introduced at the discussion phase.

When a family business adopts useful management tools such as SWOT, you increase communication skills and remain on target in your enterprise. When you recognize that sustainability begins with the family, then businesses grow and remain profitable.

Penn State Offers Dairy SOP Workshops

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — "I can't seem to get everyone pulling in the same direction around here!"

"If you want it done right, you've got to do it yourself!"

"You can't get good help these days!"

"I'd like to take a few days off, but who's going to do the work?"

"We seem to take one step forward and two steps back every time we try something new, what's the point?"

If you can identify with any of these statements above, then you need to attend a Dairy Alliance Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) workshop. You will learn how to write, implement, and manage standard operating procedures using the SOP Process. The SOP Process is a powerful set of management practices that has the potential to transform a dairy business. It's more than just writing down a set of how-to instructions on a piece of paper.

Dairy Alliance's SOP Process is a step-by-step method that begins with goal-setting, proceeds through development and writing of best practices, moves on to monitoring techniques, and concludes with strategies for continual improvement. The process works throughout to draw in all of the stakeholders relevant to each procedure. At the end of the workshop, participants walk away with a draft of one or more procedures that they can quickly bring to completion and put into practice. More importantly, they leave with a blueprint for using the SOP Process to dramatically improve their dairy's management and profitability.

If you are a dairy manager and you want to take your skills to the next level, contact Tammy Perkins at Dairy Alliance (888) 373-PADA to register for the workshops nearest you. If you are a progressive agribusiness representative, contact a few of your clients and bring them with you to the workshop. You can add SOP development to your services and help your clients achieve success.

For more information about content of the SOP Workshop, contact Richard Stup at (814) 652-6430 or RichStup@psu.edu. Scheduled workshops include:

- Jan. 29: Bart Firehall, Rt. 896, Georgetown — 9:30 a.m. to 3:15 p.m.
- Jan. 30: Weaver's Markets banquet facilities, Rt. 272, Adamstown — 9:30 a.m. to 3:15 p.m.
- Feb. 21: Clarion County Park, Rt. 66, Shippenville — 9:30 a.m. to 3:15 p.m.
- Feb. 27: Blair County — 9:30 a.m. to 3:15 p.m.
- March 20: Lighthouse Restaurant, Rt. 11, Chambersburg — 9:30 a.m. to 3:15 p.m.

Renewable Energy Forum Set

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — The Southcentral Region of the Pennsylvania Young Farmers Association has announced a one-day seminar on "Renewable Energy and Alternative Uses For Crops" slated for Jan. 17 at the Adams County cooperative extension office.

Speakers include Scott Welsh, York County ag economic development specialist, with a presentation titled "Are We Ready For an Ethanol Plant?" and Ed Herrmann, regional ag sustainability agent presenting "Important Products From Ag Commodities."

Rep. Steve Maitland and Sen. Terry Punt will present a "Biofuels Legislation Update." Biofuel topics involving soybean diesel and ethanol will be addressed by Rick Handley, director of the Northeast Regional Biomass Program.

Adams County agent Lynn Kime will speak on the importance of crop insurance and Welsh, Herrmann, and Handley will also lead a biofuels panel discussion.

For more information, contact Tim Brown at (717) 359-5084.

Special Election Needed For York FSA

YORK (York Co.) — York County farmers and farm owners in approximately one-third of York County will have an opportunity to participate in a special election to select a representative to the Farm Service Agency Committee.

"This special election resulted from a high percentage of ballots returned to the county office because addresses on the ballots did not meet U.S. Postal Service requirements," according to Wayne Kurtz, county executive director for the York FSA Office.

Kurtz stated, "Since approximately 40 percent of the ballots were never delivered to potential voters, we felt it prudent to have a special election and reissue the ballots. This election covers the following townships: Chanceford, Fawn, Hellam, Lower Chanceford, Lower Windsor, Peach Bottom, Springettsbury, Springfield, Spring Garden, Windsor and York.

This committee election is normally held the first Monday each December. This special election establishes Jan. 8 as the final date to return ballots. Counting is scheduled for Friday, Jan. 11 at 8:15 a.m. in the county office. Producers with questions should call the county FSA office at (717) 755-2966, ext. 2.

Penn State College Of Ag Sciences On Hand At Farm Show

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — More than 150 Penn State faculty and staff will play important roles at the 2002 Pennsylvania Farm Show Jan. 5-10.

A showcase of the state's number-one industry, agriculture, the Farm Show is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Visitors at the Farm Show will see evidence of Penn State's involvement in virtually every area of the 16-acre complex. At the College of Agricultural Sciences exhibit in the Main Exhibits Hall, the public can learn about a variety of programs:

- Penn State Cooperative Extension Master Gardeners will staff displays on composting and the "secret life of soils." Kids of all ages will be able to navigate the "Worm Tunnel" and receive a ribbon proclaiming, "I squirmed the worm!"
- Visitors will be able to "ask the experts" (Penn State faculty and extension specialists) about food safety and farm biosecurity.
- Staff from AgMap, an e-commerce initiative of Penn State Cooperative Extension, will be on hand to explain the program, which uses the Internet to help farmers, businesses, consumers, and others find various agricultural commodities, goods, and services in their area.
- The School of Forest Resources will offer displays and information about white-tailed deer, urban trees, and Pennsylvania watersheds.
- College of Agricultural Sciences staff and students will provide information about college programs and careers in the agricultural sciences.
- The 4-H youth development program administered by Penn State Cooperative Extension will offer displays and activities to mark the centennial of 4-H in 2002.

The 4-H centennial also will be commemorated with a 4-H "Wall of History" and other exhibits in the Family Living and Agricultural Learning Center on the second floor of the complex's Northeast Building. Pennsylvania's oldest 4-H alumni will be recognized during the Farm Show's opening ceremonies and hosted at a reception by Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Samuel Hayes.

4-H also plays a large role in the Farm Show youth judging events. Many of the young people who enter animals or products in the various competitions are 4-H members who have been taught and mentored by Penn State Cooperative Extension youth development agents and 4-H volunteer leaders.

Throughout the Farm Show, more than 100 Penn State faculty and extension educators will assist with livestock and commodity judging for everything from dairy cattle to maple syrup to mushrooms. Their duties include weighing in animals, handling entry registrations, and answering questions from the public.

In addition, a team of College of Agricultural Sciences media relations staff and extension agents will broadcast Farm Show news and judging results to more than 70 radio stations throughout Pennsylvania and beyond.

The Farm Show complex is located on Cameron Street, just off of exit 67 of Interstate 81. Hours are 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. from Saturday, Jan. 5 through Wednesday, Jan. 9; and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Thursday, Jan. 10. Admission is free and parking is $5 per vehicle, including shuttle bus service from the off-site lots.

Because of construction, on-site parking will be limited to exhibitors and vendors. For more information, visit the Web at http://www.pda.state.pa.us and click on the Farm Show 2002 link.

Farm And Home Foundation Annual Meeting Jan. 22

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Farm and Home Foundation of Lancaster County is planning its 38th annual meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 22 at the Farm and Home Center.

One of the major functions is the awarding of scholarships to students of agriculture and home economics.

The program will feature Luke Brubaker, president of the Farm and Home Foundation Board, speaking about and showing slides on his recent trip to Ukraine. The banquet is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. in the Farm and Home Center auditorium. The cost is $18 per person and includes membership dues.

For reservations, contact the Farm and Home Center, at (717) 392-4911 by Jan. 17.

Youth Exhibitor-Essayists To Receive Lambs At Farm Show

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania Secretary Of Agriculture Sam Hayes will present a Dorset ewe lamb and Suffolk ewe lamb to selected youth essay writers exhibiting in the Junior Sheep Show at the 86th Annual Farm Show.

"Each year youth from across Pennsylvania work hard with their 4-H and FFA livestock projects for county fairs and our Farm Show. 4-H and FFA members gain lifelong values and experiences with their projects, learning responsibility, gaining hands-on experience about agriculture, earning money to invest in their future, exhibiting good showmanship, and building friendships. I like to help them," Hayes said.

This is the second year Hayes has undertaken the youth development project.

In cooperation with the Nix Besser Farm of Narvon and Pine Haven Farm of Newville, Hayes will help two 4-H or FFA members support their livestock projects with these high quality lambs.

These high quality ewe lambs will be on display at the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture exhibit throughout the week of Farm Show. The awarding of the two ewe lambs will be made by Hayes preceding the Junior Livestock Sale on Thursday, Jan. 10.

To be eligible for the contest, 4-H and FFA members must exhibit at the 2002 Farm Show Junior Sheep Show and write a 300-word essay answering the question, "How Will Agriculture Change In the 21st Century and In What Ways Will 4-H and FFA Members Affect the Change?"

A panel of five people will judge the essays and select the two winners.

Last year, Hayes presented two ewe Dorset Lambs to John Strawbridge of Lehigh County and Jessica Darr of Somerset County.

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture exhibit will be located in the Farm Show's Main Exhibit Hall and will be open 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Jan. 5-9 and 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Jan. 10.

More than $315,000 in premiums will be offered to Farm Show exhibitors this year, a record.

Dairy Meeting Scheduled In Carroll Count', Md.

WESTMINSTER, Md. — The Carroll County Extension Office has scheduled a Mid-Winter Dairy Meeting for Thursday, Jan. 17 with up-to-date information on current dairy practices provided.

The 2002 meeting program offers a variety of educational topics, such as: "Industry Changes and Their Impact on Genetic Improvement;" "Practices for Improving Milk Quality and Profit;" "Quality Silage, Milk Production, and Profitability of the Dairy Operations;" "Managing the Nutrient Interface Between Cropping and Feeding;" "Strategies for Getting Cows Rebred;" and "Maryland Dairy Farm Business Summary."

The meeting is open to anyone with an interest in dairy. There is no charge to attend. Those planning to attend should call by Jan. 14 to reserve a seat at (410) 386-2760.

The meeting is in Rooms A and B of the Carroll County Extension Office, Westminster. It will begin at 9 a.m. with milk, coffee and light refreshments.

Built To Outlast

It's mind-numbing, back-breaking work. Loading bales. Working crops. Tilling, mowing, raking, baling and the list goes on. It'll grind you to the bone – and take an average tractor down hard. But Massey Ferguson 4200 Series tractors deliver unmatched performance, durability and comfort to keep you going long after others give out. The long-stroke Perkins Fastram™ diesel cranks outhigh torque, even when RPMs drop. Powertrains range from manual shift to high-outputPowerShuttle. Dual-system hydraulics, a beefy linkage and new lift geometry generate optimum lift. Even the hydraulic filter never quits – just wipe it clean every 1,000 hours and keep on going. And touches like an adjustable spring-suspension seat, adjustable tilt steering and more mean you'll last as long as your Massey Ferguson 4200.

No Compromise.

Shenandoah Valley 4-H'ers Gearing Up To Visit Farm Show

GAY BROWNLEE
Virginia Correspondent

HARRISONBURG, Va. — When the Pennsylvania Farm Show opens, at least one 4-H club from the Shenandoah Valley will be on hand to take in the rodeo on Saturday.

Greenmount 4-H Club members Isaac Burgess, vice-president, and his brother, Paul, president, love the rodeo, especially, the bull riding competition.

Two years ago at the National FFA Convention, 16-year old Isaac got hooked on the dangerous event while watching the High School Rodeo.

Isaac said he's determined to ride bulls one day himself. Already, he is practicing for the future with a portable bucking rig he designed and constructed in school. He used a barrel and connected various lengths of pipe that keep it well-anchored. The nifty invention has been on public display in local parades.

The elder brother is well over six-feet tall but the height of his sibling, Paul, 14, is almost too close to determine the difference. Both are active in 4-H and FFA.

Sandra Strawderman, organizational leader for Greenmount 4-H, said the club hasn't been to the Farm Show for three years.

With adult supervision, Strawderman said the kids will have permission to roam about and enjoy whatever events and exhibits appeal to them, as long as they are responsible to meet at the appointed place for the homebound journey, later.

Carenda Strawderman, 14, her daughter and a freshman classmate of Paul Burgess at the Broadway High School, adores observing the horses at the rodeo, but the barrel event is her favorite competition.

At the Rockingham County Fair, Carenda shows lambs and registered Shorthorns in both the junior and open shows. This will be her third visit to the Farm Show. She says she is really looking forward to it.

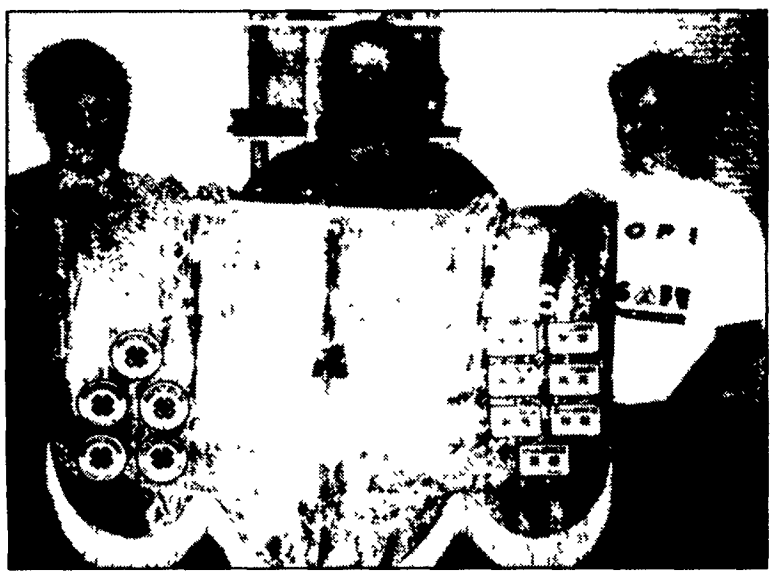
"I like looking at how the animals are clipped. They are clipped differently there," said the showmanship winner and future veterinarian hopeful.

Blair, her 12-year old brother, participates in the junior division of livestock judging and shows hogs at the county fair. He thinks being in competition is a good experience for the younger kids, who learn from watching older kids.

Besides the fascinating display of machinery at the Farm Show, Blair is intrigued by the control he sees experienced exhibitors maintaining over their animals with many people around.

When asked about tasting new foods at the Farm Show, Blair declared his preference for good old American cheeseburgers and French fries keeps him from sampling delicacies like emu.

"(The kids) aren't very adventurous," their mother said.



With the Greenmount 4-H Club banner, pictured is organizational leader, Sandra Strawderman with her son, Blair, 12 and daughter Carenda, 14.

Carenda Strawderman, 14, displays a plaque received for the junior grand champion Shorthorn at the 2000 Rockingham County Fair, as well as the banner for the grand champion heifer in the open show.

Blair Strawderman, 12, shows ribbons he received for his grand champion Shorthorn bull in the junior show at the Rockingham County Fair.

Jane Burgess, Isaac and Paul's mother, said she is impressed by the numerous breeds of animals at the Farm Show.

Because the Burgess family show steers at the county fair, they find the annual Farm Show a great place to note tips about grooming animals for competition.

Isaac, a high school junior, is the chapter treasurer and Paul, assistant parliamentarian in the Broadway FFA Chapter.

Carenda Strawderman said she would like to see Greenmount 4-H expand its concentration on animals. She spends hour upon hour working with her Suffolk sheep.

The Strawdermans raise some 25 registered beef Shorthorns and have a commercial sheep operation of 75 ewes and five rams.

"We graze as much as we can and feed hay," Sandra said.

Sandra hopes weather information won't throw a cog in Farm Show travel plans as it did the previous time when an ice storm in the forecast caused a debate on whether or not to go.

"I hate that responsibility," the leader said.

Kayla Dull Takes Her Love Of Sheep To This Year's Farm Show

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

MANNS CHOICE (Bedford Co.) — Kayla Dull feeds and walks her sheep every day in preparation for the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

She knows what it is like to get up in the wee hours to help deliver lambs.

"It's all part of raising sheep," the Chestnut Ridge High School 10th grader explained. "If a sheep is having a lamb in the middle of the night, I have to be there to help her.

"One time I even had to stay home from school to help take care of (lambs). It is usually my mom who looks after the lambings while I am at school.

"My favorite lambings are those that occur when I am not here. I come home, the lambs are here and nursing and I don't have to worry about them. But, that doesn't happen often," she said.

"We've seen it all here. We've had a successful set of triplets and we had a set that we lost as well as the mother. That was hard."

The daughter of Robert and Missy Dull, Kayla has been showing sheep for seven years.

"It started when I was only five and a friend made me a wool outfit to walk in the leadline at the Bedford Fair," she said. "I've been interested in sheep ever since."

Last summer, Kayla captured first place in the standard class of the Bedford Fair leadline competition wearing a solid black wool dress.

Kayla's sheep project is shared with her younger brother, Beau. Actually, it's all a family affair. The sheep barn in the back yard was built by her dad and extended family members. The hay is grown on her grandfather's farm. It's a picturesque setting, with a hunting dog and two cats completing the family.

A member of the Young Shepherds and Young Stockmen's 4-H Club, Kayla has shown sheep at the Bedford Fair for the past two years. Last year, she placed fifth in Pennsylvania State Farm Show competition.

For the 2002 show, Kayla will be showing her wethered crossbred she bought at the Somerset County Fair. Her total flock consists of 14 Dorsets and Suffolks. All of the ewes are expecting lambs.

"We bred the Dorsets with our own buck," she said.

Her plans for the future are uncertain, but definitely include college. She believes her interest in sheep could lead her to anything from shearing to becoming a vet.

Kayla also belongs to the Chestnut Ridge FFA, plays soccer, runs on the track team, and enjoys hunting.

This deer season she bagged both a doe and buck and helped turn them into deer bologna.

Kayla Dull of Manns Choice, Bedford County, is proud of her Dorset and Suffolk sheep flock. She will be exhibiting a crossbred lamb wether at this year's Farm Show.

Pennsylvania Farm Show Features Dairy

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program (PDPP) and American Dairy Association and Dairy Council (ADADC) Mid East invite all dairy farmers to visit the dairy checkoff booth, located in the main exhibition hall of the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg, during Farm Show Week.

The checkoff exhibit is cosponsored by the Mid-Atlantic Dairy Association and is educational and informative. Games will challenge the knowledge of kids about the benefits of dairy products. Moms and dads can get educational materials to learn about the great benefits of including dairy products in their family's diets. Checkoff staff will also be on hand to visit with farmers about the checkoff program.

Again this year, PDPP, ADADC Mid East, and Mid-Atlantic Dairy Association are sponsoring the butter sculpture and, as always, the display is kept a secret until the unveiling. However it is known that it will be based on a patriotic theme. The butter sculpture is a highlight for many Farm Show visitors.

The cheese carving contest will return again this year, with contestants sculpting a 10-pound block of Cheddar cheese. A cheese display will also highlight the many different cheeses produced in Pennsylvania.

COLOSTRUM MANAGEMENT

Dr. Arlen Mills
Extension Veterinarian
Capitol Region

It has been said that the most important meal of a calf's life is the first one. It is essential that a calf get this first meal as it is the colostrum which gives the calf protection from all of the diseases that it will soon be exposed to. A calf which does not get a proper feeding of colostrum has greater than six times the risk of getting sick and more than five times the risk of dying than a calf properly fed colostrum.

Colostrum feeding has three components: time , quantity, and quality. Let us examine each of these aspects.

Once a calf is born, a time clock has been started. The intestine of the calf can only absorb the all-important antibodies for a maximum of 24 hours. To insure maximum absorption, the first feeding needs to be given within six hours of birth. I like to see a second feeding given six to eight hours later.

Getting two adequate feedings of good colostrum into the calf within its first 12 hours of life will pay great dividends. After the first day, the calf is unable to take in the antibodies.

An adequate volume of colostrum is also essential. A calf left to nurse the cow on its own will rarely get the volume of colostrum it needs to be protected. So it must be hand-fed. Some are advising tubing the calf soon after birth and giving one gallon of colostrum and repeating this 12 hours later. This is enough volume to insure an adequate level of protective antibodies even if the colostrum is of mediocre quality. I have seen some colic and bloating in calves fed a full gallon of colostral milk. I have had good success with a half-gallon of colostrum fed within two hours of birth and a second half-gallon fed six to eight hours later.

Colostral quality is the most difficult of the three factors to handle. We know that cows generally produce colostrum of better quality than that of heifers. The mature cow has been exposed to more of the infections which are on a particular farm. Thus her colostrum should contain antibodies against more of the infectious agents.

Colostrum can become diluted or weakened if a cow is milked or leaks milk before she calves. An instrument called a colostrometer can be used to measure the colostrum quality. It must be used at the right milk temperature to read properly.

The quality of colostrum is also influenced by the dry-cow nutrition. Poor nutrition programs for the dry cows result in poor-quality colostrum. Good nutrition enhances colostral quality. Use of appropriate vaccines can also improve the ability of the colostrum to protect the calf against specific diseases. An example of this is the use of E coli, Corona, and Rotavirus vaccine, given to the dry cow to protect her calf from these diseases. The calf is protected by the antibodies which it receives in the colostrum.

Unfortunately, colostrum can be a carrier of several disease agents. Johne's disease, leukosis, and salmonella can be transmitted from cow to calf through the colostrum. Herds with any of these disease problems should never combine or "pool" colostrum. Instead, colostrum from cows which test negative for these diseases can be frozen and fed to calves of infected cows.

Producers who have their heifers raised off-farm or who purchase cattle need to remember that colostrum from these cows will contain antibodies to diseases on the farm where they were raised, which may be different than diseases on the farm where their calves are born. These calves should be fed good quality frozen colostrum taken from older, healthy resident cows as discussed earlier.

A quick and simple blood test on calves three to five days of age can determine if your calves are being protected as they should be. Ask your veterinarian to check the total protein on several calves periodically to monitor your success in feeding colostrum on time, in the proper quantity, and of the proper quality.

Fourth Generation Of Miller Family Exhibiting At The 2002 Pa. Farm Show

Clan Founded Baby Beef 4-H Club More Than Half Century Ago

DEANNA CUNFER
Carbon Co. Correspondent

LEHIGHTON (Carbon Co.) — The Miller family of Fairyland Farms, Lehighton, have been long-time supporters of the 4-H program in Carbon County. In fact the Miller name, particularly that of Robert "Bobby" Miller, is synonymous with Carbon County 4-H. When you mention to someone, whether at a county fair or the Farm Show, that you are involved with Carbon County 4-H the reply most often is, "Oh-Bobby Miller!" It has even been said that they have green in their blood 4-H green. That dedication to the 4-H program spans four generations and travels with them to Harrisburg each January where this year we will see the fourth generation of the Miller family competing in the junior market swine competition.

Robert L. "Bobby" Miller is shown with the showbox he won at the 1952 Pa. Farm Show when he was selected the grand champion fitter and showman in the purebred Angus market steer competition. Shown in the showbox is the exhibitor's green and white coverall that he wore during the show.

Luke and Christi Graver will each compete in one of the purebred junior market swine classes.

Luke, 9, just completed his first year in 4-H where he exhibited in the market lamb, market swine, and dairy beef competitions. He is raising a purebred Landrace hog and a purebred Chester White hog, with plans to exhibit one of them at the Farm Show.

Christi, 12, just completed her fifth year in 4-H. She has participated in the market and breeding sheep, market swine, dairy beef, and market steer projects, and is making her fourth trip as exhibitor at the Farm Show.

Christi is raising a purebred Hampshire hog and a purebred Poland China hog. "Hamp" and "Poly" are both looking good and Christi will have a hard time deciding which will compete for the ribbons at this year's competition. Christi has received ribbons in the market swine rate of gain competition at the Farm Show with two of her previous entries and received a master showmanship hat and show cane with her purebred Poland China entry in 2000.

Luke and Christi are both members of the National Junior Swine Association and have aspirations of starting a breeding swine project in future years. Christi has started her own flock of breeding sheep but admits that she prefers the swine above all the animals she shows as 4-H projects.

Luke and Christi will not be the only members of the Miller family to exhibit animals at the 2002 Pa. Farm Show. Mother, Diane Miller-Graver, and grandfather, Robert L. "Bobby" Miller will again be competing in the carcass lamb competition.

On show day at the Farm Show one can usually see the whole Miller family at ringside.

The excitement of competing at the Pa. Farm Show started in the first half of the 20th century when brother and sister, Willis and Catherine Diehl, exhibited in the open dairy competition with their animals from the family's herd at Fairyland Farms. Willis went on to become a member of the dairy judging team at Penn State, while Catherine married John Miller. Together the Millers started the Baby Beef 4-H Club in Carbon County. One of the members of that club was son, Robert, known to all as Bobby.

In 1950 at age 13, Bobby exhibited his first steer at the Pa. Farm Show. This purebred Angus, "Black Boy," placed well enough to qualify for the sale of champions. Bobby recalls the sale, then held in the large arena.

Market steer competition in those days only consisted of purebred animals — Hereford, Angus, and Shorthorn. He recalls how there was a separate judge for each breed. Often when it was time to select the overall champion there was quite a bit of disagreement as each judge wanted his breed selected as the supreme

Connelly Is Spring Intern

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Pennsylvania Holstein Association has recently named Lori Connelly as this year's spring intern.

Connelly is from Pennsylvania Furnace, where she resides on her family's registered Holstein farm. A junior at Penn State, Connelly is working on a bachelor's degree in animal science with a minor in agribusiness management. She is an active member of the Penn State Dairy Science Club, where she has served as Selections Chair for the Nittany Lion Fall Classic and will serve as this year's Dairy Expo Chairperson. Connelly is also a Penn State Ag Advocate, representing the College of Agriculture.

Previously, Connelly was active in both 4-H and the Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Association. She was on the Pennsylvania Holstein Junior Dairy Bowl Team, Pennsylvania 4-H Dairy Bowl Team, and served as President of the Junior Holstein Association. In 1999-2000, Connelly served as the Pennsylvania State Dairy Princess.

Her internship will continue through April. She can be reached at the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, 839 Benner Pike, State College, PA 16801, (814) 234-0364-phone, (814) 234-1698-fax.

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Pennsylvania Young Farmers can make plans for the 2002 winter conference, scheduled Feb. 5-7 here at the Quality Inn.

The Cedar Crest Young Farmers, host group, have planned exciting tours, interesting workshops, and a wonderful ladies program, according to conference chairpersons Glen and Linda Krall.

Tours for Feb. 5 include the AES Corp. power plant, a generating plant powered by natural gas. The plant produces 705 megawatts of power — 80 percent of the electricity produced at the Three Mile Island nuclear plan. Also included on the tour are Elk Corp., which produces fiberglass-laminated asphalt shingles, and Wengers of Myerstown, a supplier of used farm tractor and machinery parts. Glenn Wenger, company CEO, will show his herd of British White Park beef cattle.

Educational workshops for Feb. 6 include "How Genetic Engineering Has Changed the Human Diet," by Rick Krajl, Penn State University food scientist; "Review of Agriculture Laws," by Christine Kellete, Dickinson Law School of Penn State University (to include a panel of farmers who have used law school services); and "Agro-terrorism," by Kim Zimmerman, FBI/USDA Office of Inspectors.

Tours for Feb. 7 include:

• Weaber, Inc. This plant is the largest hardwood manufacturing plant on the East Coast, according to a young farmers' release. Each week, more than 200 loads of logs are brought on site for processing. About one million board feet of lumber are processed weekly. Weaber produces rough and finished lumber in the milling and molding plant.

• Wengert's Dairy. This dairy plant processes 250,000 gallons of milk and 200,000 gallons of drinks daily under the Swiss Premium Label. In 2001, it underwent a $7 million expansion. The new cooler house can store 76,000 cases of milk with nine loadout doors. Wengert's has maintained an AA-milk quality rating for the past 35 years and markets their milk in opaque plastic containers.

• Eugene and Kathy Martin dairy farm. This family-operated dairy farm includes 165 acres of cropland and a 95-cow Holstein herd with replacements. They also finish 319,000 broilers per year. The farm is preserved and has received Dairy of Distinction honors. There are new 35 x 220-foot stall barn with mattresses, gravity manure system, tunnel ventilation, a 400,000-gallon concrete fenced manure pit, and many other dairy innovations.

Use the sign-up form included here.

What's In A Market Report?

MILLIE BUNTING
Market Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — The USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) collects and distributes price and sales reports on farm products to provide equal access to both buyers and sellers on current marketing information.

Uniform standards (such as quality grade and yield grade) on which to quote prices have been established for each commodity. The commodity's price basis — per-hundred weight, per-head, per-ton, per-bushel, etc. — should be noted in the report. Most livestock prices are reported on a per-hundred pound weight basis (CWT) with those on a per-head basis adequately noted. The weighted average is computed by dividing the total value of the sales by the total number of units sold.

For example: "Choice 2-3 steers, 1100-1400 lbs, sold 65-68.00" means the market reporter considered those steers of Choice quality, ranging from 1,100 to 1,400 pounds, with the estimated yield of closely trimmed retail cuts graded at 2-3 (on a scale of 1-5 yield grades) and at prices ranging 65 to 68 cents per-pound live weight.

The word "market" can refer to the geographic location where the commodity is traded or the price at which it is traded. Market reports may denote market activity, price trend, supply, demand and undertone. An explanation of these terms follows:

• MARKET ACTIVITY: The pace at which sales are made.
Active - Supplies readily clearing the market.
Moderate - Supplies clearing at a reasonable rate.
Slow - Supplies are not clearing the market.
Inactive - Sales are intermittent with few buyers or sellers.

• TREND: The direction in which prices are moving in relation to trading in the previous reporting period.
Higher - Majority of sales are at prices measurably higher.
Firm - Prices are higher, but not measurably so.
Steady - Prices are unchanged.
Weak - Prices are lower, but not measurably so.
Lower - Prices for most sales are lower.

• SUPPLY: The quantity of the commodity currently available.
Heavy - Volume of supply is above average.
Light - Volume is below average.

• DEMAND: The desire to possess a commodity coupled with the willingness and ability to pay.
Very Good - Offerings or supplies are rapidly absorbed.
Good - Firm confidence on the part of buyers that general market conditions are good. Trading is more active than normal.
Moderate - Average buyer interest and trading.
Light - Demand is below average.
Very Light - Few buyers are interested in trading.

• UNDERTONE: Sense of direction in a given market situation.

Bobby still has the letter from 1951 that he received after selling his second Farm Show market steer entry, a purebred Angus weighing 1,380 pounds. This steer, "Midnight," placed second in the light heavyweight class and sold to Hoover & Son of Lancaster Stockyards for $567.26. This steer was also a member of the fourth place winner in the county trio competition. There were 20 teams in the trio competition that year.

Bobby's best and most memorable year of exhibiting steers at the Farm Show was in 1952 when his entry, "Culpepper," was selected as reserve champion of his division. At that time, the county purchased a group of steers and 4-H'ers were assigned a steer according to what number was drawn. This group of purebred Angus came from Brandy Rock Farm in Virginia.

Also, 1952 marked the year Bobby was named grand champion in the purebred Angus fitting and showmanship competition. He was presented with a wooden showbox filled with showing and fitting supplies. He still has the box with the showstick, combs, and brushes that were sponsored by the Pennsylvania Aberdeen Angus Breeders Association. Also in the box is the green and white striped coverall suit worn by Miller during the show. This was standard attire of the contestants at that time.

Bobby's wife, Fern, had shown market swine and many sewing projects on the local level and joined her husband exhibiting steers in 1956. She also had many sewing entries at the Farm Show and was quite impressed when the woolen dress with a jacket that she made while in high school won a second place ribbon.

After Bobby was no longer able to participate in the 4-H competition, he still attended the Farm Show as "caretaker," as they were called in those days, for his cousins and their exhibit animals. He has since been the chaperone for many 4-H members from Carbon County while they stay at the complex to show their animals.

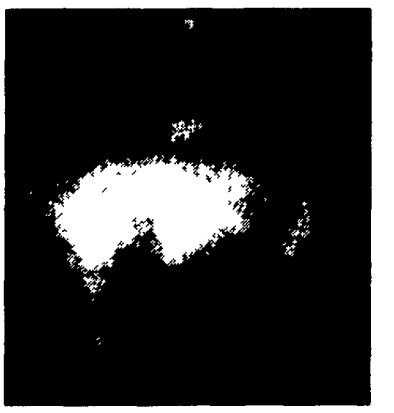
As the Miller children started their 4-H careers Bobby decided to enter some of his homebred market lambs in the carcass lamb competition and has been doing so ever since. His 1999 carcass lamb entry placed first in its weight class.

Over the years, children Danadee, Dean, Diane, and Deanna, then Dean's daughter, Sara, and now Diane's children, Christi and Luke, have kept the Miller's Farm Show tradition alive.

Bobby said the part he enjoys most about the Farm Show is talking to the people you meet there and see each year. After not missing a Farm Show as either an exhibitor and/or spectator since 1950, there are many friends and acquaintances he looks forward to seeing at the Farm Show. Bobby's laugh can often be heard clear across the pig barn at the Farm Show as he socializes with his many friends.

When describing her brother, Luke, Christi said, "He looks like my daddy and acts like my pappy."

In that case, we can be assured the Miller family will be at ringside for many years to come, cheering for the next generation and socializing with their friends during Farm Show week.



Luke Graver, 9, with one of his project animals for the 2002 Pa. Farm Show. Luke will be competing in the junior market swine show with either a purebred Chester White or a purebred Landrace. This is the first year that Luke will compete at the Farm Show.

Farmers Union Convention Delegates Choose Officers

MIFFLINTOWN (Juniata Co.) — Pennsylvania Farmers Union elected new officers during its 30th annual state convention in Milesburg, Nov. 14-16.

Larry Breech of Columbia County was elected Pennsylvania Farmers Union president by delegates at the state convention. Successor to Robert Junk of Fayette County, who served as president for 10 years, Breech names coalition building and growth as top priorities for his first term as president, which will last until 2003.

Breech has been a member of Farmers Union since 1989, and has served Farmers Union as environment committee chair, Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) agricultural advisory board chair, and as membership chair.

"My experiences in Farmers Union and local government will allow me to continue the organization's work as an advocate for family farmers, and will also be a strong foundation as we develop new initiatives to serve the varied, changing needs of Pennsylvania Farmers Union members," Breech said.

Naomi Spahr of Lancaster County was elected to her second term as vice president. Spahr has served Pennsylvania Farmers Union in a variety of capacities, including secretary of the Legislative Committee and president of Lancaster County Farmers Union.

Bryan McConnell of Washington County was selected by convention delegates to represent Pennsylvania at the 100th annual National Farmers Union Convention in Irving, Texas in March. McConnell has been a member of Pennsylvania Farmers Union since 1993.

Dairy Checkoff Plans Events For Pa. Farm Show

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The farmer-funded dairy checkoff programs will be at the Pennsylvania Farm Show Jan. 5-10, working to increase dairy product demand. Promotional activities include special events focusing on dairy products along with an interactive consumer exhibit to inform and educate.

The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program, the American Dairy Association & Dairy Council Mid East, and the Mid-Atlantic Dairy Association will work together representing the dairy checkoff at Farm Show. Throughout the week, visitors may visit the dairy booth in the Farm Show main exhibit area to play the "Who Wants to be a Moollionaire?" game and view other dairy displays. The annual butter sculpture display returns to the MacClay street lobby of the Farm Show Complex, and an exhibit featuring cow's milk cheeses produced in the commonwealth will be displayed in the center of the Food Court.

The "Simply American: Cheese Carving Contest" will be conducted Sun., Jan. 6. Pre-selected finalists will carve a five-pound block of Cheddar depicting a patriotic theme. On Wed., Jan. 9, Farm Show visitors may stop at the milk mustache photo booth to pose for their own milk mustache photo.

The Mid-Atlantic Dairy Association, the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program, and the American Dairy Association & Dairy Council Mid East are dairy-farmer funded, regional promotion organizations responsible for increasing milk demand throughout Pennsylvania. They work closely with Dairy Management, Inc.™, the national dairy promotion organization, to implement dairy promotion, education, and research programs nationwide.

Dairy Hoof Care Seminar Scheduled In Maryland

WESTMINSTER, Md. — Lameness is the most costly clinical disease of dairy cattle, with associated costs reaching as much as $300 or more per cow, according to Dr. Jan Shear, a nationally acclaimed expert in hoof care management at the College of Veterinary Medicine at the University of Florida.

Dr. Shear will discuss foot and hoof care and diseases at a Dairy Hoof Care and Management Program being offered by Maryland Cooperative Extension and ZINPRO. The one-day seminar, which runs from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Jan. 23 in Hagerstown, Maryland.

The seminar is designed for both dairy producers and consultants. Participants will learn directly applicable take-home information on management practices designed to improve foot care and health. In addition to Dr. Shear's presentation on diseases, sessions will focus on: anatomy of the foot and hoof; proper hoof trimming and cow comfort; feeding for optimal foot and hoof health; and a research update on detecting lameness.

Speakers include Dr. Ernest Hovingh of the Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine; Dr. Uri Tasch of the University of Maryland, Baltimore County; and Dr. David Byers, an independent dairy nutrition and management consultant. A registration fee of $10 per person includes lunch and a publication on hoof care and management.

To register for the Jan. 23 seminar in Hagerstown, send a check payable to the Washington County EAC by Jan. 11, and mail to the Maryland Cooperative Extension, Washington County Office, 7303 Sharpsburg Pike, Boonsboro, MD 21713. For more information, call Don Schwartz, at (301) 791-1304.

Program Announced For Carroll County Extension Meeting

WESTMINSTER, Md. — The Carroll County Extension Mid-Winter Meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, Jan. 16 in Burns Hall at the ag center.

Besides providing updated information on the production and marketing of grain and forage crops, the meeting serves as an opportunity for agriculture producers to become introduced to new products and services. Nearly 20 agribusinesses set-up displays and have representatives to talk with farmers during the meeting.

In order to remain eligible to purchase "Restricted Use" pesticides, farmers must remain updated on the proper handling and use of these products. The mid-winter meeting serves this purpose also. For those individuals whose three year certificate expired December 2001 or will expire in 2002, this meeting is an opportunity to satisfy an educational requirement.

The 2002 meeting program offers a variety of educational topics, such as: "Landowner Liability and Recreational Access," "Alternative Crop Opportunities;" "Herbicide and Weed Control Update;" "Maryland Grain Marketing Issues;" "Managing Alfalfa for Increased Yield and Quality;" "Risk Management-Insurance Coverage;" "MDA Pesticide Regulations Update;" "Organic Grain Production;" and "Agricultural Risk Management (AGR) Act of 2000-New Crop Insurance."

The Carroll County Mid-Winter Meeting is open to anyone with an interest in agriculture. There is no charge to attend. Those planning to stay for lunch should call by (410) 386-2760 by Jan. 11 to reserve a ticket. The cost for lunch is $5.

The meeting will begin at 8 a.m. with milk, coffee and donuts and an opportunity to visit with the commercial exhibitors. The formal program begins at 9:25 a.m. If you have a disability that requires special assistance for your participation in a program, please contact the extension office at (410) 386-2760; Fax: (410) 876-0132, two weeks prior to the program.

Penn State Announces Course On Equine Reproduction

MERCER (Mercer Co.) — Penn State has announced a day-long "short course" Feb. 2 targeted for the serious mare or stallion owner who wishes to advance their knowledge on equine reproduction.

The meeting will be conducted at the Mercer County Cooperative Extension Center, Rt. 19, one mile north of Mercer, 463 North Perry Highway, Mercer.

Registration will be accepted by mail or fax through January 28.

The registration fee of $15 includes all costs of instruction and instructional materials, beverage breaks, and lunch.

Return completed registration form and payment to:

Featured Speakers:

Dr. Walter R. Threlfall: Professor and Head of Theriogenology Area, The Ohio State University

Dr. Ann M. Swinker: Penn State University Extension Horse Specialist, Professor of the Department of Dairy and Animal Science.

Tentative Schedule: February 2

8:30-9:00 a.m. — Registration, Coffee and Donuts

9:00-12:00 a.m. — Dr. Walter Threlfall — Reproductive physiology, manipulation of the mare's heat cycle, breeding via natural service and artificial insemination, shipping fresh cooled semen, and use of frozen semen

12:00-12:30 — Lunch Break

12:30-1:15 p.m. — Dr. Ann Swinker — Broodmare Nutrition and Body Condition Scoring. Feeding the mare throughout Gestation.

1:20-2:30 p.m. — Dr. Walter Threlfall — Advanced Technologies in Equine Reproduction

2:30 p.m. — Questions and Discussion

Pre-registration form is due by January 28. Late registrations postmarked after this date must pay an additional charge of $10 per person to register. Walk-in registrations will be accepted as space allows.

For Manheim Grower, Difference Is In The Details

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — The key is finding the limiting factor.

When Dwight Rohrer speaks of his approach to successful crop management, the discussion may sound like a bit of a science lesson.

Which is to be expected, really, from a lifetime farmer and agronomy major

Rohrer's management techniques have helped him win the top corn yield contest in the Pennsylvania shelled corn class in 2000 Additionally he had the highest soybean yields in Pennsylvania in 1996. He has participated in local yield contests since he began farming in 1997.

Most recently, he began entering the statewide contest for the past four years Prior to that he had entered the local Manheim Young Farmer's yield contest Rohrer is also planning on entering the upcoming national contest

"I'm a fairly competitive person," he said. "That's probably why I participate in the field contests I learn a lot, too." Exchanging information about what worked this season or what other producers are experimenting with provides essential help, said Rohrer.

"I don't enter just to win," he said. "My goal is to be able to evaluate myself against other producers Contests allow farmers to compare themselves to growers in their area

"Contests show me where I'm at," he said "In farm management your goal should be to maintain production in the top 10 percent of the industry, so competition allows me to evaluate that I also see what I can learn from what other producers are doing," he said

Crop Management

With 65 acres on his farm, Rohrer finds it necessary to maximize production "We just try to do the best with what we have," he said

Since there is no underground or nearby water source available for irrigation, water is his "most limiting factor "

"The general principle in any crop is that the producer needs to find what the limiting factor is and manage that the best they can," he said "In this area, rainfall is the limiting factor, and I work to make sure that moisture is the only limiting factor of my yield, because that's the only part I can't control " Factors such as seed, fertilizer, and most pests can be managed, explained Rohrer

"I try to buy good seed, make sure the corn doesn't run out of nutrients, and make sure there is no insect pressure or soil compaction issue to deal with to limit production "

As for advice for other crop growers, "don't worry about rain," he said. "Do the best you can with what you have, and don't worry about the rest "

One technique he uses to maximize moisture is to intentionally deep-till in the fall to create vertical channels for water to filter

"I've found that erosion is lower in those fields with

Improving Corn Silage Harvest Timing

This is my first Between the Rows since I left last September for a six-month visit to the Miner Institute in northern New York to study corn silage and dairy cows After going through another silage harvest here with my Miner experience under my belt, I thought a few comments on silage harvesting might be in order

My hosts at Miner, Ev Thomas and Dr Charlie Sniffen, continually reinforced to me the idea that to make milk, cows need good and consistent forage quality from both hay crops and corn silage The Miner staff conducted a survey of active farms a few years back in their area and found that there is a wide range of corn silage quality being fed, dispelling the idea that ' silage is silage "

There are many factors that influence silage quality, but perhaps the biggest one is the timing of harvest Harvesting too late is especially devastating Late-harvested silage (greater than 40 percent DM) generally has lower fiber digestibility, harder kernels, less sugar, and slightly lower yields than that harvested in the desired moisture range It also packs less well and is more subject to yeast and molds All of these factors could result in two pounds less production per cow, translating into a $10,000 loss annually on a 100-cow herd

Even though we all realize the issues with harvesting

Ag Secretary Leads Trade Mission To Mexico

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Building for agriculture's tomorrow, Agriculture Secretary Sam Hayes recently led an agriculture products group to Mexico with 18 students from Delaware Valley College and eight students from W.B. Saul Agricultural High School on an Export for Scholars trade mission. The scholars were accompanied by administrative leaders and faculty from the two agricultural schools.

"We live in a global marketplace," Hayes said. "Pennsylvania agriculture needs to maintain its ability to compete at home and around the planet. The Export for Scholars program provides an opportunity for Pennsylvania agriculture students to have a hands-on learning experience in a real-world marketplace. There is absolutely no reason why we should delay a person's entry into the international arena. The students did very well on the trade mission. It was a good opportunity for them to learn about the professional world in which they will have to compete throughout the 21st century."

The goal of the Export for Scholars program is to promote the marketing and exporting of Pennsylvania Holsteins and to familiarize students with the export principles that operate in the international arena of agricultural trade.

In addition to learning "Pennsylvania Agriculture has Products for the Planet," students at W.B. Saul Agricultural High School and Delaware Valley College, for several weeks, managed Holstein heifers at their dairy facilities. Students were introduced to export principles such as customer needs, animal selection, price, international border requirements, the role of trade missions, the need to build relationships, and the importance of understanding the significance of culture in the global marketplace.

Hayes, the students, and other agriculture professionals hosted a Pennsylvania Holstein Field Day during the trade mission, and also attended many business meetings, dairy ranches,the Queretaro Livestock Exposition, agricultural colleges in Queretaro and Guanajuato, and New Holland's farm machine factory in Mexico.

The Export for Scholars program was initiated by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, and the recent trade mission as the second of its kind conducted through this program. In 2000, Secretary Hayes led Delaware Valley College and Saul students to Puerto Rico, which entailed the actual export of bred dairy heifers.

Upon completion of the recent trade mission to Mexico, student participants reflected on their experiences.

"I learned more in eight days about international agricultural business than I could have in a semester of college," said Jake Lantzsch of Delaware Valley College. "It is a great experience for anyone in 21st century agriculture."

"Export for Scholars," said Del-Val's Audrey A. Nissly, "has provided me with a priceless international agricultural experience, and opened my eyes to many new things. I have learned the importance of the global marketplace."

And Troy Davis of W. B. Saul High School said, "Export for Scholars is a great opportunity for students interested in agriculture. It allows you to get the experience and knowledge of exporting animals."

Pennsylvania export of live animals have averaged about $17.7 million dollars in the past three years. One-third of the state's live animal exports were cattle and calves (dairy and beef). In 2001, total exports of Pennsylvania agriculture products totaled over $1 billion.

Over 80 Holstein heifers were sold and exported to Mexico as part of this Export for Scholars program.

An order for another 250 dairy heifers was received by the scholars and trade mission group while they were in Mexico. It is expected that this group of dairy heifers will be exported after the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Agro 2002 in January.

The Pennsylvania Holstein Association participated in the selection of registered heifers for this export package. Dave Lenz of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association said, "The Export for Scholars program not only resulted in Pennsylvania heifers being sent to Mexico; but, the trade mission came back home with an order for more heifers. This is good business for Pennsylvania dairy breeders."

Dairy professionals joining the trade mission were Burket Falls Farm and Bardale-McMath Farm, both of whom are engaged in the export of dairy heifers to Mexico through the efforts of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Local Corn, Soybean Fuel Studies Under Way

York County Hires Ag Development Specialist

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

YORK (York Co.) — Crop growers and economic development leaders continue to investigate the possibility of building biofuel production facilities in the area.

Turning local crops into fuel could boost profits for farmers, in addition to providing cleaner burning, renewable substitutes for fossil fuels, supporters of the inititative say.

Two new studies will assess the feasibility of producing ethanol from corn and biodiesel from soybeans in a nine-county area of southeast Pennsylvania.

"Both studies are moving ahead," said Scott Welsh, recently hired York County agriculture economic development specialist.

BBI International, an independent consulting firm based in Colorado, began work on the first phase of an ethanol feasibility study in early December, Welsh said.

The $30,000 study is funded in part by private utility companies and by the Keystone Development Center, a USDA-backed nonprofit agency to assist farmer cooperatives.

One of the issues the study will address is the best location for a prospective ethanol plant within an area including Berks, Chester, Cumberland, Dauphin, Lebanon, Lancaster, and York counties.

Along with the possible addition of Adams and Franklin counties, that area encompasses a Regional Economic Development District Initiative (REDDI) aimed at boosting the region's economy, according to David Carver, president of the York County Economic Development Corporation (YCEDC).

Carver said that several northern Maryland counties could also benefit from a local biofuel facility.

Carver and the YCEDC first threw their support behind the ethanol project when York County's Agricultural Economic Development Alliance suggested the idea at a meeting last January.

According to Carver, considering a biodiesel plant to produce fuel from soybeans is compatible with the ethanol initiative, even though the two fuels are produced by fundamentally different methods: oil extrusion vs. fermentation, respectively.

Both facilities would require a similar infrastructure of land, roads, and electrical power to support them, Carver said.

A $15,000 study to look at the possibility of building a biodiesel plant in the area was also launched in early December.

Funded by the Pennsylvania soybean checkoff program and conducted by A.U.S. Consultants of Morristown, N.J., the study is concerned with the "general economic feasibility" of a biodiesel plant in the area, Welsh said.

Welsh was hired by the YCEDC in November to facilitate agricultural economic development initiatives in the county.

A Lebanon County native, Welsh received a bachelor of ag sciences degree from Penn State and was employed by Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service, Brownstown, for six years before coming to the YCEDC.

Welsh said his job will present opportunities to work on a variety of projects to bolster local agriculture.

"I'll be going out and talking to farmers and agribusinesses (to learn) what is threatening their livelihood," he said.

Besides working on biofuel possibilities, Welsh also plans to focus on direct-marketing and other cooperative incentives for farmers.

The York Ag Alliance consists of a group of farmers, ag agencies, and agribusinesses working with the YCEDC to enhance the local ag economy and "preserve the farmer," according to spokesman Tony Dobrosky.

Two steering committees formed out of the Alliance this year are guiding the ethanol and biodiesel initiatives.

Dan Wolf, a Stewartstown-area corn grower, heads the six-member ethanol committee.

According to Wolf, the larger scope of the ethanol project would involve forming a corn producer's cooperative with members pledging a portion of each year's crop to ethanol production.

YCEDC President Carver said that the "high-technology cooperative" would be supervised by farmers, with some investments coming from other sources.

A reasonable goal for such a cooperative would be to provide dividends to corn producers of $.30 per bushel above the going market rate, Wolf said.

Bill Myers, a Pioneer Seeds sales representative from Hanover, heads the soybean biodiesel steering committee.

Myers pointed out the increasing use of biodiesel across the nation.

According to a recent edition of "Soybean Digest," diesel-powered vehicles require "little or no engine modification" in order to burn biodiesel. The article says the fuel was beginning to be sold to the public in California and Nevada and used in USDA truck fleets across the country.

A Penn State Cooperative Extension publication from York County warns of the adverse effect on engines of crude soybean oil in a diesel blend (soy diesel).

Soybean oil must go through an extensive purification process before it is safe to use as a fuel, the report noted.

Meanwhile, Penn State's State's Energy Institute is conducting research on ways to use filtered and clarified crude soybean oil as a diesel fuel supplement.

According to the extension article, biodiesel could be produced for about $1.75 per gallon if a by-product of the process, glycerol, could be marketed.

However, "large capital costs" are involved in getting a biodiesel processing facility started, the article noted.

The feasibility of ethanol and/or biodiesel facilities in the area depends on the commitment of a large number of crop growers, according to proponents.

According to 1997 USDA census statistics, the nine-county REDDI area in southeastern Pennsylvania grew 383,746 acres of corn for grain and 176,983 acres of soybeans.

Welsh said a proposed ethanol facility would be targeted to produce about 20 million gallons of ethanol per year — requiring about eight million bushels of corn.

Ag Secretary Leads Trade

tion said, "I participate in Department of Agriculture trade missions to build relationships with prospective buyers in Mexico. You can't do that by e-mail or fax."

Wenger Farm Machinery is also interested in the export of agriculture equipment due to PDA's initiative to have Pennsylvania agri-business enter the international arena.

St. Joseph University had the opportunity to establish food marketing collaboration with colleges in Mexico.

One of Pennsylvania's leading food companies on the domestic front is TastyKake of Philadelphia. The company is now exploring the Mexican market as a result of trade mission business meetings arranged by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Rodale Institute has an active food education program which the Pennsylvania-based institute wants to "export" to Mexico. As part of the trade mission, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture initiated food education pilot projects for Rodale Institute at two elementary schools, one in the State of Mexico and the other in the State of Queretaro.

Dr. Neil Vincent, vice president for academic affairs at Delaware Valley College, said, "We are excited and pleased to affirm Delaware Valley College's interest in the Export for Scholars program initiated by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. Student involvement in purchasing, breeding, and raising of dairy heifers for export to Mexico provides them with critical and invaluable international experience."

Saul High School Principal Thomas Scott summarized this year's trade mission well when he said, "The training our FFA students went through prepared them for the real world as much as any single program in their high school careers. The goals of the program were clear and readily understood. And the cultural aspect enlarged their universe. Export for Scholars is a life-changing experience."

More than manure
At Mid-Atlantic, we have more than pumps, spreaders and all that stuff. We have the products you need for your whole "agrisystem."
Bucket of Bugs
Desert Microbial Products
Do you want to eliminate noxious odors, reduce solids, and convert your liquid manure into a highly effective organic fertilizer? We have the solution. Bucket of Bugs is proving itself to be the best product available for manure management
The Woodchuck
Shavings Spreader
This new product will spread your sawdust, shavings, sand, etc. in a matter of minutes. It adapts quickly and easily to most skid steer loaders and three point hitches to do your bedding as a one-man operation
Livestock Waterers
Energy-free tip tanks
SPI Livestock Waterers are durable and rust-free and can be floor or wall mounted. They come with a built-in tip handle to ensure you never misplace it
Micro Pivot
From Hydrus
This lightweight irrigation system works great for separated liquid, hog manure, or any other situation where a small system is needed
Houle
Liquid pumps and spreaders
No more "one size fits all." All Houle equipment is made to order, allowing for each piece to fit your requirements exactly
Rental & Custom Services
We have the equipment you need available for rental. Also, contact Bio-Spread, our custom spreading branch, and find out how we can help take a load off!

The second component will focus on evaluating producers value-added business plans. Low margins are causing an increasing number of producers to explore ways to gain more control over the market for their products. Many value-added activities involve alliances along the value chain or group efforts such as alliances or cooperative arrangements. Unfortunately, for every effort that succeeds, another fails. This session looks at some of the issues that need to be considered ahead of time.

The last segment of the Farm School will analyze the characteristics of successful family businesses. Most commercial farms involve more than one family member and frequently multiple generations. Some of the businesses and the relationships involved thrive, others are torn apart. The businesses that are successful over time tend to be heading off potential problems by addressing causes.

There will be a special Agriculture Finance Breakfast seminar Feb. 5, which will be held prior to the all-day school, from 7-8:30 a.m. Following the all-day school, the annual Farm School Alumni Dinner will be from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Bird-In-Hand Restaurant. This informal event will provide a round table discussion with Dr. Klinefelter for you to bring your personal questions.

The second day of the Farm School on Feb. 6, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Leola Family Restaurant, will be geared to FFA and 4-H students in Lancaster County. This free seminar will also focus on "The Farm Executive for the 21st Century," but will also include an in-depth discussion on the industrialization of agriculture. This will focus on the future of agriculture and the changing business structure. This discussion will also look at the overall coordinated production system and what drives demand.

You will not want to miss great opportunity to hear Dr. Klinefelter.

For more information, contact Brent Landis at The Lancaster Chamber at (717) 397-3531 x 134 or blandis@lcci.com. You can register by filling out the Farm School registration form on this page and mailing it to The Chamber or register online at www.lancaster-chamber.com under the calendar of events.

Maturing Orchardgrass On The Market

(A Week - 10 Days Later Than Pennlate)

BARAULA's late heading will change the way farmers think about orchardgrass. Its late heading makes it superb for mixing with alfalfa. BARAULA has been proven to be later maturing than Satin orchardgrass.

- VERY late heading.
- Not as clumpy as Pennlate and other varieties.
- Does not head out much in second cutting, even if cut before heading in first cutting.
- Soft leaves
- Very leafy
- High yields

Northern Bedford Senior To Sing At Farm Show Opening Ceremony

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

NEW ENTERPRISE (Bedford Co.) — Kendy Gable, 17-year-old daughter of Bernetta and Bradley Gable, will sing "There You'll Be" at the opening ceremony of the Pennsylvania State Farm Show on Saturday, January 5, as a part of the Governor's address.

Kendy, a vivacious, multi-talented brunette, was chosen for this honor after singing at the National FFA Convention in Louisville.

At the convention, Secretary of Agriculture Samuel Hayes Jr. heard Kendy and asked her to perform at the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

"Most of my success with singing can be attributed to working with the Meistersingers," said Kendy. This is a group of professional-like singers with a 34-year history at Northern Bedford County High School. With them she has sung at the Kennedy Center and the state capitol. Last year, she was selected for the role of "Milly," in the high school's musical performance of Seven Brides for Seven Brothers.

"Just being selected for the Meistersingers was a honor," said Kendy. "We only get together to practice about three hours a week. However, we are expected to practice a lot on our own. Our instructor, Steve Augnst, makes videotapes and we have to perform with them. He looks for kids who can learn a whole show in a day."

Kendy credits her mother, Bernetta, with being her faithful audience as she practices.

"I could sing all of the songs right along with her," said Bernetta. "The dances too, she adds laughingly, "I just didn't want anyone to see me."

"And I certainly credit my farm background with getting to sing at the Farm Show," Kendy says.

Her mother her owns Snider's Guernsey barn took her daughter to the barns before she could even walk. "I guess I wanted to show cows from the time I could hold a halter," Kendy said.

Active in the Southern Cove Dairy 4-H until she reached high school age, Kendy says she is now a member of the Northern Bedford FFA. "We have a wonderful FFA," she says. "And I credit Mrs. Kring for that."

The year 2001 has been the best ever for Kendy in cattle showing. "I showed at the World Dairy Expo and took a first in both junior and open," she said.

"I also participated in the North American Livestock competition in Louisville.

"Always before I was in my brother Aaron's shadow. This year I did a lot on my own."

Her favorite cow is a Guernsey, "Snider's Sensation Dhurma," which Kendy raised from a calf. "I am so proud of her."

Although Snider's is most proud of their Guernseys and consider them their first love, Kendy has also shown Jerseys. "Someone gave me one when I was little and Mom thought it would be better for me because I was small and so was the cow," Kendy explained.

After high school, Kendy plans to enter college to study ag communications and dairy science.

"I would also like to have fun with my voice, like, cut a record at Nashville. But, I do realize that getting to the top by singing takes a lot of breaks. Who knows, I might get one. If not, I want to have something steady to fall back on."

"After all, no matter what you do, it takes some breaks and knowing the right people. That's why it is so important to meet all kinds of people," Kendy said with maturity far beyond her years.

Getting to know people has never been a problem for Kendy. In addition to her singing and farm activities, she plays the sax in the high school band and the piano for fun.

She has been active as a cheerleader, plays volleyball, dances, acts, and writes for the school paper.

This year was a special Christmas at the Snider Homestead farm. Next year, Aaron will be living on his own and Kendy will be in college.

Worried about their mom being lonely, Kendy and Aaron bought her a St. Bernard puppy. "She just had to have someone to keep her company," said Kendy.

Kendy holds the St. Bernard puppy she bought her mom for Christmas. Kendy will sing at the opening ceremony of the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family
Features Editor

HEGINS (Schuylkill Co.) "It's a challenge and my hobby," Sally Reinoehl said of the reasons she enters about 50 items in the family living division at the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Although she has stacks of ribbons, Sally said that she hasn't won every category she enters, but she's determined. Armed with pencil and paper, Sally frequents the family living area during Farm Show week to mark down obvious and not-so-obvious details of the winning entries.

For example, she can tell you that a dark chocolate cake always wins the competition, and that blue ribbon white rolls are baked separately. She also knows quite a few secrets that she won't divulge.

Last year, Sally took home 26 ribbons for her canned goods, 17 ribbons for her baked goods, and two best of show ribbons were for her canned goods and for her fruit braid roll.

Although those awards give her a sense of achievement, she is frustrated that she can't unlock the secret criteria judges use for pickle relish.

"I never got a ribbon for my relish, but I think it looks as good or better than those that win. I just can't figure out what the judges see that I don't," she said.

"But I'm going to keep entering it until I win," Sally said.

The challenge was what initiated her to enter the state competition in the early 1990s. She said, "I always went to the Farm Show, and I'd see these entries, and I'd say, "My stuff looks as good or better than that."

So one year, she packed up some of her canned goods and entered the Farm Show.

Guess what? She didn't win much.

Most people probably would have given up entering, but not Sally. Instead she started studying what judges were looking for. She valued any tidbits of information judges sometimes mark on entries. She found out that it is necessary to remove rings from canned goods. One little bit of corrosion or discoloration on the lid can disqualify an entry, she said. So before she tightens rings on a jar lid she covers it with plastic wrap. This prevents discoloration.

Although her favorite canned peach for eating is Jubilee, Sally said that variety doesn't look as nice in a jar. Firmer peaches are better for appearance because they retain their shape. A winning entry of canned peaches has each peach uniform in size, and the fruit distributed evenly from top to bottom. That requires hot packing — a more time consuming endeavor than a boiling water bath.

Sally and her husband Frank still live on the farmland on which she grew up. In fact, Sally said that she was

(Turn to Page B4)

Sally examines her ginger snap cookies baked for Farm Show competition. Her family jokes that they learned a long time ago to eat rejects and save the perfect specimens for Farm Show entries.

It took Sally a whole hour to place these green beans in a jar. But her attention to meticulous detail begins long before packing a jar. She pours over gardening books to select the perfect seed to plant, harvest, and preserve for canned bean entry. The bean must be uniform and straight with no curves to cause havoc for packing.

Here are a few of the canned goods Sally, an elementary school teacher, will be taking to the Farm Show. Her entries include homecanned cherry tomatoes, blackberries, peaches, plums, apricots, corn, beans, sauerkraut, pumpkin, ketchup, spaghetti sauce, grape juice, jellies, jams, pickled watermelon rind, and even homemade noodles.

born while her father was preparing entries for the fair. Her 80-year-old father still lives in the farmhouse, sprays the fruit trees, picks sweet corn for the roadside stand they operate together, and cares for several nut trees. He helps Sally take her entries to the farm show and also enters several nut categories.

Growing lots of fruit and vegetables and preserving them have always been part of Sally's life. When she married a non-farmer, it didn't take him long to realize that home processed food tastes much better than store-purchased. The couple's two daughters are now grown and live independently, but the Reinoehl's fill three freezers with home processed fruits and vegetables. They also do their own butchering even making scrapple and sausage.

September is an especially busy month. That's when Sally, who teaches elementary education, goes back to school and when many fruits and vegetables mature. It's also the month of local fairs. Sally enters items in TriValley, Schuylkill, and Gratz fairs.

Frank often assists Sally by peeling and emptying garbage during those long hours in garden and kitchen. It isn't unusual for her to stay up to 1 a.m. and arise at 6 a.m. to get everything ready for local fairs.

When her daughters still lived at home, they often helped their mom with her entries and entered some of their own. Daughter Lindsay won best of show with her gingerbread houses. Her dream is to return to Pennsylvania so that she can enter some of her work.

Lindsay said, "I remember going to the Farm Show in good and bad weather — but we never missed."

When it comes to picking out gifts for her mother, it's always been easy, Lindsay said. "She loves cookbooks."

Sally said that she spends hours researching cookbooks and seeing what's out there.

Generally she enters family favorites, but admits that a few times, she prepared a new recipe for entry. "After you bake so much, you can read a recipe and almost taste it," she said.

One year she used a new recipe for the chocolate cake competition. Unfortunately, she couldn't remove the cake from the pans. She dug the cake out in pieces. Her husband advised her not to give up but to doctor it up.

So she filled the cake's cracks and holes with a cream cheese filling and covered it with frosting.

"Icing covers all sins," Sally said of cake disasters.

Her tenet proved true when the cake placed first at a local fair.

Things don't always turn out as well.

"My goal is to do the best I can in everything," Sally said. "If it isn't quality work, I don't bother the judges with it," Sally said.

She laments that too much emphasis is placed on appearance for the Hershey's Chocolate Cake and the Blue Ribbon Apple Pie contests. Some years, it looks like a flower show rather than a cake show.

Sally said, "You can have a beautiful cake, but does it taste good? I don't care what it looks like, it's the taste that matters."

Sally said that sometimes, she figures out what judges want, and then they change judges. Sometimes she just takes a chance. For example, she has noticed that blueberries are the berry of choice for a gold ribbon in the berry category, but Sally is hoping her blackberries will topple that tradition this year. She picked huge blackberries, sorted through a whole bucket to find uniform ones, and canned them. The canned blackberries appear perfect with no bubbles in the jar and the liquid completely covers them.

"I hope to win, but you never know," she conceded.

The school faculty is always eager to sample Sally's entries. She always encourages her students to enter local fairs. "It's exciting for them to win a ribbon and builds their self-esteem," Sally said.

Although Sally has some recipes and secrets she will never divulge, here is one of her family's favorite cookie recipes — and a consistent winner at competitions.

Ginger Snap Cookies

1 cup sugar
¾ cup shortening, melted, cooled
¼ cup green label Brer Rabbit molasses
1 egg
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon cloves

Beat together sugar and shortening. Add molasses and eggs. Beat in remaining ingredients. Form dough into one-inch balls, roll in sugar. Flatten with the bottom of a glass dipped into sugar. Bake at 375 degrees for 8-10 minutes.

Why Be Sick, Tired & Overweight
When You Could Be Healthy & Energetic
With The UNI Wellness Program?

Americans have some of the worst health problems in the world, because most food is grown with chemicals, weed killers, insecticides, and processed with chemicals to increase shelf life. These toxic poisons hinder the immune system from protecting your health and fighting off diseases. Fried and food baked with white flour, sugar and high calories, will produce high cholesterol and plaque in the arteries, and cause over weight and heart attacks. There is a better way.

Why not try the UNI Wellness Program? This includes organically grown Juice Plus fruits and vegetables in concentrated capsule form are guaranteed to be 99 9% pure (no chemicals or toxins). These "all natural" products and live enzymes supply ALL your body's daily nutritional needs. You don't need any other vitamins, minerals or supplements. Costs much less than supplements and the toxic produce you buy at the supermarket The first 2 items shown below are to help prevent health problems "An ounce of prevention (good nutritious food) is much better and costs considerably less than an attempted cure (doctor and hospital bills)" The other 2 solution items are to help people who already have a health problem Select a plan according to your age and health condition.

On Being a Farm Wife

Joyce Bupp

For years, they've gone hand in hand.

The New Year. And the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Anything new in agriculture, you could generally figure on being able to see, touch, or at least learn about it at the Farm Show. During our high school years, Farm Show was one of those events tempting to "hook out" of classes for, because it ran only Monday through Friday. (No, I never did; it would have been the first and last time if I did and it was found out.) Our kids, as cattle exhibitors, were readily able to receive permission from school for time off to participate.

Now, the Farm Show runs over this weekend for those who can't get off from work or school, but one less weekday. This year brings one of those "temporary inconvenience...permanent improvement" periods of time, with the multi-million renovations and expansion of this Harrisburg landmark.

The Farm Show offers more things to see than most of us can possibly catch in one visit. (Especially if you go with a spouse who wants to ponder at length the merits of various pieces of equipment). Sometimes we just part company for awhile and go different directions to see items of specific interest, especially if he wants to visit at length about equipment while I want to linger over the crafts and homemaking entries.

Here's a random check-list for your Farm Show visit (or to rehash it if you've already been there this year):

- Number of little kids you counted sitting on tractor seats, wide-eyed, wearing big grins;
- Winner of the new rural holiday ornament contest;
- The nut display (no, no, not people...we mean like walnuts, pecans, hickories, etc.);
- Educational displays designed by and in competition among statewide FFA chapters;
- Number of adult guys you counted sitting on tractor seats, wide-eyed, wearing big grins;
- A bird of prey on display at the nature center area;
- Winning garments from the 4-H sewing project entries;
- Number of frustrated-looking moms, wives, and sisters tapping their feet with impatience at the big and little guys, wide-eyed and wearing big grins, crawling on and off tractor seats;
- Entries in the sheep fleece competition, judged for qualities like length and kink of wool strands;
- A cooking demonstration featuring Pennsylvania-produced food;
- Number of folks spied trying to juggle milk shakes, deep fried mushrooms, apple cider, baked potato, fish sandwiches while trying to guide kids through the ever-popular food court. Bon Appetite!
- The champion Christmas tree;
- Honey and related products, like candy and beeswax candles;
- Floral arrangements (and flowers to take home for a special someone from the horticulture folks)'
- Those stunning, giant, draft horses;
- Competitive displays of vegetables including things like black radishes, rutabagas and parsnips (yes, Virginia, folks actually grow and eat those);
- The champion dressed turkey, hoarded from Christmas dinner-use for show competition;
- Number of little kids (and big ones) petting squeaky-clean cows, fluffy sheep, snoozing pigs;
- A blue-ribbon dozen of eggs;
- The butter sculpture;
- The Department of Agriculture's new WoodMobile;
- Disappointingly, no prized poultry this year, due to an outbreak of Avian Influenza in the state. (My favorite place to take the kids when they were little and got bored before all the cow exhibiting chores were finished.)

For the Farm Show, this is truly a week for "ringing out the old" in a facility that has been such a part of Pennsylvania's agriculture history and heritage.

And we can hardly wait to see the "bringing in the new" in an expanded, spruced-up Farm Show site of the 21st century.

Cheese Carving Contest Set For Pennsylvania Farm Show

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Cheese lovers and food enthusiasts will demonstrate their patriotism and creative flair by entering the fourth annual Cheese Carving Contest to be conducted during the 2002 Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg.

Pennsylvania residents participating in the "Simply American: Cheese Carving Contest" will compete for more than $500 in cash and prizes. Contestants age 15 or over have been required to submit a description of their patriotic cheese carving idea, along with a photo or sketch of the actual creation.

Six finalists will participate in a "carve-off" at the Pennsylvania Farm Show on Jan. 6. Finalists will be provided with one five-pound block of cheddar cheese, one paring knife and other carving "tools."

A panel of local celebrity judges will select the top three winners, who will be awarded gourmet cheese baskets and $150, $100 and $50 respectively. All finalists will receive prizes and have their creations showcased in the cheese display in the Food Court.

The annual contest is sponsored by Mid-Atlantic Dairy Association, American Dairy Association & Dairy Council Mid East, and the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program.

"This is an exciting way to celebrate one of America's favorite foods," said Deanna Rose, communications specialist for Mid-Atlantic Dairy Association and contest coordinator. "The interest and popularity of domestic cheese is definitely growing, and the contest provides a fun and festive setting to highlight the versatility of cheese."

4-H Accepting Food Donations At The Farm Show

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Visitors to the Pennsylvania Farm Show are urged to contribute to the statewide 4-H Can Make A Difference food drive and help feed the hungry. Donated cans, boxes and bags of nonperishable food will be used to construct a 4-H House of Food made out of donated food products.

The house symbolizes 4-H'ers hopes that the pantry shelves in every Pennsylvania home will be stocked with food. The display will be located in the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture exhibit.

This is the first year the 4-H food drive has been initiated with the Farm Show and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. Food products will be donated to the Central Pennsylvania Food Bank, which distributes food to 320 nonprofit groups, including soup kitchens, shelters, and food pantries.

"Traditionally, food drives take place during the Christmas season, but the need for food doesn't go away after the holidays," said Marilyn Corbin, state program leader for children, youth and families with Penn State Cooperative Extension. "In an agricultural state such as Pennsylvania, it's sad that people still go hungry. The Pennsylvania food banks are in desperate need of our help."

Non-perishable items always are needed. Some of the types of foods most needed include: canned tuna, canned meats and stews, soups, peanut butter, canned fruits and vegetables, packaged pasta and rice, canned and dried beans, pure fruit and vegetable juices, nonfat dry milk, baby food, cereal, and formula (must be within code date).

The Department of Health requires that all cans have labels and are free of dents or rust. Packaged goods must be factory sealed. Health laws prohibit the distribution of home-canned or home-packaged foods.

Statistics from the Pennsylvania Hunger Action Center show that more than 736,800 Pennsylvanians are "food insecure" each year, and that number is rising. More than half of those are children.

"4-H is proud to lead such an important effort to make a difference in the lives of needy citizens," said Corbin. "4-H encourages all citizens to join in the fight to eliminate hunger in this state and to become involved in local community action initiatives."

"As we gather this holiday season around tables with a bounty of delicious food, it is important to reflect on the fact that the threat of hunger is a widening phenomenon in our society," she said. "It doesn't have to be this way. By donating food to the 4-H Can Make a Difference House, you can help to reduce the threat of hunger so children and families can live a more healthy life."

Readers Submit Best Beef, Veal Recipes

Our readers love beef and veal, both power-packed with protein, iron, zinc, niacin, vitamin B6 and vitamin B12.

Some families serve their traditional recipes again and again, never tiring of them. Other readers search for new recipes, adapt, improvise, and add a bit of this and that.

Participants sent in a variety of recipes that differ widely in style and ingredients but guaranteed to taste top-notch.

No matter what kind of cook you are, you're sure to want to try many of these entries appearing in the next two issues of this paper.

VEAL PARMESAN

6 breaded veal patties
6 slices Swiss cheese
½ pound spaghetti
26½-ounce can spaghetti sauce

Bake veal patties according to instructions on package. Break spaghetti into 2-inch pieces and cook until soft. Drain water and add spaghetti sauce. Cook until hot. Top baked veal beef patties with a slice of Swiss cheese and cover with spaghetti. May sprinkle with Parmesan cheese if desired.

Enjoy! Delicious served with French bread.

SWEET POT ROAST

3-4 pounds beef roast
1 onion
1 can mushroom soup
½ cup water
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ cup vinegar
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Brown meat on both sides in skillet. Add onions. Place meat in baking dish. Blend together remaining ingredients and pour over meat. Bake slow at 275 degrees for 3-4 hours.

This is a savory beef dish that our family loves. The dish doesn't require a lot of preparation.

Our 3-year-old and 15-month old are already big meat lovers so I'm looking forward to finding new recipes in Lancaster Farming to try.

Mrs. Eugene Hoover

HIGH TEMPERATURE ROASTED EYE ROUND

3-4 pounds eye round roast
2-3 cloves garlic
Salt and pepper to taste

Seasoned butter:

½ cup butter
2 teaspoons seasoned salt
1 teaspoon Italian seasonings
1 teaspoon ground black pepper
3-4 drops hot sauce

Cut 2-3 slashes in the meat and insert a clove of garlic in each slit. Let stand 1½ hours. Sprinkle salt and pepper on top. Remove garlic and put roast in an oven roasting pan. Do not cover. Do not add water.

Roast in 500 degree oven, allowing 5 minutes per pound. Do not open oven door.

After roasting at high temperature, turn off the oven and allow meat to remain in closed oven for 1½-2 hours. Combine all ingredients for the seasoned butter. Mix well. Slice and serve the roast with the seasoned butter. Makes five servings.

DRIED BEEF CASSEROLE

1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 cup milk
1 cup grated cheese
1 cup uncooked elbow macaroni
3 tablespoons finely chopped onion
¼ pound dried beef
2 hardboiled eggs, sliced

Cut dried beef into bite-sized pieces. Stir soup to creamy consistency. Add remaining ingredients except eggs. Fold in eggs. Turn into buttered 1½-quart casserole dish. Store, covered, in refrigerator for at least 3-4 hours or overnight. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour, uncovered. Serves 4-6.

Easy to make and tastes good when it is cold outside. It's a special dish for us.

BEEF STROGANOFF

2 pounds round steak
1 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
1 cup butter
1 pound onions, finely chopped
1 can tomato soup
6-ounce can tomato paste
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon soy sauce
1 cup sour cream
Minced parsley

Cut meat in very thin strips; trim off excess fat. Brown meat and mushrooms in butter. Add onions. Combine soup, tomato paste, and seasonings; add to meat mixture. Cover and simmer one hour. Just before serving, stir in sour cream. Thicken gravy, if desired. Serve over buttered noodles. Serves 8-10.

New Smithville

BEEF ALA REINE

2 cups sliced mushrooms
3-ounces dried beef, cut into strips
2 tablespoons finely chopped onions
¼ cup butter
¼ cup flour
1¼ cups milk
1 cup sour cream
1 cup shredded sharp cheese
1 package frozen asparagus spears, cooked accordingly

Cook mushrooms, beef, and onions in butter 5 minutes. Blend in flour, gradually add milk. Cook stirring constantly until thickened. Stir in sour cream and sprinkle with cheese. Cover pan and allow to stand over low heat 5 minutes or until cheese melts. Don't boil. Stir lightly. Serve over hot cooked asparagus. Can be served over rice.

BREWED BRISKET

4-5 pounds beef brisket or desired cut
1 package dry onion soup mix
1 medium onion (sliced into rings)
2 medium ribs celery, chopped
1 cup chili sauce
½ cup water
1 can or bottle beer (any kind)

Brown beef in Dutch oven. Put into roaster and sprinkle dry onion soup mix over the top of meat. Arrange onions and celery on top of brisket. Combine chili sauce and water. Pour around meat. Bake covered at 275 degrees for three hours. Pour beer over meat and continue cooking 45 minutes longer. Refrigerate overnight. Remove fat and slice thin. Warm slowly in sauce. Serves 8-10.

This is enjoyed by all of us, especially on a cold, winter day. It's great for an entree or just for sandwiches.

Gail Spielman

POT ROAST

4 medium potatoes, cubed
4 carrots, sliced
3-4 pounds rump roast, or pot roast, cut into serving size pieces
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 bouillon cube
½ cup boiling water

Put vegetables and meat in slow cooker. Stir in salt and pepper.

Dissolve bouillon cube in hot water, then pour over other ingredients.

Cover. Cook on low 10-12 hours or high 5-6 hours in 5-quart crockpot.

Good on a cold winter day.

MARINATED BRISKET OF BEEF

1 beef brisket
1½ cups Coke
⅓ cup Worcestershire sauce

Marinate meat for several hours. Drain. Combine:

1 teaspoon allspice
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon onion powder
½ cup sugar
⅓ cup soy sauce
¾ cup barbecue sauce
¼ teaspoon salt

Rub this marinade over brisket or roast beef. Bake at 325 degrees until doneness desired. For rare, 140 degrees; medium, 160 degrees; well done, 170 degrees.

My family loves this roast well done.

Mrs. Richard Beachel
Danville

OLD-FASHIONED BEEF STEW

2 pounds beef, cut into 1½-inch cubes
2 tablespoons oil
2 cups boiling water
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 clove garlic
1 medium onion, sliced
1-2 bay leaves
1 tablespoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon paprika
Dash allspice or cloves
6 carrots, diced
6 potatoes, diced
3 onions, diced
10-ounce bag baby green lima beans

Thoroughly brown meat on all sides in hot oil. Add boiling

SWISS STEAK

2 pounds round steak (1-inch thick)
3 tablespoons melted shortening
1½ teaspoon salt
1 onion, minced
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup flour
3 cups tomatoes or tomato juice

Rub salt and pepper into steak. Dredge with flour. Brown quickly on both sides in hot shortening with onion. Put into roast pan; add tomatoes. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 1½ hours. Serves 8.

This Swiss steak can be made with beef or veal. We are veal growers and our children really enjoy the baby calves.

We also enjoy veal burgers. I usually first marinate them a few hours in Italian dressing, then grill them. The burgers are delicious with bun and sliced tomatoes.

I have also marinated veal steaks in Italian dressing before grilling them. The steaks are very good also.

ROAST BEEF

This roast beef recipe is good for any size piece of beef and is great if you don't have time to spend in the kitchen. Best of all—you get an excellent meal at the end of the day.

Any size or of cut beef

Place roast in adequate size roast pan. Dice one onion over the top of the meat. Put around the meat the equal number of potatoes for the amount of people you are feeding. Pour into the pan, apple cider or grape juice or canned tomatoes with juice. Add enough liquid to almost cover the roast.

Bake in 350 degree oven for 3-4 hours. If you cover the meat with a lid, the liquid won't evaporate.

When you come in to eat, supper will be ready and you also got a day's work done.

FAVORITE BEEF ROAST

4-pound boneless chuck roast
3 tablespoons olive oil
2 teaspoons basil leaves
½ teaspoon garlic powder
½ teaspoon seasoned pepper
1 small sliced onion (separate the slices into individual rings)
1 cup hot water

In Dutch oven, brown chuck in hot oil. Sprinkle with basil leaves, garlic powder, and seasoned pepper; top with onion rings. Add hot water. Bring to a boil; cover and cook over low heat about three hours or until tender. Add more water if necessary. Remove meat to hot platter and slice. Yield: 6-8 servings.

Roasted beef is always a big hit with our family and friends. I usually present this roast with noodles.

HERB CRUSTED CHUCK ROAST

½ cup dry bread crumbs
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 garlic clove, minced
1 teaspoon ground mustard
Horseradish to taste
1 teaspoon dried savory
1 teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon dried rosemary (crushed)
3 pounds top blade roast

Mix ingredients and rub over roast. Place on a rack in a shallow roasting pan. Bake, uncovered, at 325 degrees for 1½-2 hours or until meat is tender and reaches desired doneness. Medium rare, 145 degrees; medium, 160 degrees; well done, 170 degrees. Let stand 10 minutes before carving.

POT ROAST

3½ pounds rump or chuck roast
1 onion
1½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons fat
½ cup hot tomato juice or water

Rub salt and pepper into meat and dip in flour. Brown meat and onion in 2 tablespoons fat until seared on all sides.

Place meat in casserole, Dutch oven, or electric skillet. Add hot tomato juice or water. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for three hours.

Our family loves beef and this is one way they like it. It's good served with mashed potatoes and a vegetable or two. Can use the pan drippings as a gravy.

SAVORY SWEET ROAST

3-4 pounds blade roast
1 onion
1 can mushroom soup
½ cup water
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ cup vinegar
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Brown meat on both sides in skillet. Add onions. Blend together remaining ingredients. Pour over meat. Cover and simmer 2½-3 hours or until tender. The juice is good to cook noodles in or for gravy, after the roast is done.

This can also be put into a crockpot and cooked on low for 12-16 hours.

I always enjoy browsing through cookbooks and look forward to B section of Lancaster Farming each week.

BEEF STEW

2 pounds lean beef cubes
2 tablespoons shortening
2 tablespoons flour

Roll beef cubes in flour. Heat shortening in a skillet, add beef cubes. Brown on all sides. Put into a soup pot and add the following:

1 pint tomato juice
2 teaspoons salt
2 cups water
⅛ teaspoon thyme
¼ teaspoon pepper

Cover and cook on low for 1½-2 hours. Add:

6 onions
6 potatoes
6 carrots

Cook 30-40 minutes longer, or until the vegetables are tender. Add:

1 cup frozen peas

Cook 5 minutes. Serves four hungry people. Serve with homemade cornbread or biscuits.

COUNTRY FRIED STEAK

1 round steak
1 beaten egg
2 cups Italian bread crumbs
10¾-ounce can cream of mushroom soup
Salt and pepper to taste

Cut steak into pieces the size of your closed fist. Dip into beaten egg, and generously cover with bread crumbs.

Heat a small amount of vegetable oil in a skillet, and brown both sides of steaks until crispy. Put in a 9x13-inch pan in a single layer. Mix cream of mushroom soup with a soup can of milk; spread over steaks. Cover with foil; bake at 350 degrees for 1½-2 hours or until tender.

This is a delicious way to use steaks.

BEEF AND SPINACH ROLL-UP ON FETTUCCINE

2 portions of ½ cup servings of chopped onion (½ cup for beef and ½ cup for sauce)
2 portions 3 cloves fresh garlic, chopped (3 cloves for beef and 3 cloves for sauce)
1½ pounds sliced roast beef (from deli counter)
½ pound fresh mushrooms, sliced (½ for beef and ½ for sauce)
2 boxes frozen leaf spinach
½ pound muenster cheese, cubed
1½ cups olive oil
1 large can whole tomatoes, crushed by hand
1 can tomato sauce
1 jar artichoke hearts (separate by hand)
½ cup pitted black olives, sliced
1 tablespoon basil, dried
2 tablespoons parsley, dried
1 teaspoon black pepper
Salt to taste
Parmesan cheese as needed
Preheat oven to 325 degrees.
Saute garlic and onions in margarine or butter.
Drain thawed spinach in colander.

Mix garlic, mushrooms, and cubed muenster cheese into spinach.

Put a small amount into beef and roll.

Place in 9x13-inch baking pan and bake 30-40 minutes (no longer).

In olive oil, saute remaining mushrooms, garlic, and onions. Add salt, pepper, basil, and parsley and saute 10 minutes. Add crushed (by hand) tomatoes, artichoke hearts (include the oil they are in) and olives. Simmer 25 minutes.

Serve with cooked fettuccine. Pour sauce over meat and noodles and sprinkle with parmesan cheese.

Keep Connected This Year

You probably had the chance to connect with relatives and friends whom you seldom see or hear from during the year over the holidays. At our home, we celebrated with adult children and their families. We received letters from family and friends describing the year's events in their lives. There were special activities or visits arranged between youth groups and organizations serving elderly.

Our holidays are special because they are a time for younger and older people to interact with each another.

I recently read study results that indicated during a period of one month, only five out of 25 teens could recall having any direct communication with an elderly person.

In the New Year, most of the younger people and older people are returning to their separate worlds, even those who live in the same community. Nephews and nieces are preparing to go back to college, the grandchildren have resumed school and activities, and the adults have returned to their separate routines.

What can we do to keep connected across generations all year and not just at the holidays? How can we overcome obstacles in our society, including geographic distance, family separation, age-grouped activities and separate living arrangements, that isolate the young and old and prevent interactions between young people and old people?

One of the things I look forward to is a letter I receive every January from one of my nephews. The words are simple and spoken from the heart. In addition to thanking me for his gift, he always tells me something about what he is doing at school or in one of his activities. His letter encourages me to continue our conversation. Keeping connected through letters to this nephew and other young members of my family who are separated geographically strengthens our bonds of understanding and fondness for each other. We learn about each other's interests. Knowing how young people in my family spend their time, the challenges they experience, and what they think keeps me from accepting stereotypes about young people. So, think of someone you know, block out some time, and write a letter to him or her this week.

If you are connected electronically, you may consider corresponding by e-mail. Sharing an interest about computers can help both young and old develop some new skills! Another way to keep in touch is by phone calls. One of my favorite Family Circus cartoons brings home the important connection between grandparents and grandchildren. The cartoon shows a little girl holding up a phone receiver, looking up to her mother, and asking, "Mom, can we call Grandma? I like having her in my ear."

Being needed and wanted brings purpose to older peoples' lives. Having a positive effect on children's lives brings older people a sense of fulfillment and completion. Young people, supported by caring adults who have lived through many changes, receive the gift of hope for the future. They enjoy learning from these experts who love and accept them even when they break a dish or fail a test.

There are also other ways for interacting across generations. How about making an audiotape or video tape?

This month a group of high school seniors in my hometown were recognized for their achievements in interacting with elderly people living in a local nursing home. The students used information collected from recorded interviews with the elderly people to develop an exhibit that traces the history of the area where these elderly people lived.

Whether it's through face to face visits, letters, or phone calls, make a New Year's resolution to communicate with a relative or a friend in your community. Keeping connected across generations throughout the year is what is important.

If you are interested in receiving additional ideas on ways to initiate communication across generations, contact the family living agent at your local Cooperative Extension office and request the Intergenerational Tool Kit. Other resources are also available.

Keystone Degrees To Be Awarded

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Following are names of several Keystone Degree candidates who will be receiving degrees during Farm Show ceremonies on Monday, Jan. 7 in the Large Arena. See remaining candidates listed in the Special Farm Show Section of this paper.

Roller Coaster Year For Top Guernsey Cow

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — Not many students get called out of class for a message about a cow.

But that was the case when Terri Johnson was summoned to York Central's school office from her eighth-grade classroom last May to learn that her prized 4-H show cow, Lily, was still alive.

While that message — the first the school's secretary ever had to deliver about a cow — eased 14-year-old Terri's concern, Lily was far from being out of danger.

Rutter Brothers Enhancer's Lily is Terri's 4-year-old Guernsey, one of nearly two dozen animals she owns. While Terri, and her 11-year-old sister Kelly, are very attached to all their animals, Lily may be a little more special than the rest.

Classified EX-93 and currently number one in the Guernsey breed's Cow Performance Index (CPI) measure of the genetic value of animals, Lily is a prized producer in the well-known Rutter Brothers dairy farm herd. She was the Guernsey breed's junior division grand champion at last year's Farm Show, and has been unbeaten in the junior division show ring.

The Johnson's have photos of Terri in the barn when she was just a baby. She got her first 4-H animal December 1994, at age 7, when she helped her mother deliver a heifer calf from one of the herd's show cows, Rutter Brothers Pro Kings Leamay, VG-88. Terri named the calf Lydia, in honor of her then-best friend.

"That was the first time I every really helped to pull a calf. It was just Mom and I here and there was no one else to help," says Terri of her hands-on assistance to the first calf she would show as a 4-H cloverbud member. Rutter Brothers Perfectos Lydia, scored VG-88, is listed 83 on the current CPI list. On her second calving, April Fool's Day 1997, Lydia delivered the heifer calf Terri named Lily, her first very own bred and owned animal.

In May 2001, four years after Lily's birth, the prized cow lay stretched out in the farm's dry cow pasture, unable to stand. Lily had been dried off and turned out for her pre-calving rest period just one day earlier. During a chilling rainstorm, which had blown through overnight, Lily had gone down.

Herd veterinarian Dan Pike was already away on another emergency, and unable to come immediately. Terri's mom, herd manager Cindy Johnson, quickly treated the downed Lily for milk-fever, while attempting to dry and warm her with towels.

Once Dr. Pike arrived, he began intravenous treatment of Lily for shock and, eventually, she stood. His intent was for Lily to slowly return to the barn, a few steps at a time. The big Guernsey had her own ideas. She walked, non-stop, the whole way to the barn.

Lily was found to be battling a Clostridial infection, a usually deadly condition. A battery of medicines was administered to absorb the toxins her body was producing and reduce her high fever. But, she was unable to get up, even after three days of continuous intravenous treatment.

Terri, right, and Kelly Johnson will each have three head from their junior show strings at the Farm Show, including Lily, Terri's youth Guernsey champion from last year.

"My mom decided that we should try and float her," says Terri in a heart-tugging story about the experience she recently wrote for her 4-H dairy project book. "Floating would let her stand in warm water, while only supporting 20 percent of her body weight."

Floating was recommended to continue for 12 hours, and the equipment was not ready until two o'clock that afternoon. Thus, at 2 a.m., the Johnson's were out with flashlights, draining the float and holding their breaths with anxious anticipation. Lily walked out — and headed to the water bowl.

But later that day, the big cow lay down to rest and was, again, unable to stand. After two more days, the float equipment was hauled back for a second try.

It was six days before Lily finally gained enough strength to rise back up on her own after resting. Meanwhile, she contracted coliform mastitis. The often-devastating udder infection fortunately responded to a treatment regime and cleared within the week.

Sickness had cost Lily a good deal of body weight, so she was put in a separate pen and hand grazed during an extended recovery period. Once she had gained back both weight and strength, she was turned back out with the other dry cows. Any concerns about Lily's stamina vanished when she promptly began bullying dry herdmates over feed and territory.

"I felt such a great relief when she started fighting with the other cows. I thought my cow was back to feeling normal," says Terri in her 4-H story.

Lily's freshening date came — and went — with no signs of her udder bagging up. A vet check found her uterus filled with fluid, making detection of a normal fetus difficult. On Aug. 1, while the county's 4-H dairy roundup was under way, Lily was induced into labor. Not only Terri and her family, but many of her friends showing at the roundup, anxiously waited for news.

"What a relief to see a set of front feet, following by a moving tongue, coming out of the birth canal. The calf was finally here. It weighed 100 pounds, which is big for a Guernsey and best of all, it was a girl," writes Terri. "My mom wanted to call it Lucky because of all she went through, but I decided to call her Luscious because she is so special."

Luscious has grown into a hefty, spunky, five-month heifer, which Terri and her sister, Kelly, are already halter breaking along with several other project calves. Mother Lily bounced back from near death to collect a string of champion wins to add to her unbeaten junior show record.

Not only did she milk more than 100 pounds on each of this lactation's first four DHIA tests, she was selected the winning 4-year-old in both junior and open classes at the Pa. All-American Dairy Show at Harrisburg in late September. Later in the show, she was named the Total Performance Winner of the Guernsey breed show. That same week, her 15-month-old son, Rutter Brothers Luxury's Legend, was released for service with Select Sires.

Lily, initially dubbed an "ugly calf" by family members, is remembered as being a gawky, not a particularly strong-looking heifer. In fact, she was left at the barn during show season because she was not good enough to include on the show string.

"She started to blossom just before she calved for the first time," said Cindy Johnson. Two weeks after calving at 2 years and 3 months, Lily was scored 89. Classification a year later raised her to EX-92 and in October, she earned another point for EX-93 designation. In November, she was at the top of the Guernsey breed CPI list, which scores equal value for butterfat, protein, and type performances.

Lily first walked into a show arena as a junior 2-year-old in the county's 4-H roundup and went on to be named unanimous junior division, junior 2-year-old All-American. She won at the Louisville National Guernsey breed show both as a junior 2- and 3-year-old, and was reserve champion of the junior show at the 2000 Pennsylvania All-American.

Meanwhile, Lily completed a 305-day, 2-02 record of 19,297 milk, 5.2 percent, 990 pounds butterfat, 3.6 percent, 689 pounds protein, then followed with 3-02 record of 25,365 milk, 5.1 percent, 1,302 butterfat, 3.2 percent, 811 pounds protein.

Embryo flushing of Lily has yielded limited results; she is now serviced with hopes for a September calf. Terri, of course, enjoys getting heifers out of Lily, while national A.I. firms are interested in a bull calf.

Lily was recently featured on the cover of the Guernsey breed journal, peacefully grazing under one of the Rutter farm's massive old trees, with one of the dairy firm's antique home-delivery milk trucks parked in the background. A tame, gentle cow, she munched her way through the two-hour photography session, standing and eating where she was posed.

"It was so impressive to read Terri's story," says York extension 4-H agent Linda Spahr, who encouraged the young dairy woman to expand her original paragraph into a more extensive account. It demonstrates all the qualities we try to emphasize in 4-H: responsibility, leadership, and teamwork. You can almost watch Terri growing as a person as you read her account."

Lily's brush with death and dramatic rise to the top of the breed has definitely had a lasting effect on Terri Johnson, who sums up her feelings in the final paragraph of that 4-H story.

"I would like to express my sincere thanks to all the people who helped me overcome such a traumatic experience. These include my vet, Dr. Dan Pike, my mom and dad, Cindy and Tom Johnson, my sister Kelly, and my grandparents, Leo and Marg Rutter. Thanks for being there. You have helped me realize that I should never give up, no matter how hopeless the situation seems."

A veteran of show preparations, Lily stands patiently while Terri trims her ears with the clippers.

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

As we start a new year it seems that we must think "global." What happens on the other side of the world affects us.

Whether it is a war or simply everyday business dealings. My children think nothing of driving to Chicago or flying to Europe or even Brazil where their companies have connections.

Several years ago our son-in-law went to India to help to supervise the building of a new plant for his company. Conditions were primitive in the area where they worked.

Language can be a stumbling block as Portuguese is spoken in Brazil and so a translator is needed when our daughter goes there.

One family member often goes to London for his company. Those left at home must then take on more responsibilities. Children need supervision and transportation.

When I was a youth, it was a big deal to go to Philadelphia to the Desqui-Centennial in 1926. It was also a big deal to attend the World's Fair in 1939. Roaming around the fairgrounds for a day without parents is something to remember.

My parents told me of a happening one day in 1923. They drove a horse and buggy to church every Sunday. One day they were late and decided to take a shortcut. So, they drove through the Conestoga River at a seldom used crossing. The water was higher than usual and so the buggy floated and the horse had to swim. They made it across.

So even if we didn't get very far from home, we had little adventures too. Nowadays there are dangers in traveling whether it be close to home or far away.

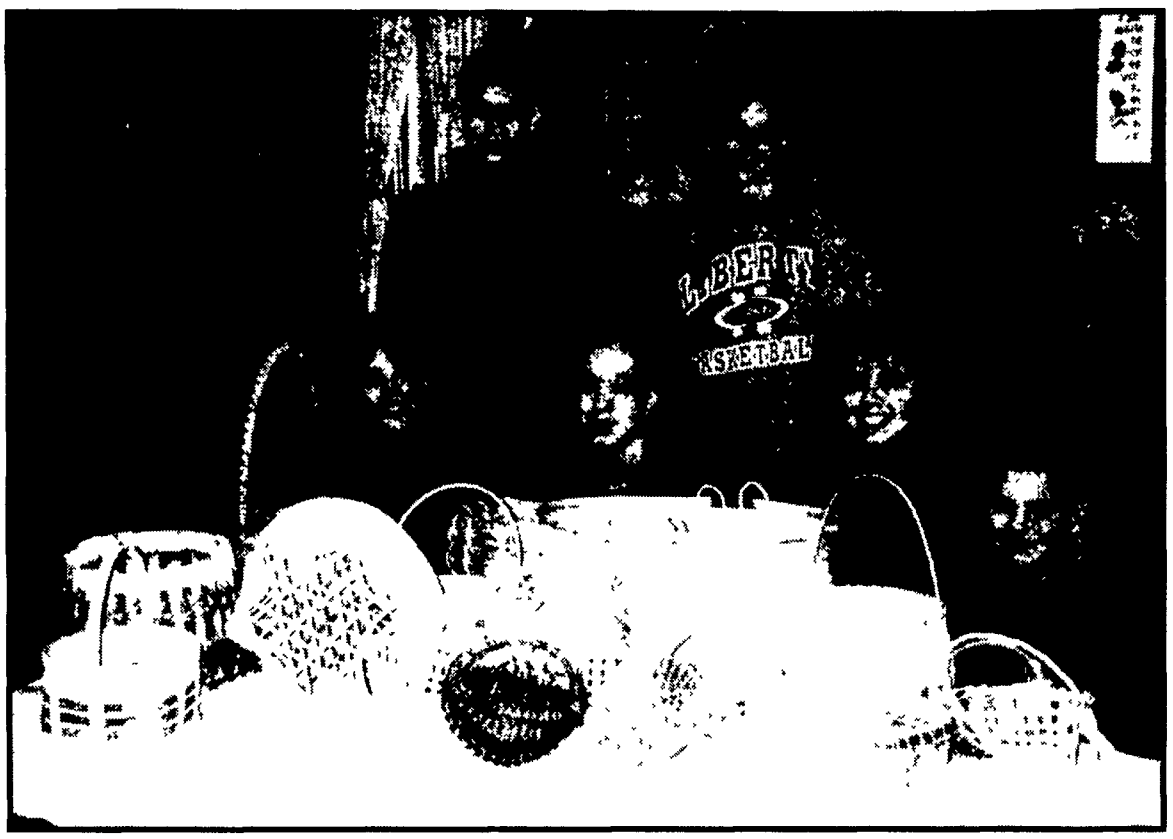
Bishop Weaves A Love of Her Craft Into Every 4-H Basketry Project

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Tioga Co. Correspondent

LIBERTY (Tioga Co.) — Marianne Bishop, a long-time 4-H leader, is always willing to give of her time to help teach young people new skills, and she couldn't be more proud of her students of basketry. In fact, one of her long-time students, Emily Norman, had her handmade picnic basket named "best of show" at last year's Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Emily's large oval basket features swing handles and a twill bottom. To win the "best of show" at the 2001 Farm Show, she not only competed against other baskets, but other crafts as well.

In 2002, other members plan to send their baskets, which have already earned awards at the Tioga County Fair, to the Farm Show to compete with arts and crafts from across Pennsylvania. Lori Mitstifer will show her Shaker cheese basket, Wendy Mitstifer will exhibit her twill basket and Renee Norman plans to send her carousel corn basket to be exhibited.



Members of the Liberty Community 4-H Club have been weaving baskets under the direction of Marianne Bishop for many years and have garnered many awards. Shown here are, from left, Renee Norman, Daren Hopkins, Lori Mitstifer, Wendy Mitstifer, Emily Norman, and Dane Hopkins.

Bishop started learning about the art of basketry when she was young.

'I've always enjoyed baskets," said Bishop. 'When I was quite small, a friend of my mother's gave me a little picnic basket. Later, my Dad learned how to make baskets at the Bucks County Historical Museum. When he died, my mother handed me his tools and said, 'Here, go learn how to make baskets.' So, my Mother made me do it!"

The first basket Bishop learned to make was a melon basket using two wooden hoops that are woven together with flat reed.

"I learned it through an extension program for homemakers," she said. "The second basket that I learned through that same program was the berry basket."

What began as a personal desire to learn the art of basketry has blossomed into a quest to discover more ways to develop the art form.

"At that time I was teaching at the Peace Valley Nature Center, and when the other girls saw the baskets, they wanted me to teach them. So I had to learn a new basket every month to keep ahead of them."

As of this past year, Bishop has helped her 4-H students with nine different styles of baskets.

In the first year, the students make a melon basket, just like the one that Bishop started with. The following year, they make a May basket and learn how to shape the sides of a basket by themselves, without the help of stabilizing hoops. The third year gets even more challenging as they form a berry basket.

'It's a trick to get the sides up so they're all even," said Emily Norman.

In the fourth year, the kids experiment with colored reed as they make a decorative star basket. Three diffe-ent colors are outlined on paper with colored pencils.

"It was hard to make sure you had the design right as far as the color goes," said Renee Norman.

"You have to follow the pattern from a piece of paper. It's hard to see sometimes if the reed goes under or over," said Bishop.

The next step is making an apple basket. The bottom of the basket is formed with spokes and the finished basket is round in shape.

In year six, the students try their hand at making a coiled basket using long pine needles or straw. Lori Mitstifer chose to use rye straw to make her coiled basket. Although she admits it was a challenge to get it together, she thought using items that are available locally put a neat twist on the project.

"These are very difficult," said Bishop. "You have to hold the materials together while you pull the lashing around them."

After mastering the coiled basket, the 4-H'ers try their hand at a carousel corn basket.

"We made up the name of this basket because we copied a picture in a magazine," said Bishop.

The Shaker cheese basket is done the next year.

"That's a very challenging basket," said Bishop. "The Shakers actually lined them with cheesecloth. The Shakers learned that pattern from the American Indians, I think. I have books on Native Indian basketry and that pattern is in there."

Finally students attempt a twill basket which follows a very different pattern and has a characteristically flat bottom.

"Each year we try to have them learn something new," said Bishop of her students. "Toward the end we try to put some of these skills together."

As the 4-H'ers reach the upper levels of the project, Bishop often finds herself looking for new projects.

"One of these years, I hope to have some students cut their own wood and make a basket using wood splints," she said.

This past summer, Bishop guided the hands of 55 4-H members, many of them learning the craft for the very first time, others attempting to try a new basket. During the past 12 years she estimates that she has helped more than 70 different 4-H members learn her craft.

Seven of her students gathered at her home recently, each bringing some of their favorite baskets to show how each project has taken shape.

Ten-year-old Dane Hopkins is in his second year of taking the basket project in 4-H. He thought it would be fun to follow in the footsteps of older brother Daren. So far he has completed a melon basket and a May basket.

Making the baskets is rewarding in itself, but as part of the 4-H project they also need to keep track of their expenses and time investment. Most of the baskets can be completed in a day, but others take considerably more time. The bigger baskets might take several days.

"I spent a lot of time on this," said Emily Norman, who would like to add a lid to her creation. Renee Norman agreed and noted that she has 20 hours invested in making her coiled basket.

"By the time the students reach their fifth or sixth year, they know how to handle the materials and they don't need somebody watching over them all the time," said Bishop.

Older students also are available to help the beginners.

Even though it takes a good deal of time, most students say the project is worth it.

"It's fun to see how they turn out," said Daren Hopkins who has completed several years of the project.

Bishop also volunteers her time teaching other groups the art of basketry. She has taught basketry at the Bucks County Association for the Blind, at senior centers, for church groups, newcomers groups, and others. She also sells some of her baskets at local craft fairs.

The learning that goes on when Bishop teaches a new skill to a group of 4-H'ers is often a two-way street.

"Some of the creative ones have taught me to go beyond...to reach and stretch and try something new. The carousel corn basket is probably one that I wouldn't have done with 4-H'ers, but they saw it and liked it. Then I had to go home and figure it out," she said.

They also learn to work with the materials that they have available to them.

No matter how fancy or big the baskets become, Bishop says her favorite is still the very first one that the kids make.

"When the kids come in, their mothers look at the basket and think that they can't do it. When the kids go home with the finished product, the parents are surprised and pleased, and I think the kids are too. It's the first one that they're doing and it looks difficult, but they do it." she said.

Marianne Bishop shows 10-year-old Dane Hopkins how to weave a new type of basket at her home.

Ephrata Cloister Offers Local History Class Beginning Jan. 31

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Have you ever heard of a hornsmith? Are you curious about the care of rare manuscripts? Did you know that some early bread bakers suffered from "baker's knees?"

Ritcheys Ready For Farm Show Competition

SANDRA LEPLEY
Somerset Co. Correspondent

WELLERSBURG (Somerset Co.) — The Ritchey family, who live near Wellersburg in southern Somerset County, make sheep raising and showing a family activity.

Breann, a 10-grader, and Brooke, a seventh-grader, along with parents, Bobby and Karen, enjoy raising their own sheep and showing them at the Somerset County Fair, other jackpot shows, and the State Farm Show in Harrisburg. Breann and Brooke are each taking a sheep to this year's Farm Show this week.

Both daughters attend Calvary Christian Academy in Cresaptown, Md., and are members of White Oak 4-H. They take competition very seriously and have won many recognitions at the Somerset County Fair in the past.

Breann has won homegrown champion and reserve group champion at the fair and Brooke won grand champion sheep in 2000 and won second and fifth in 2001.

"I don't get my hopes up for the best so I am not disappointed, but then I'm really excited if I win," says Breann, who takes showmanship very seriously.

She has been master showman four out of the five years she has showed at the Somerset County Fair.

"I try to do the best I can. Our sheep projects teach us consistency most of all," she said.

Father Bobby believes the sheep projects have not only helped his daughters prepare for competition but also it has given them a broader outlook when working with other 4-H kids from other parts of the county and other parts of the state.

"They meet a lot of people from other places and that's good experience for them," he said. "These are friends you could have for the rest of their lives."

Bobby said that Dave and Betty Lou Svonavec of the Rockwood area have been instrumental in helping his daughters with their lamb projects.

This year, the girls are taking Suffolk Hampshire sheep they raised on their farm to the Farm Show.

"It's important to look for the right type of lamb when it's young and then develop it to where it's competitive," said Bobby. "We try to raise our own.

That makes it more satisfying. Being able to compete with something you raised yourself without a lot of money invested makes it more satisfying. We do the best we can do with what we have and we enjoy doing this together as a family."

In addition to their 4-H sheep projects, Breann and Brooke enjoy playing sports, such as softball, basketball, and volleyball. They also like to work with the horses on their farm. They attend Calvary Baptist Church in Ellerslie, Md.

Frosting For Red Velvet Cake (Version 1)

5 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk

Boil until thickened, cool. Beat until creamy. Add:

1 cup butter
1 cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat until fluffy.

Frosting For Red Velvet Cake (Version 2)

2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup water

Boil until thickened, cool. Cream together:

1 cup butter
1 cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Add cold mixture to cream mixture. Whip until consistency of whipped cream.

Here's a different recipe for red velvet cake from Donna Brant, Harrisonville.

Red Velvet Cake

1 stick butter
1 yellow cake mix
1 small box of chocolate pudding—instant
4 eggs
1 cup water
1 bottle of red food coloring
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 tablespoon vinegar

Cream first six ingredients together until creamy. In small bowl, mix the baking soda and vinegar together and fold into the cake mix batter. Pour into a greased 13x9-inch pan and bake at 350 for 35-40 minutes. Frost with a cream cheese frosting or a frosting of your choice.

ANSWER — See page B6 for the beginning of the beef contest entries. More will be printed in next week's issue. Here are several recipes in celebration of National Veal Month observed in October. The Pa. Beef Council sponsors programs to encourage consumers to eat more veal and beef.

Veal Chop Steak Florentine

1 pound ground veal
Salt and pepper to taste
1 tablespoon oil
10-ounces chopped frozen spinach, thawed, squeezed dry
¼ cup roasted red peppers
Salt and pepper to taste
2 tablespoons butter
4¼-inch thick sliced mozzarella cheese
⅛ cup parmesan cheese
Parsley

Mix veal, salt, and pepper. Heat oil in saute pan. Shape veal and press into ¾-inch thick chop. Put veal in hot oil. Cook until medium well. In a saute pan, melt butter and add spinach, red pepper, salt and pepper. Cook until hot. Top veal with spinach mix and top with two slices mozzarella cheese and parmesan cheese. Heat until cheese is melted.

Veal Casino

2 3-ounce each veal cutlets, trimmed, flattened
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 large can chopped tomatoes
1 can artichoke hearts, drained, halved
1½ cups onion, chopped
Dash hot sauce
Dash Worcestershire sauce
Dash steak sauce
1 small can chopped black olives
Flour and oil

Flour veal and saute in hot oil until golden brown on both sides. Remove from pan and keep warm.

Add all other ingredients to pan. Saute until sauce comes together. Plate veal and top with sauce. 2 portions.

Veal Pizziola

1 pound veal cutlets, trimmed, flattened
1 large can tomatoes
2 large onions
Oregano
Salt and pepper
1 cup bread crumbs
1 cup grated cheese
3 eggs
½ cup vegetable oil

Whip eggs, dip veal in eggs. Mix bread crumbs and grated cheese. Remove veal from eggs and put into bread crumb mixture. Heat oil in saute pan. Put breaded veal in pan and saute until golden brown. Remove veal from pan, remove most of oil and saute onions. When onions are light brown, add tomatoes, oregano, salt and pepper. Cook until sauce comes together. Add veal to sauce and cook 5 minutes at simmer. Plate and serve.

Barbequed Veal

3 pounds veal cubes
3 tablespoons oil
1 large can tomato sauce
½ cup water
½ cup ketchup
1 cup onion, diced
½ cup celery, diced
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ cup prepared mustard
6 dashes Worcestershire sauce

Heat oil in Dutch oven and add veal until browned. Mix together all remaining ingredients and pour over veal. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for one hour. Remove cover and bake 10 minutes to brown on top. Serve over rice or noodles.

NEFFSVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — "Directing traffic" has multiple meanings at the Erb family's "Brecklawn Farms roadside stand.

Now in the midst of planting season owner Jim Erb is planting sweet corn field corn Indian popcorn and ornamental corn in the warming earth

In addition ' we still farm 100 acres of field corn and soybeans, said Erb, who is joined by his wife Romaine, daughter Diana, a horticulture student at Penn State, and son Jeffrey

' We re serving the immediate community We don t do a lot of advertising We see our customers over and over again during the season and see them season after season. We view what we re doing as being their gardeners It feels like in a sense we re an extension of the community My customers are my neighbors

The essence of what we re doing here is our own home-grown produce. That's still the key he said Strawberries varieties of corn sugar, snap and bull peas, peaches, plums nectarines, pears and apples are some of the home-grown produce that Brook lawn customers enjoy

A Seasonal Business

In April, bedding plants and mulch products open the season, which closes with Christmas trees the end of the year During the off season the Erbs and employees service and maintain their equipment take a vacation housecleen and attend conferences and trade shows.

I love to go to meetings and get ideas. I have more ideas than what I can get done ' he said One of these

Full Summer Sun Critical As Growers Prepare For Raspberry Season

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — Raspberries are flowering on the vines as summer weather shapes up early in Lancaster County orchards. Raspberries, either summer-bearing or ever-bearing, do well when planted on an open site with at least 6-8 hours of sunlight, according to Ohio State University Extension Fact Sheet HYG-1421-98, "Raspberries For the Backyard Fruit Planting." Page 12 includes recommended raspberries and cultural characteristics, including a chart for training systems and plant spacing, from the university. Learn more about bramble plants by checking the Website for the North American Bramble Growers Association, www.hort.cornell.edu/grower/nabga/ or the contacting the association at 13006 Mason Road NE, Cumberland, MD 21502, (301) 724-4088.

This scene shows early May growth of raspberries at Shenk's Berry Farm near Lititz, which also features pick-your-own strawberries in season. Owners John and Linda Shenk maintain about two acres of three different varieties of raspberries. They have mostly black raspberries, pictured here, including Bristol and Jewel. They also have some red raspberries, including Lauren. Many were planted about six years ago. The raspberries can be picked beginning in early July. Photo by Andy Andrews, editor

Tomato Processor Honors Growers At Luncheon

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — A man who has saved the tomato processing industry countless thousands of dollars, noted James Kohl, vice president of Furman Foods was honored with a service award in early February

Cyril Smith professor emeritus of plant nutrition was honored for 42 years of service by Kohl of Furman Foods.

The award was presented in front of about 50 growers and agri-industry representatives at the annual Pennsylvania and Maryland Tomato Awards Luncheon during the Mid Atlantic Fruit and Vegetable Convention at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center

Smith s hand fertilizer placement was crucial in coat savings and improvement in nutrient use by the plant now adopted widely by the industry

Smith s contributions saved us a substantial amount of money in our cultural practices, Kohl noted

The Master Grower Award for 2001 was presented to BJ Farms Bridgetown N J represented by Gregg and Frank Baltinger

Kohl spoke about the recent acquisition by Furman of Tri Valley Growers in California

Furman Foods now owns all brand Tri Valley labels Kohl said Tri Valley processed about 800 000- 850 000 tons of tomatoes per year compared to Furmans 65 000 tons but Furmans has plans in place to ensure continue production at similar scales

You have to move forward or be left behind said Kohl We expect to get better at (processing) and be bigger at it This will enhance their total East Coast processing.

Three Generations Part Of A Growing Business In Landisville

MICHELLE RANCK
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Urban sprawl though a challenge to farmers, can also be an opportunity as David and Lois Landis have discovered

Warm summertime temperatures seem to stir local residents tastes for fresh produce from the farm as customers forego their daily stop at the grocery store to purchase food grown on the acreage behind the roadside stand at Landisview Produce

Consequently the combination of availability of customers and their eagerness to purchase the product has led to a full time job for the Landis family

David and Lois have four children — David Sharon Danny and Darvin — plus eight grandchildren Darvin who lives on the home farm helps with the cantaloupe watermelon and pumpkin fields.

Landis father John S Landis, 85 and mother Anna also still help at the stand

Sweet corn potatoes tomatoes peppers green beans egg plants and zucchini are just a few of the varieties of produce sold at the Landisview Produce stand David Landis estimates that 90 percent of what is sold at the stand comes from the farm s fields

Tomatoes along with Silver King and Argent sweet corn are the hottest sellers for Landis. That s what

Geraniums, Impatiens Fill Plots At 'Flowering' Research Center

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — About 800 different flower varieties were on display in trials here last year at the Penn State Southeast Agricultural Research and Extension Center in this photo from mid-July, the fire largest trials involved geraniums and impatiens at the entrance to the facility, according to John Yocum, research and extension center manager Yocum said the variety studies, on about an acre at the center have been under way close to 10 years, when "we stepped growing tobacco at the station," he said. Alan Michael, Penn State horticulture, is coordinating the trials.

Last week the center was busy transplanting new varieties in the greenhouse Work last year looked at full sun and partial shade impatiens varieties and a wide variety of other flowers.

West Snyder FFA Wins SUN Area Judging Events

The SUN Area FFA dairy and livestock judging and tractor driving career development events took place Tuesday, Sept. 18 at the Beaver Community Fair.

The West Snyder FFA livestock judging team won the top honors by judging market steers, hogs, lambs, and breeding sheep. Oral reasons were given on the market hogs and steers.

In the livestock judging event, Derek Fetterolf, Lance Herman, and Hannah Etzler placed first, third, and fourth respectively. This first place team, along with Spencer Etzler, earned blue ribbons in the event for West Snyder FFA.

Doug Hollenbach earned a red ribbon in the event and Jessica Kessler earned a white ribbon. Zerby Livestock Farm sponsored trophies for the top team and individual, which were captured by West Snyder FFA.

In the dairy judging event, contestants judged two classes of Holsteins and two classes of Jersey cows and calves. FFA members also gave oral reasons on the Holstein cow class. Amanda Shaffer placed fourth in the event with a blue ribbon. Other blue ribbon winners from West Snyder FFA included Daphne Wagner and Chuck Kessler. Phaedra Wray earned a red ribbon while Laura Knepp and Steve Yakamook earned white ribbons.

In the tractor driving event, students backed a four-wheeled wagon into an area that was four-inches wider than the wagon. They also took a written test and demonstrated tractor maintenance proficiency. Jeremy Waite placed fourth and earned a red ribbon for West Snyder FFA while Andrew Kreamer placed fifth with a white ribbon.

FFA Leadership Training Conducted At Lebanon-Schuylkill Meeting

Recently, the Lebanon-Schuylkill FFA joined to take part in a leadership training conference at Elco High School.

The Lebanon County officers started the evening with ice breakers games that helped members to get to know one another better. The Pennsylvania State FFA officers attended the conference and helped with icebreakers and presented greetings from the Pennsylvania FFA Association.

After the evening meal provided by the Elco cafeteria staff, the Greenhand Quiz contest took place. The Quiz contest is a spelling bee style contest where first year FFA members are asked questions about the FFA.

The top four placings were as follows: Kevin Kreider, Cedar Crest, first; Mark Balmer, Cedar Crest, second; Emily Whitmoyer, Northern Lebanon, third; and Janelle Zimmerman, Cedar Crest, fourth. Prizes and money awards were given out to the winners.

After the Quiz contest, they split into four groups and participated in leadership sessions with Lebanon County and State FFA officers. Sessions included information on public speaking, official dress, teamwork, and positive attitudes.

Versatile Veal Part Of New York Harvest Fest

ALBANY, N.Y. — The aroma of veal cutlets sauteing in melted butter and sizzling garlic were too tantalizing to pass up at the annual Harvest Fest held in Albany, Nov. 17-18. The smell wafted throughout the courtyard at the Desmond Hotel, encouraging everyone to follow their nose to the source of the delicious scent.

Attendees gathered anxiously around the table to taste the cutlets, which were lightly coated in seasoned flour and cooked in butter and garlic.

Participants sampled three veal recipes with four New York wines while NYBIC staff discussed veal purchasing, nutrition, food safety and menuing ideas. Versatility was the theme of the presentation.

Parmesan, marsala and piccata are the thoughts triggered when most consumers hear the word veal, but the New York Beef Industry Council wanted to showcase different trends using veal by adding a unique twist to standard recipes.

Following are some of the recipes featured.

ITALIAN VEAL AND PEPPER STEW

1-½ pounds veal for stew
¼ cup all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons olive oil
14-½ ounce can diced Italian-style tomatoes, undrained
⅔ cup ready-to-serve chicken broth
2 cloves garlic, minced
2 medium green bell peppers, cut into thin strips hot cooked rice
grated Parmesan cheese

Combine flour, salt and pepper. Lightly coat veal with seasoned flour, reserve remaining flour. Heat oil in Dutch oven over medium heat until hot. Brown ½ of veal; remove from Dutch oven. Brown remaining veal and remove.

Stir tomatoes, broth, garlic and reserved flour mixture into Dutch oven. Return veal to Dutch oven; bring to a boil. Reduce heat; cover tightly and simmer 45 minutes. Add bell peppers; continue cooking, covered, 30 minutes or until veal and peppers are tender.

Serve stew over rice; sprinkle with cheese, as desired.

VEAL BURGER

1-½ pounds ground veal
4 slices bacon, crisply cooked and coarsely crumbled
⅔ cup coarsely crushed sour cream and onion potato chips
1 egg, lightly beaten
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 tablespoon Dijon-style mustard
4 hamburger buns, split lettuce leaves
tomato slices

Sauce:

½ cup mayonnaise
1-½ tablespoons sun-dried tomatoes, minced
1 tablespoon prepared basil pesto sauce
dash ground red pepper

Combine mayonnaise, sun-dried tomatoes, pesto sauce and red pepper in medium bowl. Set aside.

Combine ground veal, bacon, potato chips, egg, garlic, and mustard in large bowl, mixing lightly but thoroughly. Lightly shape into four ¾-inch thick patties. Place patties on grid over medium, ash-covered coals. Grill, uncovered, 10-12 minutes to medium (160 degrees) doneness, until it is no longer pink in the center and juices show no pink color. Turn occasionally.

Line bottoms of buns with lettuce and tomato; top with burgers. Spoon sauce evenly over burgers; close sandwiches.

PEPPER-LIME VEAL FAJITAS

1 pound veal cutlets
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 medium red pepper, cut into ¼ inch wide strips
1 medium yellow pepper, cut into ¼ inch wide strips
1 medium onion, sliced
8 small flour tortillas (6-7 inch diameter) chopped fresh cilantro prepared salsa

Marinade:

3 tablespoons fresh lime juice
1 tablespoon olive oil
2 cloves garlic, minced

Pound veal cutlets to ⅛-inch thickness. Cut cutlets into 3 x 1 strips; toss with marinade ingredients in medium bowl. Refrigerate 10 minutes.

Heat ½ of oil in large nonstick skillet over medium-high heat until hot. Add bell peppers and onion; stir-fry 4-5 minutes or until crisp-tender. Remove; keep warm.

Heat remaining oil in same skillet over medium-high heat until hot. Drain veal; discard marinade. Add of half veal; stir-fry one to two minutes or until just cooked through. (Do not overcook.) Remove from skillet. Repeat with remaining veal.

Combine veal and vegetables; season with salt and pepper. Serve with tortillas, cilantro and salsa.

Featured Recipe

John Strommer, Media, sent in this recipe from a 1947 cookbook.

Imagine 75,000 persons at one barbecue. And then think of the headache you would get planning the food for such a crowd. But to Lieutenant C. W. Ellison of the sheriff's department of Los Angeles County, Calif., it is just another day's work, for he is the chef for such a large undertaking each year, the proceeds of which go to charity. This is the way it is done: Construct four underground brick pits, each eight foot wide, 15 feet long, and eight feet deep, covering the bottoms with large rocks to hold the heat. Build a fire in each of the pits and let them burn from eight to 10 hours, so there is a solid bed of charcoal. Cover charcoal with sheet iron and place a layer of wet burlap sacks on the sheet iron.

Meanwhile, cut 40,000 pounds of prime steer beef (forequarter, only) into 25 pounds chunks, tie in cheesecloth and saturate cloth with a barbecue sauce made of the following ingredients cooked together for about an hour.

Los Angeles County Barbecue

300 crates tomatoes, chopped
4,000 pounds onions, chopped
50 pounds garlic
25 pounds green chili peppers, chopped after removing seeds
50 pounds ground celery seeds
50 pounds ground oregano (marjoram)
10 pounds ground cuminseed
125 pounds black pepper
700 pounds sale
100 pounds vinegar

Place the meat in prepared pits on the wet burlap sacks. Cover pits with boards, then with canvas and finally with about 18 inches of sand to hold in the heat. Leave meat in the pits, undisturbed, for 14 to 15 hours. When it is taken out, meat is so tender that no knife is needed to cut it — the bones slip out. About 8 ounces of meat is served to each person.

Antiques Fill School House Farm

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — The Rogers family had lived in several old houses in many different areas of the United States, but when they decided to select a permanent home, Lancaster County was their first choice.

"It needed to be an old house and one where I could open an antique shop," Ruth Rogers said.

That was 20 years ago, and the 1726 property they purchased has fulfilled Rogers' every wish.

The rambling stone farmhouse sits along Route 322, a heavily traveled road. The shop is easy to find by clients but almost hidden from view and possible to miss by fast-traveling motorists.

When the Rogers purchased the historical house, it only had plumbing and heating for 10 years. It has two summer kitchens, one in front and one in back. The Rogers dismantled a log house in Bernville, in neighboring Berks County, and had the log house erected to form a connection between the main house and one of the summer kitchens. An Indian door and more windows were added to allow more light to enter the house. The reconstructed log house now serves as the kitchen and dining room. On the grounds, the Rogers have added a sunken garden, a delivery stable, a pond, and a two-story shed.

Entering the farmhouse is like going back in time. A book outlining the history of the property shows that it had been used as the Spread Eagle Tavern at one time.

The random wide floorboards, deep windowsills, exposed 12-feet log walls, and walk-in fireplace have been retained. The setting enhances the antiques the Rogers have collected for personal use and for the shop.

"I must like what I sell," Ruth said.

Rogers limits the antiques in her shop and in the shows where she exhibits to stoneware, redware, Adam's Rose china, coin silver, coverlets, and samplers. She deals in a few pieces of furniture, especially rope beds.

"I love rope beds. I have them in all my bedrooms," Rogers said.

When the Rogers first began to use rope beds, they found it necessary to tighten the ropes to remove the slack every six months. Then they discovered that if they placed a ¼-inch piece of plywood on top of the ropes, they never needed to be retightened.

She also said that it is necessary to use a foam mattress because rope beds are just a size shy of a full-size mattress. The foam can be squeezed between the large bed posts. When the bed is made, it is noticeable that the full-sized foam has been squeezed between the bedposts.

"This method creates an authentic look without the semblance of sleeping in a hammock," Ruth said.

"The Lancaster area is the best area for antiques, especially for those who don't have a lot of time to travel," Ruth said.

She believes it is possible to get better buys at shows than at auctions, especially since so many people frequent auctions always looking for "a biggie" (bargain). Auctions also often charge 10-15 percent on top.

"Every shop has bargains. Shop owners can't know it all because they don't specialize in everything," Ruth said.

Dealers are more prolific but also people are collecting more memorabilia.

Rogers said, "Sometimes I attend sales and think "who is going to buy this junk? But I've learned there's a buyer for everything."

"You might find a bargain, but if you can't use it, haul it or move it, what are you going to do?" Rogers asked. She herself was the lucky recipient of a Dutch hutch she purchased for one dollar several years ago when a dealer wanted to get rid of it fast.

Rogers finds it exciting to meet people from many different states and discover the items they collect. She met a buyer from Hawaii who had hundreds of pieces of Adam's Rose, a china pattern that people associate with the Lancaster area.

On furniture pieces, Ruth does no repair work since 90 percent of dealers prefer pieces in found condition. However, she will frame samplers using acid free paper and ultraviolet glass to prevent fading.

In her own home, Rogers uses antique dishes and other items that many people may hide behind glass.

"I never get tired of antiques," Rogers said. "Dealers never stop working, They do it the day they die. It's fascinating to see and know history connected with items."

She has taken several classes relating to antiques but said that experience is the best teacher.

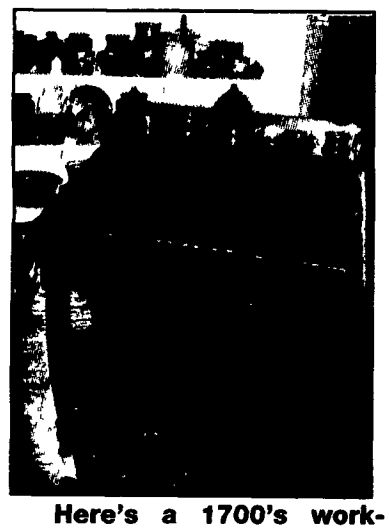
"Look at new and old pieces and you learn to know the feel and look," she said regarding counterfeits. It's a benefit to buy pieces identified by signatures but even those are being counterfeited.

"If you sell good antiques, you still sell, despite what's happening to the economy," Rogers said.

Rogers School House Farm Antiques, 3134 Div. Hwy., New Holland, is open by appointment or chance. Call Rogers at (717) 354-9153. Or, look for her booth at two upcoming shows: Lancaster Heritage Antiques Show, held at the Franklin and Marshall College Sports & Fitness Center, Harrisburg Pike, Lancaster, Jan. 12, 10 a.m.-6 p.m. and Sun. Jan. 13, noon to 5 p.m.

York Antiques Show and Sale, York Fairgrounds Convention and Expo Center, Memorial Hall East, Rt. 462 W. Market St., York, Feb. 1-3, 11 a.m.-8 p.m.

Ruth Rogers deals in stoneware and redware. She is holding a rare jug decorated with a caricature.



Here's a 1700's worktable with tapered legs and pin top in walnut wood.

Some of the items in Rogers' shop include an 1806 sampler by Kitty Lukens, English brass candlesticks 1820-1860, and Adam's Rose china 1840-1880.

Condition Determines Toy Bank Prices

Mechanical and still toy banks have fascinated collectors ever since they were first manufactured in the 19th century. Originally when made in the late 19th century they sold from 75 cents to $1.50 each. When serious collecting began in the 1930s, the same banks sold for up to $50 dollars for the mechanicals and a few dollars for still banks.

At a recent Skinner auction of a wide variety of both types, even missing parts and replacements didn't keep bidders from spending several thousand dollars apiece. One bidder plunked down $1,700 for an "artillery bank" by early maker Stevens, even though a part was missing. Another incomplete bank "Eagle and eaglets" with missing parts sold for $1,000 over its estimate of $300-500. These bidders probably knew where to find missing parts and restorers. Still banks, even those with novel shapes and designs sold for modest prices. A beginning collector could have bought a unique top hat still bank for $75.

Historically, the first iron banks were still banks, made after the Civil War and resembling the square buildings of their day, topped with cupolas. Shortly afterward a spring action was inserted and the mechanical bank was born. So was a new collectible.

What child could resist putting a penny in the mouth of a figural dog and watch him drop it onto the bank. A penny in the slot could make punch hit Judy, a mule kick his heels or William Tell shoot the apple off the bear's head.

Patriotism, bigotry, and humor of the day were popular subjects even in bank designs. One bank, known as the "reclining Chinaman" depicted a Chinese gambler lying on a log. This image referred to the hundreds of Chinese coolies who served as cheap labor for the railroad construction of the 1800s. At that time, higher-priced American workers resented the immigrant group.

Mirroring the times were the anti-German banks popular around the time of World War I. German submarines were referred to as "pig boats" by American sailors.

Animals and birds were favorite themes. Among them the American eagle feeding it's young (like the one sold at the Skinner auction).

CLUES: The 1976 Bicentennial brought the banks to the attention of a new generation of collectors. The result was reproductions, fakes, and artificial aging.

Among the most popular reproductions were Jonah and the whale, William Tell, and a plastic Uncle Sam. A trick of the trade was (and still is) to bury the iron reproduction in manure to "age it." I still see many of these pieces at mall shows and country shops.

Although less than a dozen firms produced mechanical banks, more than 600 designs from manufacturers catalogs have been discovered, and millions were made between 1850 and 1910. When a bank can be attributed to one of the early makers, prices rise.One of the most famous early "fakes," the Carnival bank, was made in the 1930s. For a time it fooled collectors. Today, it is collected as a curiosity.

One way to recognize sand-cast reproductions, because of their recasting, they will have a rougher surface and shrinkage. Some of the mechanical parts won't work as well because of the shrinkage. The seller will probably explain it by saying, " What do you expect? It's old." Novelties were minted for special events such as the Columbian Exposition of 1893 and the Pan-American Exposition in 1901. "Teddy and the Bear" depicted President Theodore Roosevelt on one of his hunting expedition.

You can bank on prices going up and up.

Fiberglass Wheels & Springs - Upholstery Fabric
Powder Coated and Zinc Plated Carriage Parts

700 Country Lane, Paradise, PA 17562 Area Service (717) 627-7120

★ ★ New Products Now Available ★ ★

• The Advantages of the Fiberglass Wheels are:

Fiberglass Wheels

- Very Low Maintenance Costs These wheels are built to last a lifetime and beyond without ever having to replace any parts on the wheels under normal use. The only maintenance required will be tightening up or replacing the tire or rubber.
- High Performance Regardless of the Elements Wheels stay tight even in hot, dry conditions – No more loose rattling spokes – ever!
- Rugged Heavy Duty Design It takes a major accident or impact to break or twist these wheels.
- Hard Durable Surface Resists scuffs and scratches, paint job stays shinier.
- Easier Cleaning Spokes have all rounded corners, no tight spots for dirt to get into

• The Advantages of the Fiberglass Springs are:

Fiberglass Springs

- Lightweight A fiberglass spring weighs 22 lbs. less than a steel spring, 44 lbs. less weight on the carriage.
- Durable One Piece Design No bolts to give out or wear.
- Better Performance With Heavy Loads The more weight, the better the ride, will not go flat and bottom out.
- No Rusting Ever Paint will not blister or peel off. No rust stains running out between the plys, providing a nicer appearance and much easier cleaning.
- A Lifetime Guarantee If these springs ever break under normal use, we will replace them free of charge.
- Stabilizer Kits – Now Available For a smoother ride and less bounce

★ Install these wheels and springs on your next new carriage or replace your old ones ★

Heat with Corn!

A BETTER ALTERNATIVE
The corn burning furnace has many advantages over wood and coal heat. The large storage bin holds up to 14 bushels of fuel, which is automatically fed into the combustion chamber as needed. There's no need to load the furnace several times a day. The use of corn also eliminates the bark mess, insects, splinters, and handling problems connected with the use of wood fuel, and the dust and dirt from coal. UL Approved.

SELLING ANTIQUES FOR JOE HERMAN

The Grand Finale

This auction draws to a close the active life & legend of a one Joe Herman, very likely the best known and most colorful antique dealer to ever come out of Central PA. A "puppy dog" at heart, but a formidable foe when provoked, a man who touched more antiques than most could ever imagine. Join us for this historical event. The auction will sell any and all remaining inventory for Mr. Herman who today finds himself in a nursing home.

Soybean Performance Trials Help Farmers Choose Productive Varieties

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Soybean diseases, such as Phytophthora root rot and Sclerotinia white mold, are the biggest limiting factors when it comes to producing a good crop.

"Diseases reduce yields at least 6-10 percent every year," said Ohio State University agronomist Jim Beuerlein. "When selecting soybean varieties, farmers should first look for those that show a resistance or tolerance to diseases."

Resistance to diseases was just one characteristic Ohio State University researchers focused on when testing varieties for the 2001 Ohio Soybean Performance Trials. Researchers evaluated 190 varieties at five test sites throughout the state and analyzed such characteristics as plant height, lodging potential, seed size, maturity, protein and oil percentage, and yield potential. The report is available at all county offices of Ohio State University Extension or by logging on to http://www.ag.ohio-state.edu/.

Beuerlein said the soybean varieties tested well throughout the state, with yields averaging between 54-68 bushels per acre for normal and Roundup Ready early and late maturing soybeans.

"In some locations diseases were a factor, but overall we had a good growing season," said Beuerlein. "We had good weed control and the soil fertility was excellent."

When farmers select varieties for next season, they should take into account such factors as weather and soil conditions for the region they live in, said Beuerlein. "A variety may be the best for one location, but not the best for another," he said. "The Northwest region, for example, is more ideal for root rot development than other parts of Ohio because of the clay soils. They just don't drain well." The organism that causes root rot thrives in poorly drained soils.

The following are some tips researchers recommend when selecting soybean varieties:

- Choose a range of maturities to spread out the harvest season. Early varieties in narrow rows perform as well as late varieties.
- Varieties should have low lodging scores of one or two. Reducing the seeding rate of lodging-susceptible varieties will reduce lodging without affecting yield.
- Select varieties with a Phytophthora partial resistance score of less than five to reduce the loss of yield to root rot.
- Selecting varieties with one or more Phytophthora resistance genes (Rps1b, Rps1c, Rps1k, or Rps3a) will also help reduce yield loss.
- Varieties with a Sclerotinia rating of "M" will have much less yield loss to Sclerotinia white mold than varieties without the "M" rating if conditions are favorable for that disease.
- All seed should be treated with fungicides to improve plant stand and root system health, regardless of variety, crop rotation, tillage, planting date, or seeding rate.

The purpose of the Ohio Soybean Performance Trials is to give soybean growers comparative information for selecting the best varieties for their unique production systems.

"By using this data, every farmer in Ohio is capable of picking up an additional bushel in yield. If every farmer got just one more bushel per acre, the value would have been about $22 million from the 4.5 million acres produced in 2001," said Beuerlein. " And farmers can easily pick up an additional bushel by doing a good job of variety selection."

For Manheim Grower, Difference Is In The Details

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — The key is finding the limiting factor.

When Dwight Rohrer speaks of his approach to successful crop management, the discussion may sound like a bit of a science lesson.

Which is to be expected, really, from a lifetime farmer and agronomy major.

Rohrer's management techniques have helped him win the top corn yield contest in the Pennsylvania shelled corn class in 2000. Additionally he had the highest soybean yields in Pennsylvania in 1996. He has participated in local yield contests since he began farming in 1997.

Most recently, he began entering the statewide contest for the past four years. Prior to that he had entered the local Manheim Young Farmer's yield contest. Rohrer is also planning on entering the upcoming national contest.

"I'm a fairly competitive person," he said. "That's probably why I participate in the field contests. I learn a lot, too." Exchanging information about what worked this season or what other producers are experimenting with provides essential help, said Rohrer.

"I don't enter just to win," he said. "My goal is to be able to evaluate myself against other producers. Contests allow farmers to compare themselves to growers in their area.

"Contests show me where I'm at," he said. In farm management your goal should be to maintain production in the top 10 percent of the industry, so competition allows me to evaluate that. I also see what I can learn from what other producers are doing," he said.

Crop Management

With 65 acres on his farm, Rohrer finds it necessary to maximize production. "We just try to do the best with what we have," he said.

Since there is no underground or nearby water source available for irrigation, water is his "most limiting factor."

"The general principle in any crop is that the producer needs to find what the limiting factor is and manage that the best they can," he said. "In this area, rainfall is the limiting factor and I work to make sure that moisture is the only limiting factor of my yield, because that's the only part I can't control." Factors such as seed, fertilizer, and most pests can be managed, explained Rohrer.

"I try to buy good seed, make sure the corn doesn't run out of nutrients, and make sure there is no insect pressure or soil compaction issue to deal with to limit production."

As for advice for other crop growers, "don't worry about rain," he said. "Do the best you can with what you have, and don't worry about the rest."

One technique he uses to maximize moisture is to intentionally deep-till in the fall to create vertical channels for water to filter.

Improving Corn Silage Harvest Timing

This is my first Between the Rows since I left last September for a six month visit to the Miner Institute in northern New York to study corn silage and dairy cows. After going through another silage harvest here with my Miner experience under my belt I thought a few comments on silage harvesting might be in order.

My hosts at Miner Eva Thomas and Dr. Charlie Sniffen, continually reinforced to me the idea that to make milk cows need good and consistent forage quality from both hay crops and corn silage. The Miner staff conducted a survey of active farms a few years back in their area and found that there is a wide range of corn silage quality being fed, dispelling the idea that 'silage is silage.'

There are many factors that influence silage quality, but perhaps the biggest one is the timing of harvest. Harvesting too late is especially devastating. Late-harvested silage (greater than 40 percent DM) generally has lower fiber digestibility, harder kernels, less sugar and slightly lower yields than that harvested in the desired moisture range. It also packs less well and is more subject to yeast and molds. All of these factors could result in two pounds less production per cow, translating into a $10,000 loss annually on a 100-cow herd.

Even though we all realize the issues with harvesting

Over 1,000 Buyers Registered At Record-Breaking Swine Sale

DUNCAN, Okla. — More than 500 purebred swine breeders gathered from 21 states for the biggest show and sale of the year in Duncan, Okla., Nov. 15-17. These breeders exhibited nearly 650 head of breeding stock and 1,375 weanling pigs.

During the sales, 1,050 buyer numbers were dispersed to a record crowd of 2,500. This historic event rewarded breeders for their efforts to create a better product, as 885 hogs sold for $960,725. The 2001 Fall Classic shows and sales proved to all that the purebred industry is thriving.

The highlight of this event occurred during the Hampshire boar sale when Dean Myhre, Caledonia, Minn., sold his grand champion boar for $45,000 to Larrie and Theresa Moyers, Newcastle, Okla. This boar is the June 4 son of SNMHO Wallstreet 18-9. The reserve champion Hampshire boar, exhibited by S&M Hamps, Caledonia, Minn., was purchased by Lean Value Sires of Elizabethtown, Ohio, for $17,000.

Bill Grubbs, Haileyville, Okla., purchased the champion Hampshire gilt from Michael Cowan, Beason, Ill., for $2,600. The reserve champion Hampshire gilt and top-selling gilt overall bred by Howell Brothers, Sidney, Ohio, sold for $14,500 to J&K Genetics, Shipshewana, Ind., and Hi Point Genetics, Chrisman, Ill.

Kevin Wendt, Green Springs, Ohio, auctioneered this record Hampshire sale that totaled $365,100 with a $3,094 average on 118 head.

During the Yorkshire sale, Chuck Olsen, Irene, S.D., sold his champion Yorkshire boar and top-selling Yorkshire boar overall for $8,700 to Farrer Stock Farms, Royal Center, Ind. The reserve champion Yorkshire boar, exhibited by Brad Bates, West Mansfield, Ohio, sold for $1,750 to Steve Cobb, Lake City, Ark.

In the Yorkshire gilt sale, Creager Farms, Wauseon, Ohio sold their champion Yorkshire gilt for $5,000 to Randy Nation, Hopeton, Okla. The reserve champion Yorkshire gilt, exhibited by Chuck Olsen, Irene, S.D., sold to Carl Schillinger Jr. and family, Evansville, Ind., for $2,500. The top-selling Yorkshire female was shown by Brad Bates, West Mansfield, Ohio. This popular gilt sold for $5,500 to Clayton and Curtis Fisher, Omega, Okla.

The Yorkshire sale, auctioneered by Dan Baker, West Lafayette, Ind., brought in $117,450 on 134 pigs, resulting in a $876 average.

The Duroc sale led off with Huinker Durocs Ltd.'s champion Duroc boar that sold for $2,100 to Crouch & Curry Swine Genetics, Brownsville, Texas. Huinker is from Decorah, Iowa. Parrish Farms, Edon, Ohio, followed with their reserve champion Duroc boar that sold for $3,000 to Denny Hansard, Shafer, Calif. The top-selling Duroc boar was exhibited by Kent Brattain and family, Greencastle, Ind., and sold for $7,500 to Hi Point Genetics.

The champion Duroc gilt exhibited by Guy Jackson, Warren, Ind., sold to Ronald Holley, Bridgeport, Texas, for $1,600. Jackson also exhibited the reserve champion gilt that sold to Jeff Oliver, West Point, Ind., for $2,000. Parrish Farms exhibited the top-selling gilt for $2,100 to Goldsmith Farms, Williamsport, Ohio. The Duroc sale was auctioneered by Howard Parrish, Edon, Ohio. He sold 45 Durocs for $51,650, resulting in a $1,148 average.

In the Landrace sale ring, the grand champion boar bred by Autumn Rose LLC, Kirkline, Ind., sold for $3,400 to Swine Genetics International, Cambridge, Iowa. The champion Landrace gilt sold for $1,250 to Curtis Schwartz, San Angelo, Texas. This gilt was exhibited by Seth Swenson, Chatsworth, Ill. The reserve champion Landrace gilt was shown by Swenson. She sold for $850 to Schwartz Livestock, San Angelo, Texas, for $850.

The Landrace sale, auctioneered by Howard Parrish, brought in $6,000 from five head, averaging $1,200 per pig.

By the end of the afternoon on Friday, all seats and standing room were occupied by bidders and observers alike waiting for the female weanling pig sale. The Champion female weanling pig and champion dark crossbred was exhibited by Daniel Weber, Chatsworth, Ill. This top-selling female sold for $3,000 to Brad Bechter, Blackwell, Okla. The reserve champion female weanling pig and champion light crossbred was exhibited by Nick and Neil Mauck, Gaston, Ind. She sold for $2,250 to Larrie and Theresa Moyers, Newcastle, Okla. The female weanling pig sale totaled $167,700 with 305 pigs averaging $550.

In the male weanling pig sale, the champion overall was exhibited by Kristen Knight, Plains. Texas. This male, first named champion Yorkshire, sold for $9,000 to Randal Buck, Eufaula. Okla. The reserve champion overall sold for $14,000 to Lean Value Sires, Elizabethtown, Ohio. This male exhibited by Huinker Durocs Ltd., was first named champion Duroc. The top-selling male pig brought $16,000. This pig was exhibited by Michael Delon and sold to Lifeline Genetics, Newcastle, Okla. The male weanling pig sale totaled $253,425 with 280 pigs averaging $905.

Penn State And Game Commission Launch Ground-Breaking Deer Research

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences and the Pennsylvania Game Commission recently launched one of the most extensive radio-telemetry studies of male deer dispersal, survival and the effects of antler restrictions for hunting ever attempted in the U.S.

"Pennsylvania's deer management program is evolving," says Dr. Gary Alt, game commission deer management section supervisor. "Knowledge gained from this three-year study, which will attempt to monitor 600 bucks in two study areas, will not only further scientific understanding of deer behavior, but also will provide a credible foundation for Pennsylvania's deer management regulations.

"This study should answer two important questions: Will antler restrictions result in greater numbers of older bucks? And, do hunters perceive there are better hunting opportunities?"

Dr. Duane R. Diefenbach, assistant unit leader for the Pennsylvania Cooperative Fish and Wildlife Research Unit, based at Penn State, noted that the project should yield a wealth of additional important information about the state's bucks.

"We look forward to learning more about buck activity and movement patterns, antler size changes and antler rubbing and scraping behavior," he says. "And, all of this research data collection can be done without having a negative effect on hunters. In fact, radio-tagged deer are legal to harvest, and we encourage hunters to take the opportunity to do so. All we ask is that they call the toll-free number on the transmitter or ear tag so that we can gain further valuable information about that deer."

Over the next three years, researchers intend to monitor 200 bucks per year in Armstrong and Centre counties. The bucks will be captured and fitted with radio-transmitters by game commission biologists and Penn State graduate students. Deer will be captured using a variety of methods, including drop nets, walk-in traps, dart guns and helicopters.

Helicopter captures are being conducted by Hawkins & Powers Aviation Inc., based in Greybull, Wy. The company has been involved with other helicopter wildlife capture programs for moose, elk and wolves.

Specific project objectives are:

- Determine the survival of bucks from six months to 30 months of age. How many bucks do hunters harvest, what are other causes of mortality and are there regulation changes that might increase buck survival? Combined with the two-year joint Penn State-Game Commission fawn mortality study, this objective should shed additional light on mortality causes for deer.
- Monitor movements of bucks from six months to 30 months of age. How far do bucks disperse, when do they disperse and how many disperse?
- Monitor changes in male age structure because of antler restrictions. How does age affect antler size and how does breeding behavior change? Data already collected from studies in other states show that bucks grow their greatest sets of antlers between the ages of four and eight years. Other studies suggest that age and quality of habitat (nutrition) play significant roles in antler development, as do genetics.
- Evaluate hunter satisfaction with antler restrictions.

National Sustainable Agriculture Conference Set For North Carolina

GRIFFIN, Ga. — North Carolina has been selected as the site of a national sustainable agriculture conference Oct. 23-26, 2002.

On The Road to Sustainable Agriculture is the name of a rolling conference to be sponsored by the Southern Region Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education Program (SARE) in and around Raleigh-Durham. The event will arm farmers and rural communities with profitable solutions to the challenges of a changing agricultural landscape.

Participants will view some of that changing landscape through the windows of comfortable chartered buses as they travel to some of the most exciting farms, markets and research sites in the country. There will be plenty of small group interaction and one-on-one conversation as the conference rolls through land that was first farmed in the 1620s when Virginia planters moved south in search of new ground for tobacco. Today North Carolina is one of the most diversified agriculture states in the nation with 57,000 farmers growing 80 different crops and contributing $46 billion annually to the economy.

Because of its long agricultural history, many national farm problems first became evident in North Carolina. Likewise, many solutions have been discovered by innovative North Carolina farmers and researchers. Continued research has helped sustain agriculture as the state's number one industry. In fact researchers, extension agents, producers and grassroots organizations in North Carolina have conducted 166 SARE projects, far more than any other southern state, making it the prime site for a national conference. That research will be highlighted on the tours and during sessions at the Sheraton Imperial Hotel and Convention Center in Durham.

A committee is currently evaluating more than 100 farms, markets and research sites to find the best mix of tour stops. More details will be released as speakers and tour stops are confirmed. For updates visit the Southern SARE Website at http://www.griffin.peachnet.edu/sare or call Gwen Roland at (770) 412-4786.

Free Brochure Offered On CAFO Proposals

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — As the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency finalizes major changes to its farming and water quality regulations for large-scale animal operations, Penn State Cooperative Extension specialists have prepared a new fact sheet to help citizens take advantage of a new opportunity for public input.

"Shaping New EPA CAFO Rules: A Guide to the EPA's November 2001 Notice of Data Availability," is a fact sheet authored by Charles Abdalla, associate professor of agricultural economics, and Alyssa Dodd, extension associate in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. The publication explains the EPA's request for public feedback on regulations for large-scale animal agriculture or concentrated animal feeding operations (CAFO).

Based on comments received during an initial comment period for proposed changes (which ended in July 2001), EPA established an additional opportunity for public comment on specific aspects of the proposed CAFO rule through Jan. 15, 2002. The fact sheet addresses key areas for comment, how to obtain a copy of the notice and tips for preparing and submitting comments.

"People involved in animal agriculture — farmers, agribusiness, feed suppliers, processors and related businesses — will find the fact sheet useful, as will public decision-makers, elected officials and anyone interested in water quality and the environment," Abdalla says. "Township officials, for instance, need to know how the coming federal requirements will affect them.

"This additional public participation opportunity is specific to the comments and data received during the initial comment period for the proposed changes prior to July 2001," he explains. "Responders should be sure to focus on the 19 specific areas where the agency is soliciting comments. EPA is not seeking general comments on the proposed rule."

Abdalla says that the EPA's willingness to hear from all sources provides citizens with an extraordinary opportunity to take part in important public policymaking. "Everyone benefits from broader public participation, as it stimulates discussion and more perspectives," he says. "These are complex issues."

Copies of the fact sheet are available as an electronic PDF file on the Web at http://agenvpolicy.aers.psu.edu/CAFO/NODA.htm. To receive a paper copy or for further information, contact Abdalla at (814) 865-2562 or CAbdalla@psu.edu or Alyssa Dodd at (814) 863-5884 or ard108@psu.edu.

ASA Celebrates House Passage Of Trade Promotion Authority

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The American Soybean Association (ASA), a commodity trade group that represents U.S. soybean farmers, recently expressed appreciation upon learning that the U.S. House of Representatives passed H.R. 3005, which grants the President Trade Promotion Authority (TPA), on a vote of 215 to 214. Earlier, ASA called on all soybean producers to voice their support for passage of TPA, legislation that is critical to ensure the future profitability of U.S. soybean farmers.

ASA First Vice President Dwain Ford, a soybean and corn producer from Kinmundy, Ill., said "Trade Promotion Authority is extremely important to U.S. soybean producers from the standpoint that one out of every two rows of soybeans grown in the U.S. is exported in the form of a whole soybean or a soybean product. Over 95 percent of the world's population lives outside our borders, and U.S. soybean farmer prosperity is tied to growth in incomes and demand worldwide. Simply put, trade liberalization drives economic growth."

Passage of Trade Promotion Authority is essential if U.S. soybean farmers are to remain competitive in the world market. TPA strengthens the ability of the U.S. to negotiate positive trade agreements. It allows the Administration to negotiate trade agreements and then present them to Congress for an up-or-down vote. In the absence of TPA, other countries have refused to negotiate final agreements with the U.S.

Agriculture makes one of the largest contributions to the U.S. trade balance, and soybeans are the highest value farm export. Soybeans are grown on 28 percent of the planted area in the U.S. Exports of soybeans, soybean meal, and soybean oil totaled more than $7 billion last year. Agricultural exports help strengthen the U.S. economy.

State Game Lands Maps Now Available On Internet

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State game lands maps are now available online at the Pennsylvania Game Commission Website to accommodate technology-savvy and non-resident hunters according to Rep. Thomas E. Armstrong (R-98).

The maps can be accessed by visiting the Game Commission Website at www.pgc.state.pa.us and clicking on the "State Game Land Maps" icon.

The topographic maps, available in an Adobe Acrobat package to accommodate printing and viewing, depict contour lines, parking areas, trails, food plots and other useful features. They also have a zoom-in feature.

State game lands are listed on the Website by county. If portions of a game land are situated in more than county, it will be listed with all involved counties. From the table of contents, visitors can select either a low or high-resolution map. The high-resolution maps offer better quality, although they take longer to download.

The online maps showcase most of the more then 300 state game lands. As new maps are created or updated, they will be added to the Website.

The Game Commission began buying state game lands in 1920. In 1936, the game lands system topped 500,000 acres. In 1965, the agency's land holdings exceeded one million acres. Today, the system is greater in size than the state of Delaware.

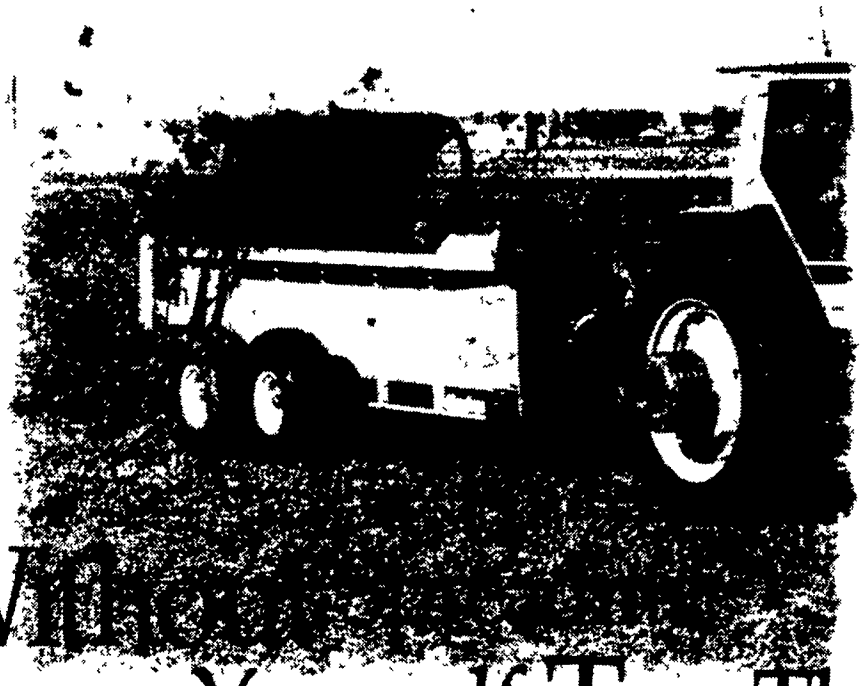
Match A Spreader To Your Needs



Without Yourself Too Thin

Get Unmatched Flexibility At A Great Price.

With eight sizes to choose from and a wide variety of options, it's easy to see how the New Idea® 3700 Series Spreaders meet the needs of any operation Their aggressive, main beater paddles are strategically spaced and angled to shred a wide range of material while giving you a consistent spread pattern

Culvert-grade galvanizing over one-piece, copper-bearing steel sides provide a barrier against rust and corrosion And for hauling long distances, the truck-mount option proves to be the safest, most economical way to transport large amounts of material

To see how simple it is to customize your spreading operation, contact your AGCO® New Idea dealer today You'll be surprised how much time and money you'll save with the New Idea 3700 Series Spreaders.

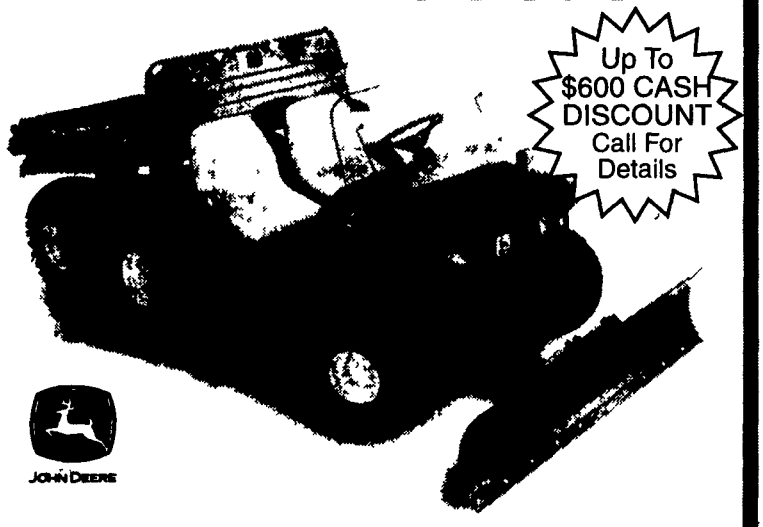
John Deere Gator Utility Vehicles

Anything you can do they can do better.



Whether you're plowing, transporting, dumping, or just getting from point A to point B, John Deere Gator™ Utility Vehicles do it best. Powered by gas or diesel engines, these rugged beasts come with 2 or 4-wheel drive, a maximum 1,400-pound payload, and a footprint of just 7.1 to 7.5 psi compared to 20 to 22 psi for competitive units. See your John Deere dealer today for a test-drive. And let your Gator Utility Vehicle do the work.

For 6x4 Diesel Includes 200-lb passenger 200-lb operator, and maximum box capacity

ISA Addresses Misconceptions About Tower Silos

MADISON, Wis. — At the International Silo Association's (ISA) annual meeting in December, the industry reported on many of the misconceptions held by the general agricultural community.

Chief among ISA's concerns is the perception that tower silos are slow filling and unloading. This perception was embodied in a quote printed in a dairy modernization guide. It read, "Upright silos...have limited value on large dairies because of the time required to fill and unload them."

According to ISA this simply is not true. Reports of silo unloaders with feeding rates exceeding 1,500 pounds per minute have been reported in major agricultural papers across the country. These speeds are due to advances in unloading called center discharge unloaders. Individual farmers using this unloading technology consistently report feeding times faster than those achieved when using horizontal storage methods.

In response to the slow filling rates, ISA says, the filling rates on towers exceed the rates possible using methods that require manual packing. ISA has reports of producers and custom harvesters across the country filling towers at speeds exceeding 100 tons per hour, and several who are filling at speeds over 150 tons per hour. These numbers have also been reported in major agricultural papers throughout the country.

Another perception that concerns ISA is the predominant school of thought in the area of dry matter losses in forage, also known as feed shrink. Recently, there has been a lot of talk about dry matter loss and the great costs associated with it. While most people understand that tower silos are very effective in reducing dry matter losses, the tower silo has not often been seen as a solution to this problem.

With the backing of multiple university based studies, ISA reports that when comparing the average dry matter losses in a tower silo with that of a bunker or pile, there is an average dry matter savings of nine percent. Multiple producers who have moved from horizontal storage to towers have reported to ISA that they have seen acreage savings up to 23 percent after the first year of use.

ISA also refutes the idea that it is expensive to unload from the tower silos. Citing an implement costs study put out by the University of Minnesota, they claim that there are actually significant savings in using an unloader to extract feed as opposed to a tractor, skid steer, or front-end loader. "You can run a 7.5 horsepower motor on an unloader for under a dollar an hour, or you can run a tractor at 10 to 20 dollars an hour," states ISA President Joe Shefchik. Shefchik goes on to say, "While unloaders may be more expensive than they used to be, the price is comparable or cheaper than the devices used to unload forage in horizontal storage."

Market Choices Campaign To Help Corn Growers

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — Working with grower groups and several other seed companies that offer biotech traits, Monsanto Company (NYSE MON) has introduced a new initiative to help growers more easily identify and market hybrids that are fully approved for food and feed use by the U.S. and Japan but have not yet been approved for import into Europe.

"The Market Choices program builds on the National Corn Growers Association's Know Before You Grow information service, which helps growers learn about my market restrictions on new seed technologies, says Doug Schemmer, who leads Monsanto's corn channeling effort. "This initiative is all about helping growers recognize appropriate markets their grain."

Growers who plant hybrids that are not yet approved in the European Union must feed that grain on-farm or find a market that does not ship grain processed products to Europe. That includes feedlots, feed mills and elevators that agree to accept the grain and direct it to appropriate markets.

The distinctive Market Choices symbol will appear in seed catalogs and seed-bag tags to advise growers that a hybrid carries a trait that is yet approved in Europe. Only seed technologies that have full food and feed approval in the U.S. and Japan are eligible for the Market Choices designation.

While Round Up Ready soybeans, YieldGard Corn Borer and several other biotech crops are accepted for food and feed uses in all key markets, Round Up Ready corn and YieldGard Corn Borer with Round Up Ready corn and still awaiting European regulatory approval.

The American Seed Trade Association Website (http://www.amseed.com) includes a lift of grain handlers' positions on accepting Round Up Ready corn. Anyone needing more information on grain marketing options can go to http://www.ncga.com/ or call 1-800-768-6387.

"U.S. growers need and deserve access to new technology tools as well markets for their crops," says Schemmer. "That's why Monsanto continues to research rootworm-resistant corn and other valuable seed traits, while honoring our pledge to only commercially launch new products that have received full food and feed approval in the U.S. and Japan."

Dairy Producers, Experts Pick Top Challenges, Information Needs

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — When identifying the top challenges and information needs for 2002, dairy producers and industry experts focused on management practices that have a primary influence on improved milk production, according to a recent survey.

The survey, sponsored by Monsanto Company, asked participants to rate various management practices according to level of challenge and the producer's desire for additional information. Approximately 102 producers and 110 industry experts from throughout the U.S. participated.

According to survey results, the top five most challenging dairy management practices for their clients, as ranked by veterinarians, nutritionists, and other industry experts, were consistent with the practices identified by producers as their top information needs for 2002.

The top five areas for information needs were nutrition; cow comfort; heat detection; early and high peak milk production; and persistency of production.

"Producers know their cash flow depends on increasing milk production," said Dr. Wayne Weiland, D.V.M., director, technical services for Monsanto. "Closely managing all the factors which enable a cow to reach peak production as soon as possible after calving and maintaining high levels of production can have a huge impact on profitability."

According to Weiland, producers should rely on their extended management team for the information and core technologies to efficiently manage the factors that impact peak milk production. "We're committed to providing producers and their management teams with the information and resources needed for success," he said.

Let's face it. Employers want experience.

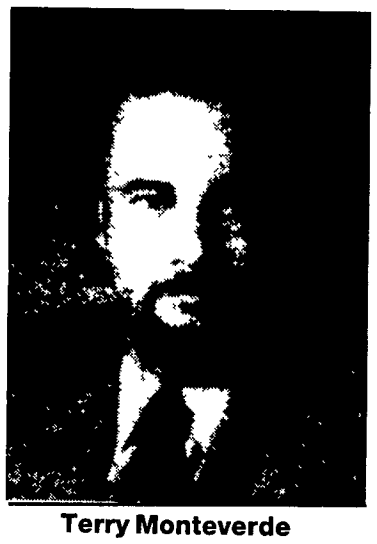
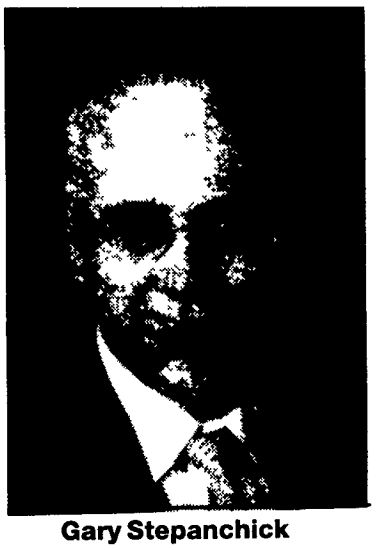
MidAtlantic Farm Credit Expands Staff In Lancaster Area



Terry Monteverde



Gary Stepanchick

WESTMINSTER, Md. — Jeff Tyson, regional vice president for MidAtlantic Farm Credit's Penn region, has announced the addition of Terrence Monteverde and Gary Stepanchick to the credit department located in Lancaster. Both will hold the position of credit analyst.

"I think we've found two very strong team players for MidAtlantic," said Tyson. "Monteverde will be a great addition to the staff with his commercial banking background, and Stepanchick brings 16 years of Farm Credit experience to the position."

Monteverde is from Hershey and currently resides in Hummelstown. He is a graduate of Hershey High School, Washington & Jefferson College (Washington) and earned his MBA from Lebanon Valley College (Annville). He is married and has one son. He serves as a PIAA basketball official and serves as treasurer of The Wednesday Club.

Stepanchick is from Lancaster where he resides with his wife and three children. He attended J.P. McCaskey High School (Lancaster) and Elizabethtown College. He has served on the board of HYA Hempfield Youth Sports. He enjoys reading, exercising, and coaching youth sports in his spare time.

Select Sires Hires Carroll As Sire Analyst

PLAIN CITY, Ohio — Select Sires has announced the hiring of Daniel Carroll as its new sire analyst. In this role he will manage animal photography for the Select federation and help coordinate tours. In addition, Carroll will assist with training and servicing the Select Mating Service (SMS™) program needs. He will relocate to Select Sires' headquarters in Plain City, Ohio.

Most recently, Carroll was dairy herd supervisor at Cedar Lane Farm, Oldwick, N.J., coordinating a workforce to care for 300 Holsteins, Jerseys and Brown Swiss. Before that he worked as a dairy procurement specialist and a sire analyst for two other artificial insemination companies, purchasing Holstein and high-component breed bulls, acquiring embryos, providing a corrective-mating service for producers and selecting picturable progeny for use in sire directories.

Carroll, who grew up on a 140-head dairy, Carroll-Way Farm, Dodge Center, Minn., holds a bachelor's of science degree in animal and plant systems from the University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minn., along with an associate's degree in applied sciences, in livestock production from the University of Minnesota, Waseca, Minn.

Select Sires is a federation of 10 farmer-owned and controlled cooperatives, serving the largest number of cooperative members in the United States. It provides excellence in sires, service and programs to achieve its basic objective of supplying livestock breeders with America's best genetics at a reasonable price.

Keystone Farm Show Jan. 8-10

YORK (York Co.) — The 2002 Keystone Farm Show will feature about 400 exhibitors at the York Fair Grounds, Jan. 8-10.

Called "The Farm Show for Farmers," the Keystone has gained the reputation as being a show designed expressly for agribusiness people. Entry to the show requires tickets that have been obtained at farm dealers and suppliers who regularly trade with farm families. Many of the exhibitors are ticket suppliers for their marketing areas.

Recognizing the need for a trade show that offers farmers and farm suppliers the opportunity to meet and discuss business, Lee Publications Trade Show Division began in 1998 to set into motion an invitational farm show that would appeal to farmers and exhibitors alike.

"We wanted to target farmers, and give them a show that was designed expressly for them," said Bruce Button, Lee Publications general manager.

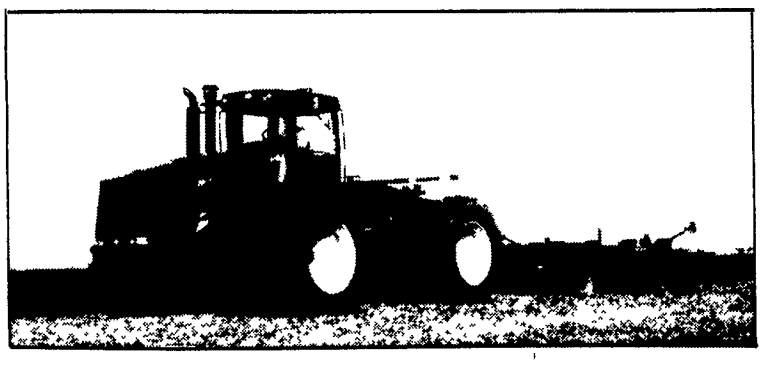
Said Button, "We chose the York Fair Grounds because of its central location to Mid-Atlantic agriculture. This year we will have nearly 400 exhibitors that will be able to spend three full days dealing exclusively with visitors who are solely involved in agriculture.

With plenty of free parking, visitors will appreciate the convenience of being able to park near the exhibit buildings. This year, the Keystone Farm Show will feature added visitor conveniences. In addition to the familiar shuttle bus that transports attendees from building to building during show hours, visitors will be able to enjoy additional treats at a tent loaded with food concessions.

One of the most popular events, the annual Skid Steer Rodeo will be conducted in an outdoor arena during Wednesday's activities. It offers them an opportunity to "test drive" several brands of new skid-steer loaders under actual working conditions. As always, prizes will be awarded to the top competitors.

The 2002 Keystone Farm Show is open Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 8-9, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Thursday, Jan. 10, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Admission tickets are available at local participating farm dealers.

New Case IH STX Tractors Boost Horsepower



Higher horsepower ratings are available on two new 2002 models of Case IH STX Series Steiger tractors. The STX450 (shown) offers 450 engine hp, the industry's highest horsepower rating.

RACINE, Wis. — To better meet customer needs for increased horsepower and productivity, Case IH introduces two new STX Series Steiger® tractors.

The new models are the STX450, which offers the industry's highest horsepower rating of 450 engine hp; and the STX425, a new addition to the Case IH four-wheel-drive family that delivers 425 engine hp. They complete the STX 4WD tractor line, which now encompasses five models.

"These two new models add new dimensions to 4WD power and performance," says Randy Wood, Case IH product marketing manager for Steiger and Magnum® tractors. "In the STX line, we continue to offer today's most advanced 4WD tractors, and the industry's highest engine and drawbar horsepower."

The new STX models offer options to match a wide variety of customer needs:

- The STX450 is equipped with a standard 16-speed full powershift transmission and in wheeled and Quadtrac® versions. Both versions also are available in scraper configurations.
- The new STX425 offers an optional 24-speed fully synchronized manual transmission on the wheeled agricultural version. The STX425 also can be ordered with the 16-speed full powershift transmission in wheeled and Quadtrac versions.

"From the start, our goal with this line was to find ways to help our customers maximize their productivity," Wood adds. "Operators have asked for an additional model offering the 24-speed manual transmission, so we've added that option to the new STX425 tractor."

STX Series tractors have led the market in 4WD technology since their 2000 introduction. With advancements in steering, diagnostics, track design, comfort and serviceability, STX Series Steiger tractors are designed to help farmers maximize their productivity.

"The STX Series design originated with input from more than 2,200 farmers," says Wood. "Our engineers used their ideas to build a highly productive tractor line."

STX Series tractors answer the traditional need for power and productivity. All five STX Series models — which also include the STX275 (275 engine hp), STX325 (325 engine hp), and STX375 (375 engine hp) — feature full-authority fuel injection engines to monitor and continuously optimize engine performance, increasing productivity and efficiency.

"Farmers told us they didn't just want more horsepower — they wanted a tractor that puts power on the ground better," notes Wood. "Because of their design, STX Series tractors effectively transfer power to where farmers need it most."

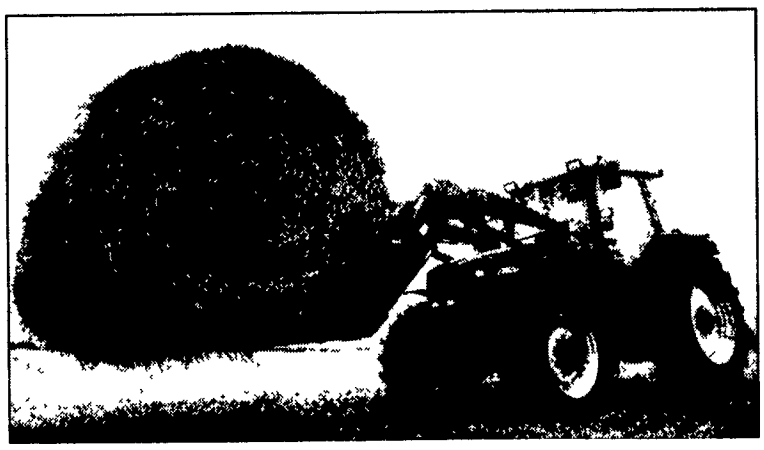
Massey Ferguson Offers New MF6200 Series Tractors

ATLANTA, Ga. — Massey Ferguson has introduced a new 32-speed Dynashuttle™ transmission with AutoDrive™, new QuadLink™ 4WD Front Suspension, and new Remote Management System with joystick control, adds more versatility, maneuverability, operator comfort and productivity to MF 6200 Series tractors.

"Massey Ferguson 6200's are located with productive standard and optional features you'd expect to find only on higher horsepower tractors," says Mark DeMaine, Massey Ferguson marketing manager. "These mid-size row crop tractors do everything from utility work to planting, tillage, loader and haying operations — and they do it more efficiently and more economically.

"The wide choice of sizes, features, wheels, and tires, and attachments, make it easy for customers to match these tractors to many different applications and needs," adds DeMaine.

MF 6200 Series offers six models from 75 to 120 PTO HP, and are available in cab and platform versions in two- and four-wheel drive configurations. Power is supplied by Perkins 1000 Series four- and six-cylinder diesel engines with Fastram™ combustion technology that improves air swirl in the cylinder head to convert more fuel into productive horsepower. Fastram design improves engine life and efficiency while reducing noise and emissions to meet environmental standards.



Massey Ferguson 6200 Series tractors, 75 to 120 PTO HP, feature new transmissions, 4WD suspension, performance hydraulics and automatic control systems.

Engines, cooling systems, drive trains and hydraulic systems are matched to tractor size and horsepower to maximize efficiencies through the transmission and deliver up to 95 percent of their engine horsepower to the wheels and PTO. With more engine power available as "useable power," everyday tractor operations are more productive and efficient.

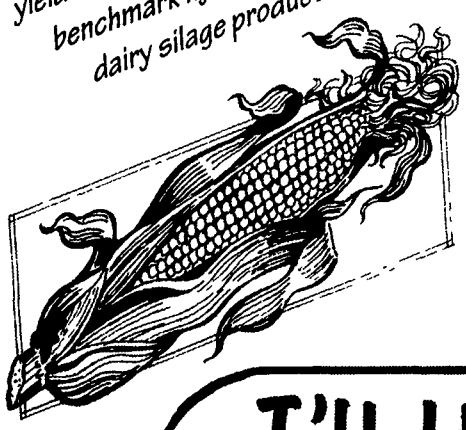
HYTEST® SEEDS Corn Menu

Introducing our TNT "Top Nutrition and Tonnage" Corn Silage Selections

TNT-100RR

Roundup Ready® CORN

is a Roundup Ready®, 100-day specialty silage corn offering exceptional silage yield and quality. Destined to be the benchmark hybrid for eastern dairy silage production.



Try these top performers from the HYTEST Menu:

HT4602

is a 102-day dual-purpose favorite for its high tonnage combined with excellent silage quality on an IVTD basis. (Available in Roundup Ready for 2002.)

HT7712

is the benchmark for eastern silage production in 112-day maturity. Consistently delivers high tonnage combined with high quality silage on an IVTD basis.

HT7747RR

Roundup Ready® CORN

combines high yield and high quality forage with Roundup Ready herbicide tolerance at 113-day maturity.

Dairy cows prefer "Hybrids Built to Feed" from HYTEST® Seeds. Delivering high yields, more energy and consistent higher whole plant digestibility utilizing In Vitro True Digestibility (IVTD) technology, feeding HYTEST hybrids has shown increased milk production in dairy herds. Rural Economy

Cost-efficient Centurydrain® roofing and siding is on some of the best looking buildings in the country.

Build with Centurydrain roofing and siding and you've built a money-wise structure. Full-hard, high tensile galvanized steel, and an exclusive drain channel for a dry interior give you a building that'll handle years of hard duty and hard weather. Good looking, too. Crisp lines and plenty of bright, long-lasting colors make Wheeling Centurydrain as handsome as it is economical.

Waterbeds for Cows

ALANTA™ — A member of the LimiPoly group of companies

The ALANTA Waterbed for cows is a revolutionary product, comfortable, safe and hygienic. It clearly improves your cows' well-being and therefore promotes higher milk production. It is the ultimate stall floor covering for the modern, animal-friendly dairy farm.

WELL MADE
The ALANTA Waterbed is made of two rubber layers with a water-filled compartment in between. GD-Enerka gives a 10-year guarantee.

COMFORTABLE
The waterbed molds itself to the cow's shape. It's cool in summer and pleasantly warm in winter.

SAFE
Thanks to the non-slip rubber upper surface, the cow is gripped firmly and cannot slip off. In this way the ALANTA waterbed keeps damage to hooves to a minimum.

BEST BLOOM
100%-Pure Unprocessed Corn Oil
Are you getting horses ready to sell or show? Do you like to keep your horse's in full bloom smooth and sleek? Do you like the idea of having a first glance at your horse's result in an appreciative full look? And most important, does saving money appeal to you?
You don't need to spend those big bucks on all those fancy feed additives. Two or three pumps on top of your horse's feed morning and evening (depending on his size) will put on the bloom that you love. When used with good feeds and a regular worming program
Best Bloom will do the job!!

One gallon with pump	$13.95
Five gallon container	$39.95

Let us answer your questions about roasting grain.
* What are the benefits and results of roasting corn?
* What place do roasted beans have in the dairy ration?
* Why should I roast my barley?
* What is unique about roasting over other methods of heat processed grains?
* How can I reduce my over-all feed costs?

Attention: Swine and Poultry Producers Announcing
Crude Soy Oil Now Available
With the addition of our new soybean processing facility, we now offer soybean oil as an animal nutrition product. Processing the soybeans ourselves allows us to utilize locally grown soybeans and support our local agricultural community!

Crude Soybean Oil
A product of Keystone's expelling process, this oil can be used in a wide variety of on farm applications. Crude soy oil is a natural alternative to animal fats and provides needed energy in various rations.

Uses of Crude Soy Oil Include:
- Use as a high energy feed ingredient in swine and poultry diets.
- Especially useful in sow lactation diets, pig starter and grow/finish diets.
- Used as an added energy source in broiler, turkey and layer feeds.
- Can be used for dust control purposes.
- Can be used as a lubricant for feeding systems

Advantages of Crude Soy Oil:
- Use as a direct replacement for animal fat
- Vegetable based product
- Holding tank does not need to be heated if temperature is above 30 degrees, which reduces storage and handling costs compared to animal fat
- Bulk delivery, partial loads available direct to farm by Keystone Mills
- Customer may pick up to save delivery costs

Other Soy Products Available:
- Keystone offers Golden Pro 46 XP which is 46% protein - 6-7% oil, Golden Meal 40 which is 40% crude protein with 18% oil

Keystone Mills Soybean Exchange Program
- We will take your soybeans in trade for Golden ProXP 46, Golden Meal 40.
- Contact Keystone Mills for details on our soybean exchange program featuring these quality nutritional products

ALFALFA SEED $1.55/Lb.
from the Dakota's Trask Family Seeds
- Features grower-to-grower direct seed sales
- SDSU tested
- Offered to growers for $1.55/per lb. in 60 lb bags plus freight
- Varieties: S.D. Common, Vernal and others.
- These Alfalfa varieties are proven to compete with the expensive varieties in all conditions and always carry our money back guarantee.

PA farmers have great hay crops with South Dakota alfalfa seed. Emery Zimmerman, Mifflin, PA says, "The South Dakota seed we planted in late April. It's good and thick, has good height, makes good haylage and excellent dry hay. Protein test 21.6 and RFV 132."

Join the numerous farmers in the PA/NY area harvesting wonderful alfalfa from South Dakota seed.

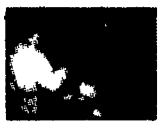
placed in the Pennsylvania Academy of Family Physicians magazine. It served as a bold reminder of beef's powerpack of nutrients that could be included in a healthy diet.

Farm Show Veal Sampling

Once again, checkoff teamed up with the Pennsylvania Veal Producers Association to sample veal at the Pennsylvania Farm Show. Volunteers from the producer group sampled more than 19,000 veal meatballs and distributed veal recipes and industry information to farm show attendees during the six-day event.



"Beefing Up" The Blood Supply

This year, the Beef Council worked to "beef up" the blood supply in Pennsylvania. Research shows that more than 35% of eligible blood donors in Central Pennsylvania are deferred because of low iron levels. Beef, a rich source of iron, zinc and protein, is a natural fit at blood drives; everyone who attempted to donate blood received a beef sandwich at two-summer blood drives

Beef 201 Seminar

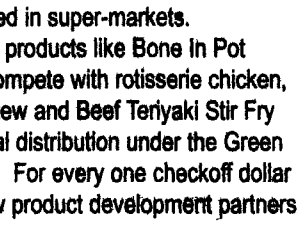
An educational seminar for Pennsylvania beef producers, processors and agri-business r took place in State Colle had the opportuni t all aspects of the beef ng live cattle evaluation, cessing, retail and opportunities.

Quality Assurance Certification Program

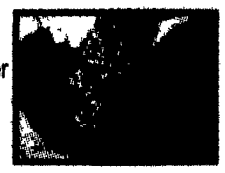
The Beef Council in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association implemented the Pennsylvania Beef Quality Assurance Certification Program. The program was designed to train beef and dairy producers in best management practices in order to ensure a safe and wholesome beef product for consumers. More than 700 producers attended BQA meetings and 400 have completed the ongoing certification process.

National Programs

At the close of fiscal year 2001, beef demand is growing after nearly 20 years of decline Ten of the past twelve economic quarters have seen an increase in beef demand and consumer confidence in the safety of beef is at a near-record high of 86 percent. And although world events set in motion Sept. 11 may make the global economy uncertain, beef checkoff dollars will continue to be invested in an industrywide long-range plan that emphasizes beef's convenience and nutrition through promotion, research and information programs, like those highlighted in this annual report.



New Product Development - Checkoff-supported heat and eat beef dishes add value to underutilized beef cuts and provide consumers with desired convenience. Farmland® and Timber Ridge Farms® launched checkoff-developed Ground Beef Crumbles, while the Value Steak line was introduced in super-markets. Convenience products like Bone In Pot Roast now compete with rotisserie chicken, while Beef Stew and Beef Teriyaki Stir Fry are in national distribution under the Green Giant® brand. For every one checkoff dollar invested, new product development partners invest $5.

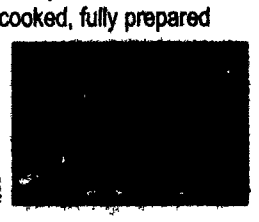


Veal - Veal public relations efforts targeted foodservice publications and in the first nine months of 2001 resulted in nearly $710,000 in placements of veal articles, recipes and photos in consumer publications, which did not require an additional checkoff investment.

Beef Safety - A new cattle washing study is addressing findings of a National Beef Quality Audit, which discovered as many as 78 percent of cattle had manure contamination on their hides that may transfer to carcasses during processing In another research project, 475 consumers evaluated irradiated and non-irradiated hamburger patties Consumers' predisposition to irradiation was quantified, as well as the influences needed to change attitudes toward irradiated meats

Total Exports - Beef checkoff dollars help American beef producers promote their product to the growing world market. The U.S. is the world's top beef supplier with about 10 percent of U.S. beef production being exported. U.S. beef and beef variety meats exports have increased 325 percent in volume and 393 percent in value over the past 15 years.

Advertising - Awareness of "Beef. It's What's For Dinner.®" convenience and nutrition advertising reached an all time high of 86 percent this year. Convenience ads featured fully cooked, fully prepared beef dishes, while nutrition spots reinforced beef's wholesome goodness to its target audience of women ages 25-54. This year, more than 56 million women were exposed to beef messages through TV, radio and print an average of nearly 17 times.



Youth Education - This year, nearly 48,000 teachers received age-appropriate student nutrition education materials. Weekly, about 5,800 youth visit BurgerTown.com, where beef nutrition games and information are featured and a new area titled "Sasha's Corner" ties in youth public relations efforts with beef nutrition spokesperson and figure skating sensation Sasha Cohen.

246 Pennsylvania FFA Members Earn Keystone Degrees

MILLIE BUNTING
Market Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Highlighting the annual Mid-Winter Convention of the Pennsylvania FFA will be the presentations of the esteemed Keystone FFA Degree to 246 members.

The awards ceremony will take place Monday, Jan. 7, in the Large Arena of the Farm Show Complex from 4 p.m.-6 p.m.

No other single event in the Pennsylvania Farm Show exemplifies that our future in agriculture and agribusiness is looking good as does the assembly of blue-jacketed young men and women who have earned the state FFA Keystone Degree. They are an impressive sight.

In addition to their families and friends and agribusiness supporters, the event is open to the public. Many farm show go'ers can "sit in" on the ceremony and join in congratulating the FFA'ers who have fulfilled the requirements for a Keystone Degree.

"Soaring Above And Beyond" is the theme for this year's state FFA convention. Judging by the accomplishments of this year's Keystone recipients, the FFA members are currently doing that very well.

Out of about 8,000 FFA members statewide, only three to four percent each year qualify for the Keystone Degree. Only high school seniors or graduates are eligible to apply. They must have demonstrated leadership abilities and have must have participated in the supervised agricultural experience (SAE) program.

From the 246 Keystone Degree achievers, four state stars will be chosen to compete for the state star award. One person is chosen from each of the four regions after being evaluated on four star areas.

Comprising the four star areas are production agriculture; agricultural sales and service and mechanics; horticulture; and specialized agriculture which includes forestry, natural resources, and other nontraditional agricultural endeavors.

Throughout the year, Lancaster Farming covers many of the events and activities of the 148 FFA chapters in the state. We continually see the efforts and achievements of the blue-jacketed young people who strive to follow the FFA motto, 12 words to live by — "Learning to Do, Doing to Learn, Earning to Live, Living to Serve." We congratulate the FFA members and wish them continued success in the future.

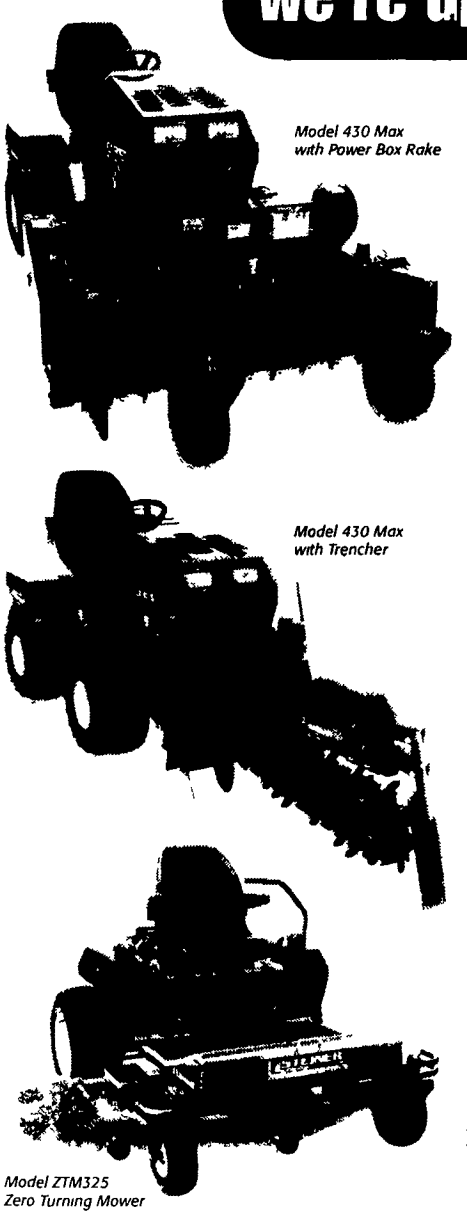
Down on the farm, we're up for every job.



We build Steiners in the heart of Ohio farm country And we know that on a farm, there are about a hundred things that need to be done every minute of every day That's why we engineer Steiner tractors to provide performance and versatility you can count on
Take our most popular model, the Steiner 430 Max With your choice of four powerful engines and full-time 4-wheel drive, the 430 Max has what it takes to get through the toughest jobs And with an articulated frame that's hinged in the middle, the 430 Max runs circles around traditional tractors
If you want a Steiner with some real "pull," check out the front-drive 230 With rear power steering and your choice of three engines, you'll have all the muscle and maneuverability you need to get the job done right
Whether you choose 4wd or front-drive, you'll quickly discover that the real beauty of a Steiner tractor is its versatility With more than two-dozen Quick-Hitch™ attachments, a Steiner can take on a new task in five minutes or less That means you can count on your Steiner to handle lots of tough jobs in and around the farm, from stump cutting to snow blowing
We build every Steiner as if we were going to use it ourselves Don't settle for anything less Financing available through Sheffield Financial Corporation

NOTHING WORKS HARDER

Look for us at the Pennsylvania Farm and Keystone Farm Shows, January 5-10.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY

Dear Friends

Greetings from the Secretary of Agriculture

Welcome to the 86th edition of the Pennsylvania Farm Show being hosted by the Department of Agriculture. The very best of Pennsylvania agriculture is on display at this year's extravaganza

Pennsylvania Agriculture has Products for the Planet, and many of these products are on display at the Farm Show. To lead agriculture through the 21st century, the Department of Agriculture has commenced a massive construction project at our Farm Show Complex The present facility is great The new construction will make it even greater This commitment is being made so we can showcase agriculture as our leading industry in Pennsylvania The men and women of agriculture work very hard to provide society with an abundance of products that make it possible for us to enjoy the best of times

Our youth get a good start on life at the Farm Show Farmers and agri-business highlight their legacy of agricultural excellence at the PA Farm Show People from across Pennsylvania and beyond come to see the best of agriculture in all of its many aspects From exhibitors to vendors to volunteers to visitors, the PA Farm Show brings everyone together in a tapestry that reflects all of Pennsylvania And this woven fabric about Pennsylvania and its agriculture is wholesome and good.

The Farm Show provides an opportunity for all of Pennsylvania to celebrate our great agricultural heritage. As the Secretary of Agriculture, I am very proud and appreciative You are most welcome to be with us. Hope to see you at the PA Farm Show!

With warm personal regards, I remain

Sincerely,

SAMUEL E HAYES, JR

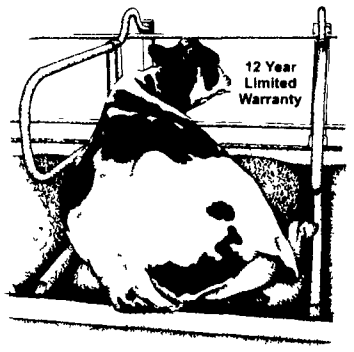
Waterbeds for Cows



ALANTA™ UniPoly

The ALANTA Waterbed for cows is a revolutionary product, comfortable, safe and hygienic It clearly improves your cows' well-being and therefore promotes higher milk production. It is the ultimate stall floor covering for the modern, animal-friendly dairy farm

WELL MADE
The ALANTA Waterbed is made of two rubber layers with a water-filled compartment in between GD-Enerka gives a 12-year guarantee

COMFORTABLE
The waterbed molds itself to the cow's shape It's cool in summer and pleasantly warm in winter

SAFE
Thanks to the non-slip rubber upper surface, the cow is gripped firmly and cannot slip off In this way the ALANTA waterbed keeps damage to hooves to a minimum

J-STAR

YOUR ALL-IN-ONE FARMSTEAD EQUIPMENT SOURCE

Award-Winning Chef?

(HIS COWS THINK SO!)

HAY SAW processor

Oswalt's New Hay Saw™ Processor -
Turns long stemmed hay into a blended and highly digestible dairy ration. You control the length of cut by simply regulating the mixing time. Save time and fuel, and extend auger life.

Available on most Oswalt Models

Give your livestock a menu they'll really like with an Oswalt four-auger mixer. Oswalt has the right size mixer to fit your operation to a "T". Twelve models in all, in capacities from 150 to 950 cu ft.

With Oswalt you can make the best use of every feed source ..including baled hay. And no other mixer is built as strong to out-perform and out-last the competition.

Nothing Performs Like an Oswalt!

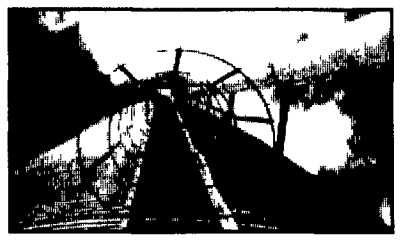
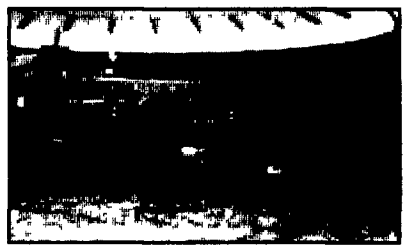
Silo Unloader Technology Takes a Giant Leap Forward!

BIG JIM. Quantum™ SYSTEM

TOWER SILOS REALLY MEASURE UP!





Measure for measure, nothing beats a tower silo for storing forage. Just compare them to bunkers which have up to 45% storage loss, lower capacity, increased labor and lots of inconvenience.

Towers lose just 3% to 7% because of gravity, feed weight and a good unloader like the Big Jim QUANTUM System.

QUANTUM can be installed in any type of 20' to 30' forage silo... conventional or oxygen limited and will make your tower silo even better!

VOLUMAXX

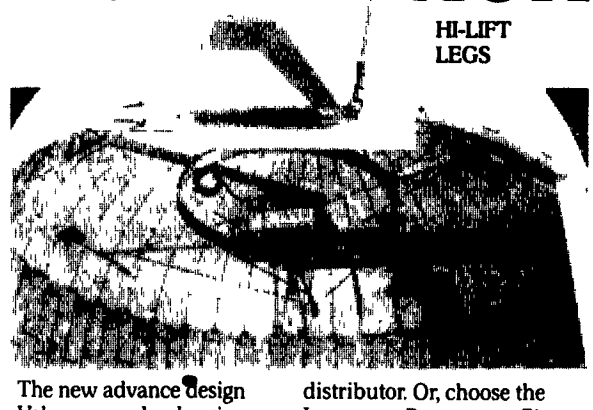
HI-LIFT LEGS



The new advance design Volumaxx unloader gives you the best of both worlds... your choice of distribution. New HI-LIFT legs let you raise the unloader an extra 15" into the silo roof, so you can use a conventional side distributor. Or, choose the Jamesway Powermaxx™ broad pan silage distributor. With proper distribution, you'll have better quality feed, and you'll increase your silo's capacity up to 35%. And we can prove it!

Volumaxx™ unloader. Expect the best from the leader.

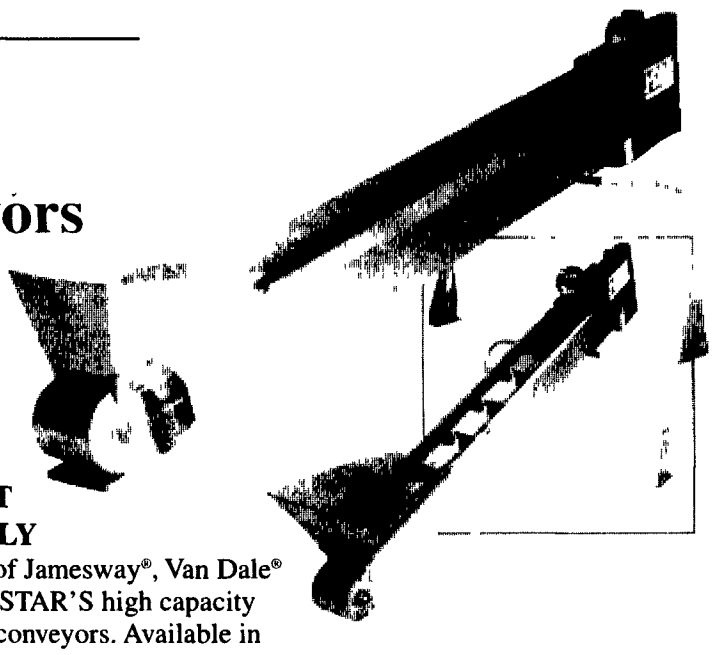
Single Chain Conveyors



MOVE TONS OF FEED FAST & EFFICIENTLY

Now get the best of Jamesway®, Van Dale® and Starline® in J-STAR'S high capacity single chain feed conveyors. Available in 9" and 11" models to match distances up to 150', their belt and chain reduction drive is factory pre-assembled for easy installation. The 9" conveyor has #62 steel chain with metal backed rubber flights; 11" has 667H pintle chain and rubber flights. Both models also feature safety/service shutoff switch conveniently located on conveyor drive.

For high capacity feed conveying that offers you built-in flexibility, look no further than the one name that says it all – J-STAR.

activities, playing volleyball in the church community league, and being involved in the church musical groups. I also enjoyed attending the PCC (Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives) conference and the NICE (National Institute on Cooperative Education) conference in Nashville, Tenn.

Committee Memberships I've Enjoyed: I've been chairman and member of the finance/economics committees as well as a member of the ag awareness committee and the public relations committee.

My Favorite Experience In FFA: My favorite experience in the FFA was attending the 72nd annual National FFA Convention in Louisville, Ky. During the convention I participated in the parliamentary procedure contest as well as attending the different sessions and the concert.

What I Hope To Accomplish In The Future: I hope to either be a FFA state officer and attend a four-year college, or to go directly into college after high school.

The Career I'd Most Like To Have: Dairy farmer.

Things I Most Enjoy About Being An FFA Member: I enjoy meeting new people and making friends, and I enjoy the leadership skills that the FFA has provided through public speaking, parliamentary procedure, and leadership conferences. I also enjoyed attending Penn State activities week and the ACES conference.

Sarah Krall

My Chapter: Cedar Crest FFA.

How Old I Am: 18.

Parents' Names: Rick and Linda Krall.

Where I Live: Lebanon.

The Offices I've Held: Chapter chaplain, chapter secretary, county reporter, and county sentinel.

These Are My Favorite Activities: Showing dairy cows through 4-H and FFA, working on the farm, being involved in 4-H and spending time with my friends.

Committee Memberships I've Enjoyed: Support group committee chairman and member of the scholarship committee and the supervised agricultural experience committee.

My Favorite Experience In FFA: Attending the 2000 National FFA Convention in Louisville, Ky.

What I Hope To Accomplish In The Future: Attend college and get a good education, graduate, and find a job that I enjoy.

The Career I'd Most Like To Have: Large animal veterinarian.

Things I Most Enjoy About Being An FFA Member: Going to conferences and getting to meet people from all over the state.

Beth Kreider

My Chapter: Cedar Crest.

How Old I Am: 18.

Parents' Names: Harold and Barbara Kreider.

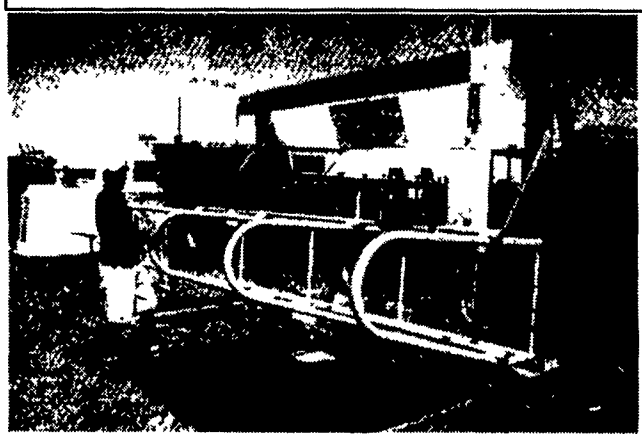
Building New or Remodeling?
NEW CLUSTER FREE STALLS



- Suspended from the barn rafters by free swinging chains to avoid cow entanglement.
- Free swinging feature eliminates injury to cows and also any damage to the stalls.
- Decreases the occurrence of cow bruises enhancing milk production capabilities
- Powder coated with 20 year rust thru guarantee.
- Fully adjustable neck rail.
- Fully adjustable brisket rail.
- Available up to a 4 bed cluster
- Patented

Cluster Free Stalls are easily installed in new or remodeled barns. The free stalls "hanging" from barn rafters provide many advantages to help keep cows safe and healthy By using suspended free stalls, cows are less likely to obtain bruises. Thus all their energy can be concentrated towards increased milk production. The design of the stall allows it to swing up, down or back out of the way of the cow. Because they swing freely, the stalls can withstand the force of animal contact And because they are powder coated, they require little maintenance.

Think Long Term
Brock's Perforated Plank Floors for in-bin aeration and drying
Brock's LATCH-LOCK® Walk-Through Door gives easy bin access

Different by Design

Thinking about long-term, high-quality grain storage? Your best buy is a grain storage and handling system from Brock Grain and Feed Systems. Brock is different by design in offering you:

- More models and choices with farm and commercial bins from 15 to 105 feet in diameter and hopper-bottom holding bins from 9 to 36 feet in diameter.
- More user-friendly features and built-in value like Brock's aeration floor and walk-through door (see above).
- Professional service from planning to installation . . . and beyond.

Brock is the first choice of grain producers who care about the quality, performance, and security required for long-term grain storage and handling. Contact us today for more information about the differences BROCK and our team of professionals can provide for you.

What's In Store At This Year's Farm Show

This year at the Farm Show come to enjoy the features you look for every year plus check out the new additions to the event. This year you'll find:

• Animals on Display - over 5,000 head of sheep, swine horses, cattle, goats, and rabbits are expected for competition. Always in the limelight, our livestock shows and sales attract exhibitors and visitors from all corners of the commonwealth.

• Butter Sculpture - The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program will sponsor another life-size butter sculpture. This will be located in the East Lobby.

• Commercial Exhibitors - You will see this year's newest innovation in farm equipment, services, and products, and learn more about them from representatives of over 325 companies with exhibits around the complex.

• Cooking Demonstrations are an ongoing feature in the Food Pantry throughout the week.

• Educational Exhibits - Government agencies, universities, and agricultural organizations always offer Farm Show visitors valuable information on their services and activities. Visitors can talk with representatives of these groups and get firsthand information, on a multitude of subjects.

• Family Living and Agricultural Learning Center - One acre of family living, horticultural, environmental and 4-H and FFA exhibits are located in the Family Living and Agricultural Center.

These interesting presentations are featured on stage on the second floor of the Northeast Building.

• Food Court - Eleven Pennsylvania commodity associations offer their specialties for sale in the orange East Building. Featuring the tastes of Pennsylvania's finest agricultural products, the famous Farm Show Food Court is one place you'll want to visit again and again.

• Food Pantry - The Food Pantry in the West Lobby features hundreds of items produced and processed in Pennsylvania. Cooking demonstrations are presented several times each day, as culinary students incorporate many of the products on display into their favorite recipes.

• 4-H Exhibits - Food and nutrition, clothing and textiles, crafts, child care, animal science and entomology, photography, woodworking, gardening and wildlife are some of the project categories that 4-H club members can submit for judging in the Family Living department.

• Horticulture Center - You are sure to find inspiration for your own landscaping projects when you see what our FFA members have done with their landscape exhibits located throughout the second floor of the Northeast Building, Family Living and Agricultural Learning Center.

• Hours - Farm Show hours are now 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. every day except Thursday, when the show closes at 4 p.m. The blue Main Building with commercial exhibits opens one hour later and closes one hour earlier than the rest of the Farm Show Complex.

• Milking Parlor - Hundreds of cows are milked twice a day in a modern milking parlor in the red North Building. Unique among dairy shows, this facility is approved by state milk sanitarians for the production and sale of fluid milk. The milk is inspected, cooled, and pumped onto bulk tanks for sale through normal market channels, with proceeds going back to the Farm Show exhibitors.

• Pennsylvania Food Market - The Food Market features a variety of Pennsylvania companies promoting their own snack foods, candy, spices, processed meats, condiments and beverages through sales and sampling. The Food market has moved to a new location in the Southwest Corner of the Main Exhibition area. This popular exhibit was previously located in the Maclay Street Lobby.

• Rodeo - Youth champions from around the state will compete in two separate rodeos on Saturday. Sanctioned by the Pennsylvania High School Rodeo Association, classes are posted for team roping, saddle and bareback riding, bull riding, steer wrestling, calf roping, breakaway roping, goat tying, pole bending and barrel racing.

• School Activities - Vo-ag students from Pennsylvania high schools compete for a slice of the Farm Show prize money with a variety of demonstrations and exhibits. Eighteen educational window exhibits can be found on the lower concourse of the Large Arena, while interesting landscape exhibits and horticultural exhibits can be found in the Family Living and Agricultural Learning Center. Both 4-H and FFA student demonstrations during the week on the stages of the Family Living and Agricultural Learning Center.

• Shaver's Creek Environmental Center - You can see birds of prey, turtles, snakes, spiders, toads, honeybees, skulls and skins in this educational display geared toward children. This interactive exhibit is open all week in the Family Living and Agricultural Learning Center.

• Supreme Champions - Selections of the prestigious 2001 Pennsylvania Farm Show Supreme Champions will be made for draft horses, swine, dairy cattle, beef cattle, sheep wool breeds and meat breeds after the last breed is judged in each department.
